BLOODY TERRORS OF RED PRISONS REVEALED

Expect to Charge Hightower With Murder of Rev. Heslin

RENTED CAR, CLUE; POLICE GUARDING JAIL APPROACHES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—William Hightower, an itinerant baker, underwent an all-day grilling, but the police said tonight he had made no admission of responsibility for the death of the Rev. Patrick Heslin, Colma priest, to whose grave by the roadside, he led a party of officers and newspaper men last night.

A formal charge of murder probably will be placed tomorrow against Hightower, it was stated tonight by Dist.-Atty. F. Swart of San Mateo county, and Capt. of Detectives Duncan Matheson of the San Francisco police department.

Hightower tonight was confined in the Hall of Justice here and his cell and all approaches to the jail building were under strong police guard.

It has been established, police announced tonight, that on August 2, the night Father Heslin disappeared from his parish at Colma, Hightower had rented an automobile here at 6 o'clock in the evening and did not return with it until 1 o'clock the following morning. Hightower rented the car without driver.

Funeral services for Father Heslin are to be held at St. Mary's Cathedral here Saturday. Solemn high mass for the repose of the soul will be celebrated at the services. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery here.

The police said Hightower would be held until he could give satisfactory explanation of the case with which he found the body, and substantiate a story he had told involving information of the grave said by Hightower to have been imparted to Dolly Mason, a woman he said was of the night life, by a man she described only as "a foreigner." The police have not located Dolly Mason.

SLAIN BY BLOW.

The death of Father Heslin was caused by a blow on the back of the head from some blunt instrument, declared Dr. John Clark, San Francisco surgeon, who performed an autopsy on the body at Colma late today. Dr. Clark believes the bullet wounds were inflicted after Father Heslin was dead.

A typewriter rented by Hightower recently, and now in the hands of the police, is believed by them to be the same machine upon which the first letter demanding ransom for Father Heslin was written, it was announced tonight.

The machine, it was announced, would be thoroughly studied by experts and its type peculiarities compared with those in the ransom letter.

ANSWERED DEATH CALL.

Father Heslin had been missing since the evening of August 2, when he left the parochial residence in company with a stranger to answer a death call. Constant search had been made for him since the following day and rewards totaling $8000 were offered.

While Hightower was being examined by Chief of Police O'Brien, Dist.-Atty. Franklin Swarts of San Mateo county, Captain of Detectives Mathison of San Francisco, and a number of detectives, his room was searched. There a rifle, a bloody piece of burlap and several newspaper clippings describing the Heslin crime and reward were found. There was also found a receptacle containing a number of cartridges, nails and pieces of iron, and the police were endeavoring to determine if it was a part of an infernal machine.

The five hours' examination of Hightower strengthened the police suspicions against him according to Capt. Matheson.

LEAVE FOR SCENE.

This afternoon the police party and Dist.-Atty. Swarth took Hightower on a visit into San Mateo

DEADLOCKED ON SILESIA.

Lloyd George Will Quit Paris.

Expect France Will Make Concessions to Meet the British Views.

Prime Minister Hurries Back to London to Consider De Valera's Reply.

[BY HENRY WALES.
STAFF—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The Supreme Council, deadlocked on the question of Upper Silesia, Premier Lloyd George tonight announced that he would return to London tomorrow.

While his action does not mean that there is a rupture in the relations between France and Great Britain, between Lord Curzon and the French experts are remaining, indications point to the suspension of the Supreme Council's sessions pending a settlement on the partition of the disputed territory.

Eamonn De Valera's reply to the British government's proposals for a settlement of the Irish question, the text of which arrived at the Hotel de Crillon by airplane this afternoon, was given as the reason for the Prime Minister Lloyd George's precipitate departure following hours of fruitless conversation with Premier Briand.

FRENCH UNABLE TO ACCEPT.

The experts of the inter-Allied plebiscite commission today reached an agreement and filed a report indicating that the Upper Silesian districts were inseparably connected. Application of this report, however, involves questions of policy and complete concessions made by the French and British, the French are not able to accept it.

Although Mr. Lloyd George's summary withdrawal from the conference practically to an ultimatum, so he will have a final interview with Premier Briand tomorrow, I am reliably informed that the French are prepared to make the necessary sacrifices to preserve the Entente rather than to have an open break with the British.

CABINET MEETING CALLED.

The French Premier has called a cabinet meeting for tomorrow morning, at which time he will explain

SAN JOSE PASSENGERS LAND.

Several Angelenos Among Those Taken to San Diego by Destroyer; Vessel's Position Dangerous.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11.—Bringing the passengers, mail and baggage from the Pacific Mail steamship San Jose, which went aground on a small island 30 miles south of San Diego at 12:30 a.m., Tuesday, the United States destroyer Farquhar arrived at San Diego late today.

Lieutenant-Commander R. G. Coman of the Farquhar made three attempts to pull the San Jose from her position, but was unable to accomplish anything, the heavy hawsers from the destroyer snapping like strings under one strain.

Commander Coman said that Capt. Zastrow of the San Jose was very downcast over the fate of his vessel.

TAR, FEATHER MAIL CLERK.

EL RENO (Okla.) Aug. 11.—Masked men tonight took L. P. Matthews, 20, mail clerk, from his home here, blindfolded him, drove several miles out of town, and returned soon after, dumping Matthews into the street, with a coat of tar and feathers. He and his sister, two other men and two other girls, were arrested last Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct, later forfeiting their bonds.

CAR HITS AUTO; TWO DEAD.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Mandana M. Johnson, 82, and Mrs. Annie Shumway, 53, were instantly killed, and four other persons were injured tonight, when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by an express street car at the city limits.

SPANISH OFFICERS CAPTURED.

MADRID, Aug. 11.—According to advices received here from Melilla, Gen. Navarro, head of the column, which has been surrounded by the Moors on Mt. Arruit, is a prisoner in the home of the Arab chief of the Beni Chelall, together with four captains, five lieutenants and several soldiers. Gen. Berenguer, the high commissioner in Morocco, is treating with the Arab chief for the liberty of the prisoners.

REPORT GIRL ABDUCTED.

Clad only in her nightgown, Eva Vukojevich, age 15, was abducted, police allege, from her home at 959 Los Feliz Road, taken to another house on Pennsylvania street, where wedding clothes were awaiting her, and later spirited away to Santa Ana, where police were watching for her and Steve Daido, her alleged abductor, at an early hour this morning.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Despondent over her failure to effect a reconciliation with her husband, Ethel Bovet, 21, attempted to end her life last night, police say, by taking a quantity of poison. Little hope was held out for her recovery at the Receiving Hospital early this morning.

TEMPERATURES IN PRINCIPAL CITIES.

Following were the maximum and minimum temperatures yesterday in various eastern cities compared with Los Angeles:

	Max.	Min.
New York	82	66
Boston	86	64
Philadelphia	86	68
Chicago	80	69
Cincinnati	82	68
Indianapolis	74	64
Des Moines	80	62
Kansas City	82	66
Omaha	84	66
St. Louis	84	72
Huron, S. D.	82	56
Los Angeles	75	62

Because of a difference in humidity there is an actual difference in "heat unpleasantness" of from 5 to 10 degrees in favor of Los Angeles as compared with the East, according to Col. H. B. Hersey, meteorologist for the local station of the United States Weather Bureau.

INVITATION IS CABLED.

Powers Hear from President.

Conference at Washington November 11 to Discuss Pacific and Disarmament.

Necessity for Curtailment of Heavy Army and Navy Cost is Pointed Out.

BY GRAFTON S. WILCOX.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Harding's formal invitations to the Allied and associated powers to attend a conference in Washington, November 11, on the subject of limitation of armaments and in connection with which Pacific and Far Eastern question will be discussed, were cabled today by Secretary of State Hughes to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. An invitation to the government of China to participate at the conference in the discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern questions also was forwarded.

The invitation, signed by the Secretary of State, declares at the outset that present vast public expenditures by governments must be greatly reduced to free productive labor of the world from an economic burden too heavy to be borne."

It points out the futility of looking for "stability or the assurance of social justice, or the security of peace, while wasteful and unproductive outlays deprive effort of its just reward and defeat the reasonable expectation of progress."

The great incumbrance upon enterprise and national prosperity, the President says, is the enormous expense of rival armaments.

WARNING TO POWERS.

"Avoidable or extravagant expense of this nature," the powers are told, "is not only without economic justification but is a constant menace to the peace of the world rather than an assurance of its preservation."

The President emphasizes that there seems to be no ground for halting such expenditures unless the powers can agree upon a "satisfactory basis" for their limitation and in his opinion the time is now opportune for them to approach the subject "directly and in conference." In this connection the President makes it clear that not only the question of naval armaments should be considered, but that relief from expenditures for all other armaments should be discussed. In addition to this, the invitation says:

"It may also be found advisable to formulate proposals by which in the interest of humanity the use of new agencies of warfare may be suitably controlled."

HINT OF POISON.

Although none of the new agencies of warfare is mentioned in the invitation, it refers, of course, to the advisability of the nations of the world reaching an agreement to control the use of poison gases and other brutal agencies developed in the great war. Whether the use of the submarine in warfare will come

NOT A PLEDGE REDEEMED HEARST'S MAYOR ADMITS.

Hylan's Ignorance Again Displayed; Millions Tax Increase Stare Him in the Face.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Mayor Hylan today made a very poor showing at the third day of the inquiry by the Meyer legislative investigating committee into the government of the city of New York. Elon R. Brown, chief counsel to the inquisitors, finally withdrew the Mayor from the stand and announced he would call Comptroller Craig as his first witness Tuesday morning, August 16, in his effort to find out something about the city's finances.

He had kept the Mayor testifying six hours and fifty minutes without eliciting a single constructive reply to his questions. Not only was the Mayor at a loss on questions about finance, but he evaded as far as possible every direct answer to questions concerning his knowledge of city government.

RECALL HIS PROMISES.

The Mayor's inaugural address of 1918 and many letters he wrote during the last three years were cited to plague him. He was compelled to admit he had not reduced the cost of government as he promised, and that while he had opposed the financing of the city by short-term notes in his first address to the Aldermen, the total of such securities had increased from $11,000,000 on Dec. 31, 1917, to $18,000,000 on June 30, 1921. He declared time and again that he did not inquire personally into the appropriations asked for or granted to heads of the twenty-seven departments, responsibility for which is his under the charter.

The Mayor on Tuesday fenced more or less successfully on questions of municipal finance; on Wednesday he sought to drive Mr. Brown away from the examination on budget and assessment matters and was saved once by the intervention of Senator Walker, the Tammany leader of the upper branch of the Legislature. Yesterday he floundered when subjected to a rigorous examination about departments of the city under his control.

QUESTIONS RELENTLESS.

He took the stand at 10:30 o'clock and was subjected to a relentless examination until 12:30 o'clock. During the morning his principal contribution to the proceedings was a statement in which he sought to correct a mistake in some of the published transcripts of his testimony yesterday. He said:

"Some of the newspapers have placed a wrong construction upon my testimony in reference to wages and salaries. They correctly stated my opinion with reference to salaries, but not as to wages.

"The investigation that I stated was being conducted is one by the board of estimate into per diem wages of skilled trades only, the rate for which is mandatorily fixed by the 'prevailing rate of wages law.' This is being done in order that the exact facts with reference to wages may be before that body to enable it to comply with that law. In other words, so the board of estimate may not by its action violate the mandatory law.

"My personal position is that the highest wages permissible should be paid to competent per diem salaried men and other laborers.

"Some of the papers twisted that a little bit and I wanted to get it straight."

SPECTATORS CHEER.

At the conclusion of the morning session there was a demonstration as the Mayor left the stand. There were more than 200 spectators on the floor of the aldermanic chamber and the galleries and most of them were applauding vigorously.

Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of the late Col. Roosevelt, started from his chair in the circle of Senators and demanded of WEDDING OF GIRL LEADS TO MURDER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Aug. 11.—Father James E. Coyle, rector of St. Paul's Church here, was shot and killed while sitting on the porch of his home at 9:45 o'clock tonight by E. R. Stephenson, an itinerant preacher. Stephenson was arrested by a deputy sheriff as he walked leisurely into the Jefferson county Courthouse. He refused to make a statement; but it was learned that Stephenson had called at the home of Father Coyle and inquired about the whereabouts of his daughter.

Father Coyle, it is said, told the man that he had just performed a marriage ceremony for Stephenson's daughter, whereupon Stephenson began firing. Three shots took effect in Father Coyle's head. There were no eye-witnesses to the shooting, but the reports of the shots attracted a large crowd to the scene of the shooting.

Stephenson, according to a statement from the Sheriff's office, walked into the office and said to a deputy:

"Please look me up."

"What for?" the deputy asked.

"I just got in some trouble. I shot a man," Stephenson is said to have stated. He still held the pistol in his hand. The deputy questioned him further and then he gave a dispassionate story of the shooting.

Race With Death Lost by Steamer; Naval Man Dies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11. — Although crowding on every ounce of steam in an effort to make this port in record time, the fuel steamer Neptune lost its race with death last Tuesday, according to wireless reports receive by the U.S.S. Charleston here today. Lieut. Robert D. Root, appendicitis victim, to save whose life the Neptune had been making all speed northward, died Tuesday, the reports said.

The destroyer Aaron Ward had been dispatched from this port Tuesday to meet the Neptune, take off the sick officer and rush him to the naval hospital here, but was recalled late the same day, when wireless messages from the fuel steamer advised officers in charge here that the sick man's condition was too serious to permit of transfer from ship to destroyer in mid-ocean.

BRUTAL RULE OF SOVIET PICTURED BY FREED YANK

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REVAL, Aug. 11.—Having bathed, donned fresh clothes provided by the American Red Cross and filled themselves with real food, the six Americans just released from Russian prisons are beginning to feel more like themselves. At first the men talked but little, asking time to adjust themselves. Later Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick was prevailed upon to tell of some of the suffering he had experienced.

"When we were released," said the captain, "officials told us that the soviet had granted us an amnesty. We did not discover the real reason for our freedom until we reached Petrograd. There we saw newspapers, which Kalmatiano translated, containing Hoover's note.

REDS CONFISCATED GRAIN.

"I talked with men from Kuban, Crimea, Omak, Tomak, Siberia and other provinces. The man reported that the famine was not entirely due from the drought, but was largely brought about because the Communists confiscated last year's grain crop, including the seed.

"Today banditry is prevalent in Russia. Every night we could hear fusillades in Moscow and many wounded bandits were brought to the hospitals. Some with whom I talked told me they were fighting for food. Now the Moscow hospitals refuse patients unless they are able to provide their own food.

"In the prison in which I was confined, I was reported to be crazy because I had several fist fights with Polish prisoners, who refused to open their windows. The air in our basement cells was terrible. The most horrible experience which I was forced to go through was when I was confined in a basement cell next to the execution room. I was under death sentence once and was taken into that room. There water runs over the floor constantly to wash away the blood. I could not sleep nights because of the constant shooting between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. There is more terror in Russia than ever before.

MUST WATCH RELIEF.

"Practically the entire staff of the soviet Foreign Office arrived at the prison one day because of information which had leaked out. Mrs. Louise Bryant was brought to my cell. She questioned me regarding Capt. Merlon Cooper, saying he had done wrong in aiding the Poles, and would be punished later. Later I read her brutal signed article in the Moscow Isvestia, praising the prison treatment accorded Americans. She told of the good food we were receiving when, as a matter of fact, we were starving. She told how all we had to do was to sleep, when we were too weak to stand.

"If America starts relieving the Russians I hope it will watch the food go down the throats of the hungry, otherwise the Communists will be the only ones to be provided for. Already the soviet is sending out propaganda urging that only the fit should get food. All others must die.

"A horrible tragedy is being enacted in Russia today. Prisoners captured on the battlefields of the war are rotting in prisons, all records of them being destroyed, and their existence forgotten. They are now actually starving because the quarter of a pound of bread given them daily is not enough to keep life in their bodies."

SHIP A TOTAL LOSS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

Gen. Baron Byng,

British hero of World War, who was sworn in at Quebec yesterday as Governor-General of Canada.

QUEBEC, Aug. 11.—[By the Associated Press. Amid the booming of guns from Quebec's ancient citadel, Baron Byng of Vimy, a hero of the great war, today officially assumed his duties as Canada's new Governor-General. He was sworn in to office at the provincial legislative building with impressive ceremony.

His excellency landed at King's wharf from the steamship Empress of France on the government steamer Lady Grey. Whistles from river craft shrieked a welcome and immense crowds cheered wildly as he stepped ashore and stood at salute as a band played the national anthem. He wore the uniform of a British general.

Premier Arthur Meighen accompanied him. A distinguished assemblage of Dominion officials, headed by Justice Anglin, the acting administrator, officially greeted him.

A troop of cavalry trotted ahead of the carriage carrying Baron and Lady Byng to the Parliament buildings. Thousands lined the flag-bedecked streets and gave them a tremendous ovation.

Baron Byng waved his hand in acknowledgement and Lady Byng bowed repeatedly.

PRESIDENT'S FATHER WEDS.

Marries Miss Severns, for Many Years Nurse in His Office.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONROE (Mich.) Aug. 11.—Dr. George T. Harding, father of President Harding, came to Monroe today, married Miss Alice Severns, for many years nurse in his office at Marion, O., and left the city before more than a score of Monroe citizens had guessed his identity.

Dr. Harding is 76 years of age, while his bride is 52.

"WAS LONESOME," HE SAYS.

Commenting on his marriage, Dr. Harding said:

"I was lonesome; simply unbearably lonesome.

"I thought perhaps we could go away and be married without much publicity. I changed my mind, however, in Toledo this afternoon. I gave the deputy county clerk at Monroe $1 to keep the license from newspaper men, but we had hardly arrived at Toledo until newspaper men were after us," he declared, with a wide smile.

Dr. Harding is the father of five living children: Warren G. Harding, President of the United States; Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., of Columbus; Mrs. Heber Votaw of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Charlotte

HEDJAZ ASK A HOLY WAR.

Monarch of Anatolia is Desirous for the Saving of Islam.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ANGORA (Anatolia) Aug. 11.—A holy war has been proclaimed by the King of the Hedjaz as a measure for assisting the Turkish Nationalists in their fight against the Greeks in Asia Minor, it was announced here today. The monarch in his call appeals for the saving of Islam.

The kingdom of Hedjaz, which attained independence of Ottoman control under a British guaranty during the war, has an estimated area of 100,000 square miles and an estimated population of at least 750,000. It may be regarded as the most important principality in Arabia by virtue of its possession of Mecca (with 80,000 inhabitants) and Medina (with 40,000 inhabitants,) both of which are Mohammedan shrines.

WATCH RUSSIAN RELIEF.

Hoover to See That Food Goes to Needy, Not to Aid Bolshevik Army.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Arrangements entered into with soviet Russia by which the Hoover organization is to feed the starving population of that country have produced in this country an unfortunate effect. In various parts of the United States the publicity which has attended this offering is being used as a means to raise money for the Bolshevist cause.

In several parts of the West, Russians and Bolshevist sympathizers have begun the organization of committees and have launched appeals for funds ostensibly to buy foodstuffs. In the opinion of Secretary Hoover and other officials of this government, these movements in reality are to raise money not for the relief of the suffering, but for the soviet army. Much of the effort in this direction is taking place on the Pacific Coast, where so-called soviet relief bodies have induced a number of philanthropic people to join their committees and to raise money.

Secretary Hoover is authority for the statement that these and other drives for subscriptions that are being started in various parts of the country are not authorized and are open to suspicion.

The Hoover organization is the only one in being that is officially recognized in the business of furnishing food to those who actually are in want and destitution within the Bolshevik-ridden area. This organization is operating through its representatives at Riga and Reval, who will not proceed with the forwarding and distribution of food until the soviet government has fulfilled its pledge to release and permit to depart from soviet Russia all Americans who have been detained there. It is not yet clear that this pledge has been completely redeemed, for dispatches from Reval and Riga indicate that some Americans are still held in the country, though perhaps not actually in jail.

When the last American is out of the country and the distribution of food begins, it is altogether probable that Secretaries Hughes and Hoover will unite in a public statement warning Americans not to subscribe to unauthorized Russian funds, which probably would be diverted to political and not charitable purposes.

In the meantime neither the government nor the Hoover organization look with favor on the various and some times fantastic proposals that have been made by Americans for Russian relief. Senator King of Utah today introduced a bill appropriating $5,000,000 to be used by the President to aid in Russian relief. The administration has not asked any such appropriation and is not now seeking one. In the course of county. They also indicated that a charge might be brought against Hightower in that county.

Hightower said he obtained his first clew when he came upon Dolly Mason last Saturday. She confided to him, he said, that a man, half intoxicated, had come to her room the night before. This man drew a revolver from his pocket, and when she expressed fear, he said: "You are right to be afraid of that gun. It has taken human life."

He then gave Miss Mason information which Hightower said gave the clew to the grave's location.

Hightower denied that he was the William Hightower who served a term in the Oregon State penitentiary for a robbery committed near Glendale. He said he had never been in trouble with the police on any occasion.

DISCOVERY WEIRD.

The strange and weird manner of the discovery of Father Heslin's body at Salada Beach, south of here, through divided interest with the Hightower developments. Led by Hightower, the party called at the office of Archbishop Edward J. Hanna to make known the information he had concerning the location of the priest's body, the police party, accompanied by four newspaper men, made their way to the grave in the dead of night. The wagon road over which they went ends abruptly some distance from the cliff under which the body was found.

Proceeding over the dunes with the wind whipping the sand into their faces and their feet tripping over the stunted shrubbery, the party came finally to the cliff beneath which was the brush-covered bench where the body lay. The grave is within 40 paces of which is little more than ten miles below the southern extremity of San Francisco. Habitations are few and far between and are protected by the natural settlements of bleak sand dunes that rise high as hills.

Led straight to the spot by Hightower, the party came upon evidences of newly upturned earth, wet, blue and like a clinging clay. Soon a flashlight revealed a patch of dark clothing under the busy shovels.

BODY RECOVERED.

Soon the grave, so shallow that it was no larger than the little hollow that the wind had dug in the sands about, was uncovered, and the full form of the priest revealed. Here and there a splotch of blood showed on the clerical garb, and the face and head showed many such spots. A quick examination showed that the skull had been crushed. In the pockets were found $85 in bills, one little bundle of them containing two bullet holes.

The police have no certain idea as to when Father Heslin was taken to the desolate strip of beach and killed. There is evidence to show that one of the auto tracks leading to his body was made while he had his bride to his assailant. The murderer, to make his work complete, put five more bullets into the body. The skull was crushed presumably by his fall from the cliff.

The day after Father Heslin disappeared, Attorney Edward S. Harris, San Francisco, received a special delivery letter, unsigned, demanding ransom of $4500 for the priest's release, and stating that he was lying bound and gagged in a bootlegger's cellar.

The Rev. Heslin was 57 years old. He was pastor at Colma only for a short time, going there from Turlock, where he was stationed six years. He was the brother of the late Bishop Heslin of Tennessee, and a cousin of Brother Basil of the St. Elizabeth's Franciscan monastery, Oakland.

OIL FIELDS WORKER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 11.—William Hightower first came to Bakersfield in 1910, when he went to work in the Kern River oil fields, according to friends here. Later, he opened two bakeries here and enjoyed a large patronage. He was chiefly noted here for cooking pastries and cakes.

Hightower lived here intermittently for six years. Rumors of domestic estrangements preceded his departure early last year. He sold his business before leaving the city. His wife is said to own 160 acres of farm land near Fresno.

Hightower was said by former employees here to have been an excellent employer. He is described by friends as having been decidedly eccentric.

During the war Hightower exhibited here a machine gun of his own invention before the local committee of 100, which he was perfecting for patenting and to deliver to the United States for use in the war.

According to a statement made today by H. W. Thomas, a member of the committee, the model of the gun got into possession of some German sympathizers, who hastened Hightower's efforts to have the contrivances manufactured, and it is declared by those intimate with the man that this blocking of his endeavors affected his mind. Thomas said that Hightower was an expert with firearms.

STORY IS CONFIRMED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Aug. 11.—That part of William A. Hightower's story relating to his life in Fresno county was confirmed today when courthouse records were searched, and Clovis residents recalled him without effort. The small bakery which Hightower conducted is still doing business as a bakery and ice-cream parlor under the proprietorship of Carl Merriman.

Records in the County Recorder's office show that Hightower obtained a marriage license March 28, 1916, and that the following day he was married to Ethel Bowers by the Rev. Charles Coke Woods, a Methodist minister. Hightower at the time of the marriage was 31 years old, which would make him 43 now. His wife's age was 23. The records show that Hightower was from Texas and his wife from Oklahoma, with Missouri as the State of her nativity.

Hightower, according to Clovis residents who remember him, was well liked. He and his wife, however, did not get along, and after numerous quarrels left Clovis some time in 1919.

TERRIFIC RUN OF FISH RUINS TRADE IN FRANCE; SARDINES A DRUG; USED AS FERTILIZER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 11.—In the sea around the coast of Brittany there are just now so many fish anxious to be caught that they have ruined the fishermen.

Along the whole coast line in every port both the little and big boats are idle and thousands of fishermen stand around smoking—and swearing that never were there such bad times, because there never were so many fish. Another miraculous season like this, they declare, and they will be out of business.

If they go out one day a week they catch as many sardines and mackerel and other fish as they used to catch in seven days, and the price they get for them is comparatively, in the purchasing power of money, less than half the prewar prices.

Especially the sardine trade has suffered. There are so many sardines that the canning factories cannot cope with the supply, even when the fishermen work a short week, and almost every day millions of the little fish are thrown out to make fertilizer for the fields.

Along the coast and among wholesale buyers the price of all kinds of fish has fallen to a mere fraction of what it was last year. But in spite of the fall in price at the coast, it is a remarkable fact that in Paris and especially in Paris restaurants the price of sole is five times what it was before the war. Evidently the cost lies in the cooking.

HYLAN MAKES POOR SHOWING.

one of the men taking part in the demonstration:

"What's your name? Where do you work? Who sent you here?"

The spectator stepped back a step and asked: "Who in hell are you?"

"I'll show you," Senator Robinson replied, "I'll have you thrown out of here."

"Well, I'm a taxpayer and have a right here," the spectator said.

"I'll do what I please as long as I'm orderly."

Senator Robinson was shaking his finger under the nose of the taxpayer by this time and a clash seemed imminent. It was avoided when a sergeant-at-arms stepped between the belligerents and pushed the spectator back out of range.

"What right have you to cheer the Mayor?" demanded an elderly man who was near by.

"He is making a holy show of himself."

Hylan adherents rushed the elderly man, but attaches of the committee cleared the room.

Time after time during the morning the Mayor had winced as Mr. Brown read into the record letters signed by him in 1918, 1919 and 1920 admonishing department heads to be economical and demanded to know whether the department appropriations had been reduced.

Auto Graveyard Found by Police; is in Deep Pool.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A "graveyard" for automobiles was found by the Summit police today, at the bottom of an abandoned quarry, now filled with water, and just outside the city limits. Fourteen automobiles have been found already in the bottom of the pool, the water in which is eighty feet deep. A diver, now at work, is expected to find more machines.

Chicago police are working with the Summit police, and with a number of license plates already found, which would make him 43 now. His wife's age was 23. The records show that Hightower was from Texas and his wife from Oklahoma, with Missouri as the State of her nativity.

Hightower, according to Clovis residents who remember him, was well liked. He and his wife, however, did not get along, and after numerous quarrels left Clovis some time in 1919.

A report was made to the Summit police a few days ago by persons residing near the pool, that they had seen a car plunge into the water. The investigation followed.

System Embodied in Fordney Bill is Approved.

Democrats Now Allowed to Join in Work.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Advocates of the American valuation plan won a victory today when Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee approved the principle of the scheme as embodied in the Fordney tariff bill. A number of amendments making more specific some of the provisions were considered and will be formally adopted tomorrow. Action on the proposed dye embargo also will be taken tomorrow.

Before approving the American valuation plan, the Republican members decided not to permit the Democrats of the committee to participate in further executive sessions relative to the tariff bill. Senator Penrose, chairman of the committee, had announced last week that the American valuation plan and the dye embargo were not partisan matters, and that action upon them would be taken with the Democrats present, although the Republicans would decide on rates of duty without the assistance of the minority.

Inasmuch as the Democrats were lined up solidly against the American valuation plan, and might have been of a different nature if they had been allowed to remain.

VOTE IS UNCERTAIN.

The Democrats also are against an embargo on imports of dyes. Whether their ejection from the committee sessions means that the Republicans tomorrow will vote to restore the dye embargo provision in the Fordney bill, is uncertain. Strong pressure has been brought by administration leaders to induce the Finance Committee to approve the embargo, and it is considered quite possible that this action will be taken.

Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee will meet with the Republicans of the Finance Committee tomorrow morning to discuss the American valuation and dye embargo provisions.

It was stated that Representative Longworth of Ohio, leading advocate of the dye embargo, appeared to suggest some modifications in the embargo scheme as rejected by the House, following favorable action by the Ways and Means Committee.

PRINCIPLE THE SAME.

The amendments to the American valuation sections of the Fordney bill do not change the principle. They were proposed by George C. Davis and Otto Fix of the customs service, who were in conference with members of the committee today.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Fix have opposed the adoption of the American valuation scheme on the ground of administrative difficulties involved, but when they found the committee was determined to approve the scheme, joined in an effort to make the plan more workable.

The American valuation plan will provide, as heretofore, that the duties shall be assessed on the wholesale selling price in the principal American markets on the date of exportation from a foreign country. An amendment will provide specifically that the comparable wholesale selling price of American articles shall be the basis of valuation, and where comparability cannot be established by the appraiser, that the basis shall be the American wholesale selling price of comparable imported articles.

the further concessions necessary in order to avert a rupture.

At 10:15 M. Briand will meet Mr. Lloyd George and submit the eleventh-hour proposals and the British special train leaves at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Lloyd George originally intended to withdraw the entire British delegation, but when it was pointed out what the effect of such an announcement would have on British public opinion he decided to leave Lord Curzon.

"We must return to London, as I have called a Cabinet meeting for Saturday, to consider De Valera's reply," explained the British Prime Minister, tonight.

RELIEF UP IN AIR.

He declined to promise to return for a resumption of the conference, which leaves the appointment of a Russian famine relief commission and other matters on the agenda up in the air.

Ambassador Harvey stated he has made no plans for returning to London yet, and Premier Bonomi announced that the Italians would decide on the date of their return to Rome after seeing Premier Briand again.

Quai d'Orsay is reported to be divided, one faction favoring delaying the solution pending direct Warsaw-Berlin negotiations, while the other is urging that concessions to meet the British demands be made immediately.

All are unanimous that France cannot afford to break with Great Britain over Upper Silesia, or any other question, as such an action would leave France single-handed to enforce execution of the Versailles Treaty since the United States has not ratified it, Italy is friendly toward Germany and the Japanese are disinterested.

BRIAND TO ACCEPT.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Premier Briand late tonight informed the British delegation that he would be willing to accept, as a last resort, the "Sforza line" in Silesia, according to the Havas Agency.

This line gives Poland the western part of the industrial district, notably Gleiwitz, Sabrze and Tarnowitz.

OPINION IS ASKED ON SALARY REQUESTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11. — A request for an opinion of the legal authority of the State Board of Control to disallow the salaries of certain teachers in the San Jose Teachers' College was made today to Atty.-Gen. Webb by Will C. Wood, superintendent of public instruction.

The claims were disapproved earlier in the week by G. B. Daniels, president of the board.

FLOOD OF LIQUOR IS EXPECTED.

Measure Expected to be Sent to Printer Tonight.

Few Points Are Still Subject of Dispute.

Will Probably Reach Floor of House Wednesday.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—After taking final action on a few remaining points in dispute, Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee expect to send the completed tax bill to the printer tomorrow night. If possible, Representative Fordney, chairman of the committee, will introduce the bill in the House on Saturday. It will be considered by a Republican house caucus Monday night, and then reported formally before the full Ways and Means Committee on Tuesday. The program is to take it up on the floor of the House on Wednesday or Thursday, and pass it the following week.

Among the questions to be determined tomorrow are the final disposition of the capital stock tax, applying to corporations. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in a letter sent to Chairman Fordney today suggested that if the corporation income tax is made, 13 per cent, as already has been done, instead of 12½ per cent, the figures discussed at the recent White House conference, the additional 2½ per cent might be regarded as a substitute for the capital stock tax.

The committee, however, regarded the additional 2½ per cent as in lieu of the transportation taxes, which it wished to repeal entirely instead of cutting in two. It is possible that the committee tomorrow may decide to repeal the capital stock tax and restore the passenger transportation tax, repealing only the tax on freight.

WILL SIMPLIFY TAXES.

If the capital stock tax is repealed it will mean that corporations will have only one form of tax instead of three, as the normal income tax, the excess profits tax and the capital stock tax, as at present. This would be a step in the direction of simplicity.

Another point to be finally passed upon tomorrow is whether there shall be any provision for relief in the lower brackets of the surtaxes on individual income. The committee has been averse thus far to any changes in the lower brackets, although the treasury officials have suggested a revision. As the bill now stands all the rates remain as in the present law up to the surtax of 32 per cent applying on incomes above $68,000. Hereafter the 32 per cent rate will apply on all incomes above that amount, the present law includes rates running up to 65 per cent. The committee thus far has not approved the treasury suggestion that the maximum surtax be reduced to 25 per cent for income of the calendar year 1922.

ASKS LARGER AUTHORITY.

Secretary Mellon in his letter to Chairman Fordney sets out in detail the agreement as made between the administration and House Republicans at the White House conference. Incidentally Secretary Mellon recommends that enlarged authority be given him for the issue and retirement of notes under Section 4 of the Liberty Bond act as amended, with provision for a total of $7,500,000,000 at any one time outstanding. The existing authority is for $7,000,000,000 and about $3,350,000,000 Victory notes and $311,000,000 of treasury notes are already outstanding thereunder. The additional authority is desired in connection with the treasury program to convert the floating debt into three and five-year notes.

Secretary Mellon also asks that Congress do its part toward making certain the cuts in expenditures by limiting or repealing authorizations in appropriation measures previously passed.

EMPHASIZES PROGRAM.

After enumerating items totaling $350,000,000 by which expenditures of the War and Navy departments, the Shipping Board and the Department of Agriculture and the railroads will be reduced, Secretary Mellon says:

"To accomplish this reduction it will be necessary for the administration, with the assistance of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, to put forth its utmost efforts to insure economy in every government activity and for Congress on its part to give the most wholehearted cooperation not only by the avoidance of new expenditures, but also by the limitation or repeal of various outstanding balances and authorizations.

"I cannot too strongly emphasize that the program agreed upon at yesterday's conference and outlined in this letter depends upon the reductions in expenditure, which the administration expects to accomplish and that the anticipated savings can be effected only by the most consistent and determined efforts to cut expenditure."

PLAN TO GUARD RUSSIAN RELIEF.

his remarks in the Senate today on his measure, Senator King declared that the suggestion made by Senator France of Maryland, who is on his way back from Russia, that American bankers finance a $4,000,000,000 loan to Russia, was "the height of absurdity." While not dignifying the France proposal with any official comment, it is known that the administration's opinion in this matter is in harmony with Senator King's. There is to be no American loan to soviet Russia, and the administration frowns upon any attempt, in whatever guise, to place American dollars in the hands of the soviets.

It is apparent that Senator France is not aware of the arrangement recently announced at the White House, whereby American banking interests have agreed with the government not to finance any foreign loan whatever, until it and its purposes have been approved by the American government.

PRESIDENT'S FATHER WEDS.

Remsberg of Santa Ana, Cal., and Miss Abigail Harding, who makes her home with her father, in Marion.

Accompanied by a younger Marion couple, who refused to divulge their names, Dr. Harding and Miss Severns drove into Monroe in an automobile, reaching the city shortly after noon.

They went immediately to the County Courthouse, obtaining a marriage license and asked to be directed to a Baptist parsonage. As there is no resident Baptist pastor, the couple went to the home of the Rev. Frank T. Knoweles, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who performed the ceremony at 2 o'clock.

Following the wedding, Dr. Harding an his bride left immediately in their automobile, driving south toward Toledo.

Dr. Harding made an attempt to withhold announcement of his marriage. The marriage license, obtained from Miss Beryl Snyder, a deputy County Clerk, was marked "not for publication." Asked by the Rev. Knoweles before the ceremony if he was the father of President Harding, the Marion physician ignored the question.

Dr. Harding appeared in the best of spirits while in Monroe and talked to newspaper men and others on a variety of subjects. Whenever he was asked concerning his relation to President Harding, however, he ignored the question. The physician distributed cigars among men with whom he talked at the county building and sent a box of them to the office of the local daily newspaper.

Monroe long has been known as the marriage place of Ohio couples who desire to marry in secret, as it is located but a few miles from the border.

ACCEPTED GOOD WISHES.

Dr. and Mrs. Harding alighted from the train and were hurrying to a street car when two friends accosted them and offered congratulations. Both the doctor and his bride smilingly accepted the good wishes.

Entering the automobile of one of the friends, Dr. Harding took his bride to her home and then was driven to his own home four squares away. Before leaving his bride, Dr. Harding said:

"Good night, Alice, I'll see you tomorrow."

Dr. Harding left Marion yesterday after telling friends who remarked that he appeared "dressed up," that he was going to Detroit to attend a medical meeting there and would not return for several days.

Friends here have been unable to establish the identity of the younger couple who accompanied Dr. Harding and his bride to Monroe and who said they were from Marion. It also was unknown here whether the honeymoon would be spent in Marion or whether they would continue to some other point.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—To all appearances the marriage of Dr. George T. Harding, the President's father, took the White House completely by surprise. Those close to the President received their first news of the marriage through press reports from Michigan, and after Mr. Harding himself had been informed, the only comment available was that no private word of the event had been received here.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 11.—Mrs. E. E. Remsberg of Santa Ana, sister of President Harding, tonight at her residence here, said she had no comment to make on the marriage of her father, other than to say that she had known for some time that the marriage was contemplated.

When asked if she had communicated congratulations to him, she said that, so far, she had not.

MARION (O.) Aug. 11.—News that Dr. Harding and Miss Alice Severns, his office nurse had been married in Michigan today, was a distinct surprise to his friends. Dr. Harding was 75 years old the day his son was nominated for President by the Republican National Convention in Chicago a year ago. He is very active for a man of his years. Mrs. Harding has been dead about twelve years.

INVITE POWERS TO CONFERENCE.

under this category was not discussed in official quarters, but in the opinion of some of those interested in the outcome of the conference the operations of the submarine undoubtedly will be discussed and proposals for an agreement as to the use of this tremendously powerful instrumentality of warfare may be suggested.

As to the scope of the conference the President asserts that it is not the purpose of the United States to attempt to define it in relation to the Pacific and Far East, leaving this to exchanges between the powers before the conference meets. But he is emphatic in asserting that there should be common understandings reached on matters which "have been and are" of international concern. It is assumed here that this is intended to include such disputes as that over Shantung and Yap, which Japan hopes to have eliminated as matters either already settled or of concern to not more than two powers.

AS TO OPEN SESSIONS.

Agitation for open sessions of the conference is embarrassing the administration somewhat, although it is the purpose of the President and Secretary Hughes to exert their influence to assure publicity of the actions of the conference. The President believes that the conference will, of course, make its own rules governing publicity. There will be some open sessions, undoubtedly, but to throw all the sessions open to the public, in the opinion of the administration, would be impossible as it would defeat the very purpose of the conference. Assurances are given that instrumentalities will be provided for making public the news of the conference upon which the public may depend for reliable information. The administration realizes that the motive power behind the conference is public opinion, and this public opinion must be recognized as the deliberations proceed.

TEXT OF INVITATION.

The text of the formal invitation to the disarmament conference follows:

"The President is deeply gratified at the cordial response to his suggestion that there should be a conference on the subject of limitation of armament in connection with which Pacific and Far Eastern questions should also be discussed.

"Productive labor is staggering under an economic burden too heavy to be borne unless the present vast public expenditures are greatly reduced. It is like to look for stability, or the assurance of social justice, or the security of peace, while wasteful and unproductive outlays deprive effort of its just reward and defeat the reasonable expectation of progress. The enormous disbursements in the rivalries of armaments manifestly constitute the greater part of the incumbrance upon enterprise and national prosperity; and avoidable or extravagant expense of this nature is not only without economic justification, but is a constant menace to the peace of the world, rather than an assurance of its preservation.

HALTING OF OUTLAWS.

"Yet there would seem to be no ground to expect the halting of these increasing outlays, unless the powers most largely concerned find a satisfactory basis for agreement to effect their limitation. The time is believed to be opportune for these powers to approach this subject directly and in conference and while, in the discussion of limitation of armament, the question of naval armament may naturally have first place, it has been thought best not to exclude questions pertaining to other armament to the end that all practicable measures of relief may have appropriate consideration. It may also be found advisable to formulate proposals by which in the interest of humanity the use of new agencies of warfare may be suitably controlled.

PEACE OF THE WORLD.

"It is, however, quite clear that there can be no final assurance of the peace of the world in the absence of the desire for peace, and the prospect of reduced armaments is not a hopeful one unless this desire finds expression in a practical effort to remove causes of misunderstanding and to seek ground for agreement as to principles and their application. It is the earnest wish of this government that through an interchange of views with the facilities afforded by a conference, it may be possible to find a solution of Pacific and Far Eastern problems, of unquestioned importance at this time, that is, such common understandings with respect to matters which have been and are of international concern as may serve to promote enduring friendship among our peoples.

NOT THE PURPOSE.

"It is not the purpose of this government to attempt to define the scope of the discussion in relation to the Pacific and Far East, but rather to leave this to be the subject of suggestions to be exchanged before the meeting of the conference in the expectation that the spirit of friendship and a cordial appreciation of the importance of the elimination of sources of controversy will govern the final decision.

"Accordingly in pursuance of the proposal which has been made and in the light of the gracious indication of its acceptance, the President invites the government of Great Britain to participate in a conference on the subject of limitation of armament, in connection with which Pacific and Far Eastern questions will also be discussed, to be held in Washington on the eleventh day of November, 1921."

Russo-Asiatic Company to Get Property Back.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Leslie Urquhart, chairman of the Russo-Asiatic Company, is leaving for Russia next Sunday on the invitation of the soviet government, to take possession of the company's immense properties in Siberia, which are valued at 100,000,000 pounds (normally about $500,000,000.)

The company's properties include 2,500,000 acres of land, coal, gold, silver, tin, copper and platinum mines, factories, iron works, sawmills, etc. Abut 12,000 British shareholders are interested in the company.

Since the Bolshevist revolution the corporation's activities have not been closed down, but now Lenin realizes that the soviet cannot work the mines and has offered to restore the property on a 100-year lease, taking a percentage of the profits in lieu of taxation.

COLORADO RIVER CUTTING BANKS.

Town of Holbrook Threatened; Bridge is Menaced.

Plans Under Way to Make Side of Canyon Accessible.

Santa Cruz Floods Plains for Over Fifty Miles.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Aug. 10.—At Holbrook, the Little Colorado River has been cutting out its banks in serious fashion, just above the town, and the approaches to the wagon bridge are threatened. At least one business house has had to be moved to keep it from tumbling into the stream. To the southward, the Apache Railway was washed out in four places.

South of Falrstaff, the Arizona Lumber and Timber Company's logging railroad lost four bridges in a single cloudburst, forcing the mill to shut down. The storm served, however, to make sure the city's water supply, the reservoir now holding about 25,000,000 gallons.

The roads east of this point have been badly washed, especially between Holbrook and Springerville, with many culverts gone. For more than a week all freighting had to be suspended, though touring cars have managed to get through.

RESERVOIRS BROKEN.

Both reservoirs at Concho are reported to have broken, doing damage to roads and crops. The Udall reservoir stood the flood. No storage was attempted in the Lyman reservoir, lately completed above St. Johns.

With the opening of the suspension bridge across the Colorado River, below El Tovar, plans are being made to make more accessible the northern side of the Grand Canyon and to build a decent trail up Bright Angel Creek to the northern rim. The present trail northward from the river is steep and tollsome and crosses the icy stream just 117 times. The Harvey system will build a camp at the north end of the bridge and will name it Roosevelt, in memory of the two crossings there made by Col. Roosevelt. Only five parties ever crossed the river there. Half way up the north side Bright Angel trail will be established Ribbon Falls Camp. Director Stephen T. Mather of the National Park Service is expected at the canyon soon, to inspect the bridge, and it is possible that Secretary of the Interior Fall also will come.

WICKENBURG BANK.

R. W. Baxter, receiver of the Central Bank of Wickenburg, has reported to the Superior Court of Maricopa county that the soluble assets of the institution will not pay more than 10 per cent of the gross sum due to depositors and other creditors. The receiver states that the bank president, P. K. Lewis, was involved in many transactions in which the funds of the Wickenburg institution were loaned, "unjustifiably," to friends of the president and to companies in which he was interested. Lewis for years was at the head of the Central Bank of Phoenix, which also failed. He now is in Clifton, Ariz. Baxter states that most of the loans of the Wickenburg bank were made in Phoenix, were Lewis and a majority of the directors resided.

O. J. Faulkner, an assistant bank examiner, has taken charge of the Bank of Northern Arizona, at Snowflake, which closed its doors July 29. The bank is a small one, with only home capital. Its cash reserve became depleted with many withdrawals of deposits and failure to collect loans. Nearly all the paper held is declared good, but slow, and the bank is considered solvent. Bank Examiner H. M. Moritz states his belief that it will be in condition very soon for resumption of business.

SANTA CRUZ OPERATIONS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 10.—The Santa Cruz River, which usually takes an underground course from near Tucson till it joins the Gila above Maricopa, this summer has carried too much water for the underground channels and has flooded the plains for fifty or more miles. Near Casa Grande the wash was reported three miles wide. As a result the desert is green with lush grasses and flowers and the cattle, starving only a few weeks ago, already are beginning to fatten. To the eastward, the farmers of the San Pedro and Sulphur Springs valleys are complaining of too much water and of the loss, in consequence, of much of their crops. Sonora also has suffered. Much cultivated land has been washed away along the Sonora River and the roads south of Cananea are reported impassable.

An inspection has been completed by State Engineer Maddock of the Mule Creek road route through which it is expected to link Silver City with Clifton and provide a third highway between New Mexico and Arizona.

HAD LITTLE TROUBLE.

The trip was under difficulties of storm and flood, but little trouble was experienced in actual travel. Mr. Maddock believes a much better route could be secured by leaving the Silver City-Mogollon road near Cliff, but this would require construction westward of twenty-seven miles of roadway within New Mexico. There are 6 per cent grades on the Mule Creek route after passing into Arizona, but construction is declared feasible. It is expected that construction work on the Arizona side will be started this month, though no Federal aid can be enlisted for it. There will be co-operation on the part of supervisors and road commission of Greenlee county.

To the northward, Greenlee county has taken up a heavy financial burden in defraying a part of the cost of the Clifton-Springerville highway. The County Taxpayers' Association has assailed an item in the county budget calling for $66,500 for completion of the county's share of the highway and submits figures that the work can be done for $42,000. In all, a reduction of county expense by $50,000 is demanded.

There is belief that the number of damage cases, possibly 200, arising out of the Bisbee deportations will be materially diminished through an order of Judge Pattee requiring that each plaintiff shall file a bond for $1000, this within thirty days. F. C. Struckmeyer of Phoenix is attorney for the greater number of the claimants for damages.

DEADLY POISON FOUND IN COW.

Enough to Kill at Least Seven Thousand People, Report from Houston.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) Aug. 11. Poison sufficient to kill 7000 persons has been found in the paunch of a cow that died of a disease that is killing cattle by the thousands in this section, it was announced today. A veterinary who has been here a month investigating the disease told the county commissioner's court that the poison,aconite, is not found in any plant growing on the ranges of South Texas.

FIGHTERS CONQUER FLAMES IN FOREST.

ABOUT 1800 ACRES ARE BURNED OVER; AVIATORS GET FUEL SUPPLIES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11. — Fire fighters, working to check a blaze in the Sequoia National Forest, northeast of Visalia, today succeeded in holding the flames on the south and west portions of the area burned over, the United States Forest Service headquarters here announced. An aviator who flew over the forest yesterday reported about 1800 acres burned. About 100 men are fighting the fire.

Gasoline was shipped today from Richmond to Army aviators engaged in forest fire patrol work at Corning, Mather Field, March Field and Santa Barbara. The aviators were forced to discontinue their patrol flights several weeks ago when shortage of Army funds cut off their gasoline supply. The gasoline sent today was purchased by the Forest Service. Reports were received here that gasoline also was sent from Richmond to Eugene, Or., where Army aviators engaged in forest patrol work have been forced by shortage of funds to remain idle.

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11.—Resumption of airplane patrol of national forests in Oregon will be effected within two or three days, following a communication from the Washington headquarters of the Forest Service to George C. Cecil, district forester, authorizing him to pay for gasoline sufficient to last until the end of the fire season, it was announced at forestry headquarters here today.

HOOVER IS UNABLE TO ATTEND IOWA PICNIC.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, because of the press of official business, has declined the invitation to attend the annual picnic of the Iowa Association of Southern California, to be held tomorrow in Bixby Park, Long Beach. Mr. Hoover is a native of Iowa, although he was educated in California.

At the picnic there will be free badges, and especially large ones for those that have lived in Iowa before Dec. 28, 1846, and when Statehood was obtained, and free badges and coffee for Grand Army veterans. There will be a fife and drum corps and a program of music and oratory. John G. Spielman, president of the association, will preside.

The county headquarters will be opened at 7 a.m., an enrollment will continue until 6 p.m. The new State flag and a new Iowa button will be on sale. There will be a basket lunch at noon and the program will begin at 2 p.m.

STEAMER INJURED BY HITTING ICEBERG.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 11.—The Norwegian steamship Bergensfjord limped into port here today from New York, having been damaged by hitting an iceberg while off Cape Race at 3 o'clock in the morning during a dense fog. The iceberg bumped the steamer below the waterline and one wing of the propeller was bent so that the liner was forced to reduce its speed.

There was no panic, however, among the passengers. The liner will be dry docked and examined here.

SEWER GAS IS BEING STUDIED.

May Solve Problem of Fuel for Automobiles.

Government Now Working on Experiments.

Decaying Waste Expected to be Utilized.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The government Bureau of Chemistry is working on a cheaper and better fuel than gasoline for automotive purposes. It's nothing other than common sewer or "marsh" gas such as blows up a manhole every now and then. To be nontechnical, this gas is the product of decaying waste, and the chemists are of the opinion that the corncob is the solution. The government chemists, it is said, have been experimenting along these lines for some time and they are confident that a better and cheaper automobile fuel than gasoline is easily possible from waste.

The bureau is hampered, however, through its inability to obtain a sufficiently large appropriation from a Congress that is doing its utmost to cut expanses to the bone. And it will take no small sum to prove to the world that they are right.

"Good old sewer gas will do it," said one enthusiastic chemist. "Marsh gas, you know. The sort that blows up a cellar every now and then.

"Everyone knows that sewer gas is highly explosive. If it could be easily handled it could drive a gas engine just as easily as it does a manhole. It is the product of decaying waste. For years chemists have had the thought of making use of this sewer gas."

Some one once said that there is more power going to waste in the decaying stalks of cotton than is being piped in all our gasoline. Some one up in Canada is making a gas out of straw decomposed in a retort with which threshing engines and the like are being driven. But the new idea for handling sewer gas seems to have come from the Philippines.

In 1917 Otis Warren Barrett, one of the field men for the Department of Agriculture, was in the East Indies at work. Barrett has a score or more of big time discoveries to his credit in his work for the government. He was engaged in trying to get badly wanted material and was so successful that an effort was made by a German agent to assassinate him. During his spare time he thought the marsh-gas problem over and finally did some experimenting in a small way and with some crude borrowed apparatus. Then his work called him away and he dropped the matter.

"But I produced a gas that would run an engine," he said to a chemically-inclined acquaintance.

Possibly it is only a coincidence, but not long ago a report came to the Bureau of Chemistry from the Philippines that a process had been devised by which a small tractor hauled a plow for two days at a fuel cost of 18 cents. Neither gasoline nor coal oil nor benzine, nor any of the other known fuels was used. Instead, gas was made from waste in a little retort on the machine, and was burned as it was produced. No heavy storage tank was needed to weigh down the machine and possibly blow up the engineer.

For Home Concerts and Dances—

The Duo-Art Reproducing Piano

When you have one of these celebrated instruments in your home you have the world's greatest artists ready to play for you at a moment's notice—waiting to supply you with music for every occasion.

If it is to be a program of classical music, great pianists like Paderewski, Hofmann, Bauer, Busoni, Cortot, Friedman, Ganz, Gabrilowitsch, Grainger, Novaes and many others, are there to thrill your guests with their sublime genius.

If it is to be a dancing party, pianists like Felix Arndt, Frank Banta, Edna Bentz, McNair Ilgenfritz, Ed London, Rex Battle, Cliff Hess, Edith Baker, Harry Stover, George Gershwin and Alfred Rienzo, will furnish snappy music that will insure a "peppy" party.

The Duo-Art is the only reproducer with which the Steinway Piano is obtainable. The Steed Duo-Art at $920, is one of the greatest player-piano values on the market today. The Duo-Art may also be had in famous Weber, Wheelock and Steck models.

CITY SOLVING HOUSE PROBLEM.

Pittsburg Commercial Chamber Forms Corporation.

Mass Production Results in Saving of Half.

Buyers Helped to Finance the Building of Homes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—Two thousand new houses for the Pittsburg district within the next year are the aim of the housing corporation of the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce, formed to better the acute rent and home situation here.

Cheap money, construction at about one-half the usual cost, and expert supervision without charge are leading features of the plan. It has so appealed to the public that scores of building applications have been filed.

WITHOUT PROFIT.

The movement is for civic betterment, without profit to the corporation. Its officers are giving their time and business experience without hope of financial reward. Bankers, builders and material dealers have fallen into line. The result has been that money for construction is available at the legal rate of 6 per cent without bonus; materials are being provided at little more than cost, and some 7000 lots have been listed as available sites for dwellings.

The corporation has no money, nor does it assume any obligations. On the other hand, it insists that every house be financed before work is started, but it helps in the financing.

HELPS FINANCING.

It demands that each prospective builder shall have not less than 20 per cent of the total cost. Then it tells him where he can get a first mortgage for 60 per cent, and if necessary it puts him in touch with an institution that will take a second mortgage for the remaining 20 per cent.

"This plan is primarily to help those living on moderate salaries and incomes who have been hardest hit by the shortage of houses and the consequent high rents," A. W. Thompson, president of the corporation, says.

"With this in mind we have set out to build modest, substantial and comfortable homes at low cost. These houses will have all the conveniences and necessities. They will be good to look upon, but they will not be showy, and best of all, they will be worth every cent invested in them.

MASS PRODUCTION.

"We are simply applying to the man who wants a home the methods by which mass production has been successful, and giving him the benefit of the saving in costs."

Applications for houses are grouped into blocks of ten or more, to get the benefit of heavy buying and concentrated supervision.

The corporation has eleven basic plans and will build houses of four, five, six and seven rooms, at a cost of from $750 to $1000 a room. From these basic plans a limited number of other designs can be evolved. The plans are regarded as the best possible for this community.

Employees of a leading newspaper soon filled a club and decided to locate their colony in the South Hills district, where a large party of University of Pittsburg professors took up the question of building on land near the university. Neighbors living in flats and apartments in the congested residence sections have also approved the plan by forming neighborhood clubs. A number of manufacturing companies have taken up with the corporation the idea of providing houses to sell to their employees at cost.

NEARLY TARRED AND FEATHERED.

Itinerant Evangelist Gets Out of Town When He Feels the Liquid.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OSKALOOSA (Iowa) Aug. 11.—Aroused by alleged unpatriotic remarks concerning American dead in France, a mob said to have included a number of ex-service men last night seized the Rev. W. L. Wilfond, an itinerant evangelist preacher, at a tent meeting, forced the man into an automobile and carried him out in the country to apply tar and feathers. As the tar was being poured over his head, the man is said to have promised to leave town and was released without further punishment. The police have issued an order discontinuing the tent metings.

Want Congress to Investigate Legion Activity.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Congressional investigation of the American Legion's organization and alleged scandalous and disgraceful conduct of a small coterie of self-constituted, self-perpetuating officials, was asked in a petition presented today to Vice-President Coolidge and Speaker Gillett by Marvin Gates Sperry, national chairman of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' League.

It charged that a small group of men furnished hundreds of thousands of dollars for the Legion, and its officers were working in the interests of these men and for their own personal benefit.

Legion officers, it continued, were paying out vast sums of money for the benefit of the hidden group of men who furnished the secret funds for its organization, and no financial accounts had been filed with the government, as required under the Legion's Federal charter.

Robbers Appear in Yosemite and Hold Up Cashier

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YOSEMITE, Aug. 11.—Hold-up men appeared in the Yosemite National Park today for the first time in a score of years, and after covering the cashier at the Tenaya Lake Lodge with a pistol, took $150 from the cash drawer and fled with guests and employees of the lodge in pursuit.

Later reports from Tenaya Lake, which is sixty miles from the Yosemite Valley, at an elevation of 8100 feet, said the pursuers had overtaken the younger of the two bandits and one of the employees of the lodge was cut in the hand during a fight with him. Rangers have gone to assist in the pursuit. One of the robbers was armed with a pistol and the other with a knife.

JOBS IN CHICAGO MORE PLENTIFUL.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU REPORT SHOWS THERE ARE FEWER LOAFING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—In Chicago during July, 11,420 men and women applied to the Illinois Free Employment Bureau for jobs, and 3211 were successfully placed. The figures, issued today, indicate that there are 273 persons available for every 100 vacant positions, a slight betterment over last month's conditions, when there were 309 persons available for every 100 jobs. In the entire State 20,810 men and women applied for jobs and 8022 were placed.

A canvass of private employment agencies showed about the same proportions of unemployed placed during the month.

Announcement of a labor shortage in the northwestern wheat fields was made today by a railroad agency and later verified by the State Employment Bureau, but characterized by the latter as simply the usual seasonal and regional demand for farm help. This shortage is expected to prove of little help to the Chicago idle, however, as the majority haven't the fare to reach the wheat fields.

OREGON APPLE CROP ABOVE LAST YEAR'S.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11.—Estimates compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, made public today, indicate the production in Oregon this year of 5130 carloads, or 4,853,000 boxes of commercial apples, 8660 tons of pears and 21,610,000 pounds of dried prunes. Last year's apple crop was 3250 carloads, while that of 1919 was 5279 carloads.

The Southern Oregon apple crop is estimated at 25 to 40 per cent above that of last year, but pears promise only 55 to 60 per cent of the 1920 crop.

WOOD WILL GET PLACE AT MANILA.

General Said to Have Been Selected as Governor of Philippine Islands.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Maj.-Gen. Wood has authoritatively stated today to have been selected by President Harding for Govenor-General of the Philippines, and to have expressed his willingness to accept the post.

A bill designed to remove all doubt of eligibility of Gen. Wood for the governorship was introduced by Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Committee and understood to have been suggested by the administration. It provides that active army officers shall be eligible for "civil offices of the government in administering its territorial possessions."

DAVAO (P. I.) Aug. 11.—Maj.-Gen. Wood plunged into the surf and swam ashore yesterday at Cateel, Davao province, where the small boat on which his party was making a landing from the steamer was caught on a reef at the entrance to Mati Bay. The entire party was safely landed.

CROWDS SEE PETRIFIED MAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

KNOXVILLE (Tenn.) Aug. 11.—Curious crowds from all over Eastern Tennessee continued yesterday to flock to Helenwood, Scott county, where a gigantic "petrified man" was found several days ago. Cruise Sexton found the 800-pound image while prospecting for coal. It is a fairly perfect likeness of a man, adorned with horns and wings. It is the belief that the find possibly is a prehistoric relic of value.

WHAT IS FATE OF ARMY BEAN?

Recruits Declare Famous Fruit is Not on the Menus Any More.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMP LEWIS (Wash.) Aug. 11.—Army recruits are asking regarding the fate of the Army bean, storied piece-de-resistance of Army posts in the past. National Guardsmen in Washington, who have been in encampment here this summer, report they did not find beans on the menu once.

ESPEE DIVIDEND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—The board of directors of the Southern Pacific Company at New York today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, payable October 1 to stockholders of record on August 31, it was announced by local officials of the company.

Heat Experts Air Warm Views

Motive Back Of Engineer Scored

School Board Neutral as Heated Arguments and Accusations Are Made.

Head of Radiator Company Says Ventilating Institute Is Subsidized Concern.

The days of subtle propaganda did not end with the war.

This is the firm conviction of T. J. Potter, president of the Potter-Struts Radiator Corporation.

The days of unselfish altruism and broad philanthropy have arrived.

So held Arthur Bateman, director of publicity for the "Institution of Sanitary Heating and Ventilating Engineering."

The crash of the two opinions came last night at the meeting of the board of education when the two gentlemen, both of whom are from Los Angeles, gave their views of each other's business in terms which left no uncertainty as to meaning. The members of the board kept a perfectly neutral attitude, the only action being to file some letters Mr. Bateman introduced.

Mr. Bateman obtained permission two weeks ago to address the board at its last night meeting. He only asked to have ten minutes to explain his ideas on school heating. It looked harmless so he was given permission. He said his organization had as its aim the improving of the health of the general public, but particularly that of children, and one of the ways this aim is to be realized is to banish gas radiators. He gave a history of the advent of the gas radiator into the schools when the war made materials for other heating systems too high and installation almost impossible. He painted a black picture, truly done with a lot of chemical terms which sounded deadly. Vent or no vent, he was positively against the gas radiators. The chemical absorbers, which the gas radiator offered as its alibi, he said, did not absorb. He had proof of it in a report of a Joliet, Ill., hospital. Chemists, whose names he knew without looking at his manuscript, insisted that these absorbers do not destroy products of combustion. Life for the gas radiator certainly did look bleak and forlorn as the speech entered the second half.

Against Gas Radiator.

Mr. Bateman told of the victory of his organization in getting the gas radiators banished from a Los Angeles school. He told of physicians who said aenemia, diseases of the respiratory organs and other things came as a result of this sort of heating. Terra cotta vents, Mr. Bateman admitted, were better than concrete, which crumbles under the heat and constitutes a fire hazard, but even the terra cotta vent is to be viewed with suspicion. Alameda and San Mateo and other points north have refused to accept the gas radiator, so Bateman says, even with its terra cotta cloak of innocence.

Electricity is the most satisfactory heating arrangement, said Mr. Bateman, but is not always obtainable. Hot water heating is regarded by chemists as most desirable. Steam heat requires too much educating of teachers who will not obey the Mosaic code of the steam heater, and the steam heater, according to this expert, is a very difficult thing to manage. Once you forget the rules you are utterly out in the cold and frosty.

Potter Refers to Plot.

Mr. Bateman closed within the time limit and then up rose Mr. Potter and tore aside the veil. Mr. Potter got to the plot, as he saw it, without any three or four hundred feet of preliminaries and nary a substitute. He said the "institution" Mr. Bateman publicities for is the result of a slush fund raised by manufacturers of steam heating systems to fight the gas radiator makers.

"It is simply a subtle, paid propaganda this man has been talking to you," said Mr. Potter. "He gets his living from the checks paid by the steam heating men and his purpose is educating boards of education. I'm here to see that the education is not one-sided."

To this Mr. Bateman replied that he had no idea what the gentleman was talking about. He was sure of his altruism.

"Altruism, nothing," said Mr. Potter, "it is a commercial proposition. I'll prove it by asking Mr. Bateman one question if the board permits."

The board continued its role of innocent bystander.

"Don't your institution get checks from the American Radiator Company, manufacturers of hot water and steam radiation?"

MR. BATEMAN ADMITTED THAT SUCH CHECKS HAD BEEN RECEIVED, but he did not know for what amounts.

The board began to talk about George Washington plumbing.

OUR GUARANTEE

We guarantee Potter Warm Air Gas Radiation to be free from mechanical imperfections, and should any develop within five years from date of purchase, such parts will be replaced, free of charge, on the presentation of such parts at our factory.

We further guarantee that the rooms will at all times be free from gas odors; that the air will not be overheated, and that less ventilation will be required to keep the air pure than with any steam heating plant that can be installed. In the case of school boards and other public bodies, we are prepared to give a surety bond, in any amount desired, as a guarantee of the faithful performance of this guarantee.

In fact, our radiation may be returned or exchanged at any time, no matter how long it has been in use, at the then prevailing cost per section of same radiation.

Fair and simple, isn't it?

Furthermore, Potter Gas Radiation is manufactured complete from the pig iron right here in California. In fact, it is made in the largest and best equipped factory in California devoted to the manufacture of gas radiation. Entirely a California industry producing the best and most healthful heating plant possible.

RECESS PLANS GET SETBACK.

Delay in Tax Revision Bill is Prominent Factor.

Congress Unlikely to Adjourn Before August 24.

Democrats Demand Passage of Good Roads Measure.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The movement for a recess of Congress received several setbacks today and as a result the tentative date for beginning the thirty-day vacation turned back from Aug. 20 to Aug. 24 or 25.

Probable delay in House passage of the tax revision bill was the principal cause of talk of postponement. Rep. Mondell, Wyoming, House Republican leader, informed Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, Senate leader, that Aug. 20 appeared too early for a recess and that it now was probable the tax bill could not be gotten through until Aug. 24 or 25.

DEMOCRATS MAY FILIBUSTER.

Another obstacle to the proposed vacation was opposition among both Republican and Democratic Senators because of the status of several pending bills. Several Democrats served notice in the Senate today they would oppose a vacation resolution, possibly to the extent of filibustering, unless the good roads bill is enacted.

A compromise on this legislation was reached today by the Senate postoffice and post roads committee, which agreed to report a bill next Monday calling for $100,000,000 of government appropriations, $50,000,000 of which would be immediately available, with the balance in six months.

PLAN NEW SYSTEMS.

The committee adopted provisions giving authority to the States to lay out State roads systems, subject to approval by the Federal commission.

Sixty per cent of the Federal appropriation, which would have to be matched by the States, would be spent on interstate highways and 40 per cent on county roads required to connect with State systems.

Opposition to deferring the railroad debts funding bill also increased today but it appeared probable that it would go over until after the recess.

There were, however, some favorable developments in the recess movement.

The Senate next week will work on the Borah bill to restore free tolls privileges through the Panama Canal to American coastwise vessels, but a vote is improbable until after the recess.

MEXICANS OPPOSE PROFIT SHARING.

STATE LAW OF VERA CRUZ IS NOT MEETING FAVOR BY BUSINESS MEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 11.—Commercial and industrial interests of the State of Vera Cruz have informed Gov. Tejada that they are absolutely opposed to the operation of the State law providing for the distribution of the profits of industries among workmen and employers. They have declared that rather than submit to its provisions they will shut down all industrial plants. Farmers assert that they, too, will strike and refuse to plant crops if they law is enforced.

Several merchants appeared before the Federal court here and obtained the issuance yesterday of an injunction which has temporarily halted the operation of the law.

The law provides that the share of the workmen in the profits of a concern where they are employed shall not be less than 10 per cent while, in some instances, their share may be as high as 50 per cent.

MAHONEY MUST PLEAD BY TUESDAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 11. — James E. Mahoney, charged with the murder of his wife, Kate M. Mahoney here last April, was given until next Tuesday in which to enter a plea when arraigned in Superior Court today. His trial was tentatively set for September 12.

Mahoney's defense, it was indicated today, will be that he was handling "bootleg" whisky when he used a rowboat on Lake Union on the night of April 16 last, when the State alleges Mrs. Mahoney's body was packed in a trunk and thrown into the lake.

EDUCATORS HEAR UKELELE TINKLES.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) Aug. 11.—Leading educators of States and countries touched by the Pacific Ocean have been arriving in Honolulu for several days to attend the opening here today of the Pan-Pacific Educational conference, which is to continue for two weeks.

General sessions, to be held in the old throng-room of the capitol, will be presided over by Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford Junior University.

GOV. BLAINE FOR COAL MINE CONTROL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) Aug. 11.—Gov. J. J. Blaine of Wisconsin today declared for government control and operation of coal mines. That sentiment was expressed in a letter to Fred A. Baxter, Mayor of Superior, Wis., who petitioned Gov. Blaine to call a conference of governors of a number of western States to discuss the coal situation.

WASHOUTS ON RAILWAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Aug. 11.—Heavy rains, which occurred Wednesday in the vicinity of Caliente, Nev., washed out the Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railroad's tracks in several sections, causing six passenger trains east and westbound to be delayed.

Think of These Things Now, Family Folks—

Palisades Beach

Where can you go to have any private enjoyment on the beach? Already the beaches are crowded at all available places. The density of the crowds has increased greatly in the last two or three years. The only way you can get real pleasure from the beaches henceforth is to have our own private place. An opportunity such as you can never have again is open to you now at Palisades Beach.

There you are nearest Los Angeles—a short ride from Beverly Hills, Wilshire and Hollywood—at the front end of the highest-class residential development from Los Angeles westward to the sea—at the end of Wilshire, San Vicente and Santa Monica Boulevards.

You are at the most beautiful part of the Palisades, where the beauty of the mountains and crescent coast also is greatest. You are in the city of Santa Monica, in front of beautiful Palisades Park, Ocean Avenue and the exclusive Palisades residence section.

You have a lot thirty or more feet by 190 feet deep extending from Palisades Beach Road right down to the water's edge. You can have your place fenced in and lots of room both front and back for the children where they can enjoy the beach all day long under mother's watchful eye from the house or front porch.

You can entertain your friends and have little parties in your own front yard at the water's edge with no wet dogs, water bags or beach crowds to spoil it. You have a modern home with all the comforts and conveniences of your city house, where father can be at home with the family every night the same as he is in town, and mother can go into the city at any time with almost as much ease as she does when in town.

In five or six years your property is expected to be worth two, three or four times what you pay for it now. Lots less than half the size are now $200 to $1000 a front foot from Venice to Santa Monica.

Society must secure its beach playground here now or it will have none. High-class hotels and apartment buildings will be built on and near the Palisades above and Ocean Avenue will be society's promenade.

Palisades Beach lots are 30x190. Palisades Beach Road (paved) and Pacific Electric cars are in the rear. Water, gas, electricity, sewer and telephone lines are being put in and are included in the price of the lots.

Your own Pacific Ocean front in such desirable situation is very low priced indeed at $125 a front foot, or $3750 for a large lot.

There are very few such lots in existence and when these are sold the only way to get one will be to pay a premium to the shrewd and fortunate present buyer of one of these.

Make your reservation now.

JOFFRE'S CHEF WRITES HISTORY.

Critics Hope Cooking Better Than His Book.

Gneral Had Big Appetite, Writer Declares.

Tells How Gift of German Champagne Fared.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, July 26.—The latest war reminiscences to be printed are those of the chef who presided over the destinies of the French General Staff during the Battle of the Marne and who prepared the simple, but abundant, menu that Marshal, then Gen. Joffre, sat down to at very irregular hours.

If the chef's culinary accomplishments were not superior to his literary talent, then one pities poor Gen. Joffre, and it must have been a relief to the commander-in-chief to leave the mess table and return to the battle line.

"During the Battle of the Marne," says the chef, "the general put away enough food to feed three ordinary men." Then he adds naively: "I hope Mons. le Marechal won't mind what I say about the general."

One of the most amusing incidents related by the chef is that on September 12, when it became clear that the enemy was in full flight northward, and that the battle was won, congratulations were in order and he received instructions that the menu for the dinner should be as much of a banquet as his raw material would permit.

Just as the meal was about to be completed a British automobile came up to headquarters with a basket of champagne as a token of congratulation to the French staff. It came from a British unit in liaison. The chef was just getting ready to serve it when he noted that the bottles bore a German mark and he informed the officer of the fact. That worthy forbade him to serve the champagne to the staff and ordered him to throw the bottles away.

"We did," says the chef, "but only the next morning, and they were empty."

SHORTRIDGE EQUALS RECORD OF SENATE.

SECURES PASSAGE OF TWO BILLS IN ONE DAY BY UNANIMOUS CONSENT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Senator Shortridge today equaled the Senate record of securing the passage men and Senator by the House Comconsent. The first bill creates an additional judgeship on the Federal bench in the northern district of California. This relief is greatly needed by the bench in this district, due to the greatly increased business before all the courts.

The second bill is one introduced in the House by Congressman Curry, who secured its passage there, providing for a preliminary survey by the War Department of a flood control of the Calaveras River. The bill as it passed the Senate under the pressure of Senator Shortridge is identical with the bill which passed the House and the measure now goes to the President for approval.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Harding today cabled formal invitations to the governments of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and China to attend the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern problems.

The Senate voted today to take up for consideration the Borah bill providing for free use of the Panama Canal by American coastwise ships. Amendments may be added to include all American shipping.

President Harding assured Senator Borah today that negotiations with Germany were proceeding satisfactorily.

Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee approvide today the principle of the American valuation scheme as embodied in the Fordney tariff bill.

Dr. Ben L. Reitman failed today to get back his passport from the State Department, and is returning to Chicago instead of going to Russia.

Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee completed their work on the tax bill, which will probably be reported on Tuesday, taken up on the floor Wednesday or Thursday and passed before the end of the week.

FORT DEARBORN BANK ROBBERY CLEARED UP.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. — John W. Worthington, named by Federal authorities as the directing head of a "robbers' trust" whichhas handled $1,000,000 in stolen government securities in the last year, was linked today with the theft of $50,000 in United States certificates from the Fort Dearborn National Bank in May, 1920.

Securities valued at $30,000 which were stolen at that time were found in the Drexel State Bank in a safety deposit box. Federal authorities said the box, which was held in the name of H. Sullivan, was owned by Worthington. Indictments charging Worthington with receiving the stolen property will be asked by Asst. State's Atty. Hodges tomorrow.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING PROGRAM IS STOPPED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—There will be no building this year by the United States aside from hospitals for the care of veterans of the World War. Formal notice to this effect has been sent to all Congressmen and Senators by the House committee on Buildings and Grounds.

Not only will there be no general building bill, as in former sessions, but all individual bills proposing additions or betterments or new buildings will be held in committee for this session. The reasons are the general policy of economy and retrenchment in expenditures.

than ever before. We believe he will. Read these details:

4 wells, 40 rich acres, 4 oil sands.
Surrounded by big, long-lived production right now.
7 neighboring wells averaging 2016 bbls. per day.
Only 1500 non-assessable units to share in all the oil.
1000 buys 1 barrel out of every 1500.
2000 buys 2 barrels out of 1500, or 1 out of 500.
3000 buys 3 barrels out of 1500, or 1 out of 300.

After the standard after-production operating expenses only, is deducted, until 7 barrels out of every 8—14 out of every 16, etc.

The first oil sand is at 1865 feet. Over ½ of Hellenic's neighbors are producers. Hellenic's first well is below 1450 feet. Hellenic units are $100 each. Call in person or forward check. Books will close without notice.

The Money Is Yours

If you buy a direct interest in a well, you own a share of the oil produced; and you get the money for that share. No board of directors decides whether the money shall go into dividends or into more work.

There will be 1800 interests in the well drilled on my 40 acres in Eastland County, Texas. Each costs $100. If this well produces $5,000 a day, it means $100 a month on each $100 invested—$1200 a year. This money will be paid you direct by the pipe line company buying the oil.

This land is entirely surrounded by producing wells. You know if we hit oil you get the money—and you can tell how much to the dollar when you learn the flow of oil. Thousands of men have made themselves independent with the steady income from wells such as these. Let us show you the possibilities.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Agricultural Export Credit Bill Declared to be Opening Wedge in Moving Surplus Stocks to Foreign Markets.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

Among the most important legislative matters now before Congress is that known as the agricultural export credit bill proposed by Senator Kellogg as a substitute for the Norris farm export financing bill. Senator Kellogg's measure was designed to incorporate more nearly the views of the administration on the matter of the financing of exports and is said to have been drafted by Secretary Hoover and Eugene Meyer, managing director of the War Finance Corporation.

L. M. Maynard, manager of the economic research department of the Citizens' National Bank, in a telegram from Washington to Trade Talk predicts the early passage of this bill and designates it as an economic blessing of great importance.

It is the purpose of the agricultural export credit bill to extend direct financial aid to the producers and exporters of those farm products of which there is at present in this country a large surplus, but for which export demand is limited because of lack of foreign credits.

Under its provisions the War Finance Corporation is authorized, wherever in its opinion the public interest requires it, to make advances to the banks engaged in financing agricultural sections, to extend credits to exporters and in extreme cases directly to foreign governments desirous of purchasing agricultural products in this country.

The War Finance Corporation has had four years of experience in meeting problems of this type. Under the Kellogg bill as reported from the Senate Agricultural Committee it is authorized to increase its bond-issuing powers from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 in order to properly finance the operations incident to carrying out the policies outlined in the bill.

The possibilities which this extension of the functions of the War Finances Corporation opens up for the relief of agricultural sections are enormous. It makes possible the application of credit where it is most needed and yet almost impossible to obtain through ordinary channels.

A proper administration of these new credit facilities will make it possible to control, in a large measure, the supplies on hand in this country of such basic agricultural commodities as corn and wheat. At the present time, for instance, we have a large oversupply of corn, whereas our visible supply of wheat is at or very near the danger point in view of our average domestic consumption. By liberal extension of credit for the exportation of corn, it will be possible to move our surplus of that product, at the same time by limiting credit for the exporting of wheat, to maintain our reserves where they are at the present.

Incidentally it is interesting to know that we are already beginning to feel the beneficial results of the war relief work. Corn is almost entirely an American product and before the war the demand for it from foreign countries was limited. Through the agency of the war relief commission great quantities of corn found their way into European countries with the result that there is now an active demand for this product in many sections where it was entirely unknown before the war.

INTRENCH—RETRENCH.

"We didn't retrench. We intrenched."

The answer is that of a well-known business man who was asked to explain the consistent upholding of his business during a period of general depression, and it tells a story which both points a moral and adorns a tale.

The concerns which have kept their organizations intact, maintained their advertising, trimmed sail judiciously, refrained from getting excited and strengthened their position wherever possible are the ones which have come through with flying colors.

In most instances such a policy has cost less than a complete shutdown, and now, when resumption and production are the order of one day they are in a position to take advantage of the returning market while competitors must spend several weeks, or months, as the case may be, in rebuilding their scattered forces.

There is a real sermon in that meaty sentence: "We didn't retrench, we intrenched."

NIGHT BANKING.

While the fate of the night bank in Los Angeles is hanging in the balance, San Francisco has established her first institution of this kind with the opening of the Liberty Bank at the corner of Market and Mason streets. The innovation is said to be proving popular in the northern city. Marshall Hale is president of the new bank, which is open from 9 a.m. until midnight.

RESERVE INCREASE.

Percentage Shows Remarkable Advance; Stock Market Review; Impressive Picture of Our Foreign Trade.

Financial Editor New York "Times."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The incidents bearing on the financial position today were the report of last month's foreign trade, showing heavy shrinkage from preceding months, and the weekly Federal reserve statement with a rather remarkable increase in percentage of reserves. The markets pursued a course independent of one another. Wheat prices more than recovered their decline of the day before; cotton declined and recovered alternately; sterling exchange advanced 3 cents, though without activity and the stock market went lower.

The decline in stocks, which affected the entire market, did not result from any news of the day, except insofar as Wall street had learned that further measures of relief had been necessitated in one of the worst cases of overdone company credit engagements during the commercial illusions of a year ago.

The numerous declines of a point or more today occurred mostly with the industrial shares. Railway stocks held relatively firm; which did not give color to the idea that the market was alarmed by the opposition among some Congressmen to the plan for funding the debt of the railways to the government.

Ratio of reserve to notes and deposits of the whole Federal system rose from 63 3-4 to 65. How large a "surplus reserve" this represents is shown by the fact that, if the legal minimum percentage were applied against deposits, there would be left against the note circulation a gold reserve of 55 per cent, when only 40 per cent is required by law.

The New York Reserve Bank reduced circulation, loans and deposits heavily; so that, even though it again parted with some of its gold holdings to other reserve districts, its own reserve percentage was fractionally higher.

The government's report of the country's foreign trade in July, gives an impressive picture of the state of international commerce. Measured by values, last month's exports were the smallest since September, 1915, its imports the smallest since November, 1915. It is not easy to say just what has been the decrease in quantity of exports or imports.

Taking the Bradstreet average, prices in July were 60 per cent as high as those of a year before, whereas the money value of the month's exports was less than one-half that of the previous July and the money value of the imports only one-third of the 1920 figures.

This comparison means a substantial loss of tonnage, much greater with imports than with exports. But the money value largely regulates the national credit balance and the profits of trade; and this lends importance to the fact that while the July export trade was smaller by $329,000,000 than a year ago, the surplus of exports was actually $30,000,000 greater.

BUSINESS NEWS.

Dun's Review says that the revival of business, although by no means general in scope, is becoming sufficiently well defined in some quarters to strengthen the hopeful views recently expressed.

A distinct trend in the right direction has lately developed in textile markets, with broader and more confident trading on both domestic and foreign account, and moderate gains appear in certain other lines that have long been depressed.

Even in the iron and steel industry, where production has fallen to extremely low levels, the outlook is more favorably regarded and an improved sentiment exists. Without any noticeable departure from conservative action, buyers' interest is gradually returning and operations in different channels are slowly expanding at a season when an opposite tendency would not seem unnatural.

After many months of liquidation, with stocks of goods undergoing depletion, the need for new supplies is becoming more manifest, and purchasing for the future is, on the whole, characterized by less hesitation.

These are salient features of a situation which, while leaving much to be desired, discloses clear evidence of a change for the better. The fact that progress is still highly irregular, with none at all yet visible in various places, is not surprising, considering the far-reaching readjustment that followed the war's ending and the difficulties experienced during the transition.

Industries and trades in which deflation was delayed are laggards in the present movement toward recovery, but underlying conditions are unmistakably stronger and a note of cheerfulness now marks most reports.

CENTRAL ARIZONA POWER.

In connection with the Central Arizona Light and Power Company bonds which are finding ready assimilation in this market a recent report made by the corporation is of interest as showing the growth of all departments in unit output. The following comparison is made for twelve months ended July 1, 1921, with the similar period ended July 1, 1920:

	Per cent.
KWH sold, residence lighting, increase	27
KWH sold, business lighting, increase	23
KWH sold, commercial power, increase	31
Cubic feet gas sold, increase	15
Number of customers (gas)	1,634
Number of customers (electric)	15 6-10

The company, which operates in Phoenix and vicinity, has found it necessary to make additions and improvements totaling over $130,000 to meet the present needs of the community and is indicative of the progress made by this territory over its condition of one year ago.

In the Salt River Valley, of which Phoenix is the hub, the dairy and stock raising industry is again established. Feed this year is said to be abundant.

The Pacific Creamery, a large institution owned by Armour & Co., which closed during the period of extensive cotton raising has recently been reopened. It is pointed out that for a community almost exclusively sustained by agriculture these points show rapid advancement.

STOCK MARKET.

Oils continued to be the feature of the local market yesterday with the tendency still downwards except in General Petroleum which rallied from the slump in which it

A Prediction Fulfiled—

In less than two months' partial operation of the new CARIBOU plant, the GREAT WESTERN POWER System has, as predicted, cut down its operating expenses and increased its revenues.

A year ago we predicted net earnings at $3,562,000 for the twelve months ending July 31, 1921. Now, for the year ending June 30, 1921, the Company reports actual net earnings of $3,708,085—or $108,000 greater than our prediction, and $1,100,000, or 40% greater than the net earnings of the previous year.

This highly satisfactory fulfillment of our prediction justifies our strong recommendation of this company's First and Refunding Mortgage 7% Bonds due 1950, at 96 and interest.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Encouraged by the success of yesterday's drive, speculators for the short account renewed their operations today and brought about a further decline.

Trading was more active and the downward movement proceeded steadily. An attempt late in the day to drive the shorts to cover failed to halt the recession and the closing was weak. Sales amounted to 550,000 shares.

New low prices for the year were reached by a number of issues, including American Sugar, Utah Copper, American International, General Electric and Central Leather, preferred.

Although railroad stocks sold off with the remainder of the list, heaviness was most pronounced among the industrials. Oils, equipments, motors and sugars responded readily to the pressure.

The semiannual earnings statement of General Asphalt, showing a deficit of more than $900,000, was the occasion for selling these shares, forcing down the common and preferred about five points each.

Sentiment was decidedly bearish, but the day brought no developments to account for the trend of quotations. Trading continued to be largely in the hands of professionals.

The downward movement in sterling exchange was halted. Demand bills crossed $3.66 late in the day, with some improvement in other exchange. Call money continued to hold at 6 per cent, but there was sensible stiffening of quotations for time funds, with offerings small.

A break of more than three points in Cuba Cane Sugar 7's was the feature of the bond market. Total sales, par value, $9,900,000.

Liberty Bonds continued to move in uncertain fashion.

SAN FRANCISCO OIL STOCKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Oil stocks: Palmer Dabs, 3 bid, 5 asked; Palmer Union, pfd., 24 bid.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE REVIEW.

has been plunged for several days. Yesterday's transactions were all at 80.00, a two-and-a-quarter-point rise over the low of the preceding day.

The Unions were weak. California opened at the Wednesday peg of 130.00 but quickly sold off a point and a half, closing with sales at 128.50, while Delaware opened at 17.00, a point and a half under Wednesday's close, developing further weakness to sales at 16.87½. There was considerable activity in Republic Petroleum around 27 cents, the close being a half point higher.

Mines were affected by the general depression, United Eastern especially losing nine points over night and another five points this morning while the closing bid was at 2.07½, a net loss for the twenty-four-hour period of 16½ points. Tom Reed held its own at 70 cents, and there was lively trading in Oatman United at 5½ and 6 cents.

Industrials were strong, Goodyear preferred gaining a quarter over the preceding day and selling up to 56.00. Los Angeles Investment at 84 cent and California Edison around 92.50 were the other leaders under this heading.

BREA WATER BONDS.

An issue of $40,000 city of Brea water works 6 per cent bonds is announced by Blyth, Witter & Co. This municipal issue is tax exempt in California and also from Federal income taxes. The bonds constitute legal investment for California savings banks. Maturities range from 1922 to 1961.

The city of Brea has incurred no debt for purposes other than water works. The total debt including this issue is $115,000, with an assessed valuation for the city for 1920-1921 amounting to $1,191,000. All of the debt is self-supporting.

Brea is located in a rich agricultural district made doubly prosperous by oil production and is rapidly growing in resources and population.

The bonds are to be sold at a price to yield from 5.625 per cent to 6 per cent depending upon maturity.

MUNICIPAL SALES.

The city of Santa Monica School District will offer for public bidding a $250,000 issue of 6 per cent school bonds on August 15. A $40,000 issue of 6 per cent Chaffey Union High School bonds will be sold August 22.

WESTERN UNION ISSUE.

A $15,000,000 issue of Western Union Telegraph Company, fifteen-year, 6½ per cent gold bonds was put on the market yesterday. They are being marketed by a selling group headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and are being offered on allotment by several local bond houses. The issue is priced at 99 and interest, yielding about 6.60 per cent, and is not redeemable until the maturity date, Aug. 1, 1936.

The Western Union has been in operation since 1850 and supplies 85 per cent of the telegraphic service in the United States, as well as cable service to all parts of the world. It has paid dividends since 1851 without cessation and at a rate of 7 per cent since 1917. The company's average income for the five years ended Dec. 31, 1920, was in excess of $14,000,000, or over ten times the interest charges during the same period. It has not been in the market for a loan since 1907.

DEMAND FOR UTILITIES.

The local office of the Guaranty Company of New York has received word from its eastern headquarters that there is now a heavy demand throughout the East for long-term, seasoned public utility bonds. Recent issues such as the Brooklyn Edison, the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, and the Kansas City Power and Light Company, are now bringing substantial prices. The time when public utilities of this nature could be bought at prices yielding 8 per cent has past, according to the Guaranty Company.

OFFICERS QUIZ ALLEGED BANDIT.

Warrant Issued in Long Beach Shooting Case.

Police Seek Identity of Victim of Amnesia.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 11.—Joseph C. Pasitume alias Joe Bass, alleged Chicago gunman charged with the shooting of Patrolman J. J. Delaney a week ago was served with a warrant charging him with an assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. The warrant was issued by Justice S. H. Underwood. Further evidence tending to close the net tighter around the young Italian fruit dealer was unearthed by the police working on the case today.

Another man and a woman were taken into custody in connection with the case. The woman is Ethel Caspari, who was alleged to have been living as the wife of Ludwig Peterson at 1451 Lime avenue. Peterson is being held on suspicion of being the third bandit who was acting as a lookout on the night of the shooting.

Late this afternoon it was announced at the Long Beach Sanatorium where Patrolman Delaney is lying in a critical condition, that the patient had taken a turn for the worse today. Whether he will live will depend on the developments in the next twenty-four hours, physicians said.

Conflicting statements have been made by Bass, charged with the shooting, in regard to his whereabouts on the night in question, the police announced today. In his examination by detectives he is said to have declared he was at two or three different places on the night of the shooting and then to have admitted he did not know for sure where he was. A burglar's kit, it is said, was found hidden in the room occupied by Bass at the time of his arrest. A revolver containing two empty shells was also found, the police say. A number of pawn tickets found in the prisoner's possession will be checked up for the recovery of possible stolen property.

AMNESIA VICTIM.

There is being held in the Long Beach City Jail this afternoon a mystery man apparently a victim of amnesia. He is well dressed, has more than a hundred dollars in currency on his person, but does not know his name or address for how he got here. All he remembers, he says, is that he was advised by some one to go to the police station and that he paid some one 25 cents to direct him to the place.

An examination by the police shows that the man had recently suffered a broken left arm and left collar bone and from all indications had recently escaped or been dismissed apparently well from some hospital. He is about 42 years old, dark complexion, wears a black mustache, weighs 141 pounds and is five feet nine inches in height.

PAYS FOR SPORT.

Mrs. Myrtle Winchell, 129 Gaviota street, was fined by Justice S. H. Underwood this afternoon for wringing the necks of three of her neighbor's chickens.

The chickens, property of J. R. Marshall, local automobile dealer, were wont to roam from their own yard into Mrs. Winchell's garden where they dined de luxe, the evidence tended to show. Mrs. Winchell admitted that she executed three of the birds by the neck-wringing route and then cast their bodies back into Mr. Marshall's yard. Justice Underwood decided the sport was worth $15 a wring to Mrs. Winchell and fined her $15.

MRS. OBENCHAIN AND BURCH ARE INDICTED IN KENNEDY MURDER CASE.

BARGAIN SALE HITS HARBOR.

Rival Port Work is Crippled by Power Bond Deal.

"Must be Held Up a Year," Council is Told.

Fiery Clash in Council Over Secret Agreement.

To hitherto-unrealized extent to which Los Angeles Harbor, greatest of the city's potential assets, will be as a result of the hurried and ill-timed sale by the city of its bonds, was made plain yesterday by President Gordon of the Harbor Commission, commenting on statement on the Council floor earlier in the day by Councilman Rose to the effect that harbor work may be tied up for an entire year as a result of the bond tie-up, occurring at the present time in the harbor's affairs, coming as a result of the deal made by the Hellman syndicate which bought the power bonds, but no other Los Angeles bonds shall be placed on the market for sixty days after the delivery of the power issue. This means that the issue of $1,200,000 harbor bonds cannot be sold for at least three and a half months, and perhaps much longer. Because of the forced sale, ruinous discount is involved, the harbor bonds which have been sold for a premium of 1 per cent.

The harbor bonds were voted for the express purpose of carrying out the agreement with the Salt Lake road involving the use of certain property in the harbor—an agreement which will only after years of effort

The money from the sale of the harbor bonds the Harbor Commission planned first to do the preliminary work required of the city before the government can proceed with the dredging operations to which it has agreed and for which bids are to be opened on August 22, only two weeks hence.

Government work, which must be completed before the city acts, will be completed—probably required nine months to one year—before the city can start building docks and wharves. The agreement with the Salt Lake provides for the construction of a railway at the harbor, according to the Salt Lake agreement, by means of a drawbridge or tunnel from the mainland. This also is included under the Salt Lake agreement.

DIVORCEE AND MINISTER'S SON ACCUSED OF SLAYING.

Grand Jury Acts After Day-Long Quiz; Dead Broker's Sweetheart Collapses at Ordeal's End.

Indictments charging Arthur C. Burch and Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy were returned late yesterday before Judge Reeve by the county grand jury. He held both without bail. They will be arraigned at 9 a.m. Monday.

The jurymen spent the entire day in hearing witnesses testify about the murder of Kennedy, young Los Angeles broker, who was killed with a shotgun on Friday night at his summer place in Beverly Glen. They examined many exhibits.

Mrs. Obenchain, Kennedy's sweetheart, and Burch, her friend and a friend of her divorced husband, were among the score of witnesses. But Burch, it is understood, refused to testify, and from the short time Mrs. Obenchain was in the room it was apparent that she, too, refused to talk. When she was taken back to the jail she collapsed. Burch retained the remarkable composture and self-assurance that characterize him. Mrs. Obenchain's erstwhile husband, who is an attorney, is on his way here from Chicago, in response to an appeal from her.

Charles L. Elmendorff, foreman, handed the indictments to Judge Reeve as Dist. Atty. Woolwine and his deputy, Asa Keyes, stood by. Burch and Mrs. Obenchain were not present, having been taken back to the jail immediately after their brief appearance in the grand-jury room.

The indictments are understood to have been predicted on evidence furnished by The Times. This evidence was given by Otis M. Wiles, reporter for The Times, who found the exploded shotgun shells, the track of the murderer's automobile and located the car itself, and by E. W. Cummings and N. Hanley, whose names were furnished the authorities by Mr. Wiles.

Mr. Wiles, in the presence of Thomas Besanty, a boy resident in the canyon, found two empty shotgun cartridges last Saturday near the scene of the murder. One cartridge was picked up beside the road and about sixty feet south of the Kennedy cottage. The other was found about forty feet farther south beside the road. Both still contained a faint odor of burned powder when they were picked up and by their size and the location in which they were found, it was established several days ago that Mr. Kennedy was slain with a double-barreled .12-gauge shotgun. Had it been a pump gun the shells would have been ejected on the spot, automatically where the murderer stood.

CLEW IN RAVINE.

The Times reporter also was given a statement last Saturday by Ralph Cummings, a resident in the glen, who said he had seen—on Friday night and about half an hour before the murder was committed—an automobile hidden in a little ravine in the exact location where The Times reporter also found imprints of two distinct tire treads, of different makes. This car, with lights dimmed and which had been backed off the road and behind the brush, was also seen by E. W. Cummings and N. Hanley, also residents in the glen, at approximately the same time. The two latter men were in an automobile which entered the glen a few minutes before Ralph Cummings had seen the hidden car.

E. W. Cummings and Hanley were the last witnesses to be called before the grand jury.

The place where the car was hid is about 200 yards south of the Kennedy cottage. It was here that the Times reporters found the impression of the two automobile tires, so situated on the road that, if the car had backed into the glen, they indicated they were the rear and front tires on the right side of the car. These impressions tallied with the tread of the rear and front right tires on an automobile that was used by Burch last Friday night, before and after the hour of the murder.

The testimony of these witnesses, it is believed, provided the only clew by which it may be established that Burch, in the rented Dodge roadster with Lancaster and Hartford cord tires, may have been in the vicinity of the Kennedy cottage on the night of the murder.

An entirely new bit of evidence against Burch came to light yesterday. It was to the effect that a thorn had been removed from his left knee after his arrest at Las Vegas. There is much brush about the Beverly Glen cottage where Mr. Kennedy was murdered. It appears that the thorn had been removed from Burch's knee sometime after his confinement in jail.

Dr. John J. Finley, acting jail physician, was before the grand jurors. It is believed he testified about the thorn. Malcom MacLaren, special investigator for the District Attorney, stated yesterday that he examined Burch's shoulder Wednesday, reporting it appeared to be "slightly discolored." The theory is that the explosion of a shotgun, loosely held, would cause a bruise. Mr. MacLaren was a witness before the grand jury.

BURCH IN GOGGLES.

Both Burch and Mrs. Obenchain were taken into the grand jury room. Burch, when he arrived from the jail, wore automobile goggles. He nodded toward a newspaper reporter and remarked to the deputies, "He's going to buy me a drink."

Burch, not having been under the oath of secrecy, at the County Jail last night told what had occurred during the few minutes he was before the grand jury. He said Mr. Woolwine had given him the usual notification that an accused person is not compelled to testify, and that he had taken advantage of this at once. Then, he said Mr. Woolwine began:

"You realize, Mr. Burch, that you were in the hotel at—" whereupon Burch interrupted, "Pardon me, Mr. Woolwine, but I guess I didn't make myself quite clear that I do not care to testify." That ended the interview, and Burch was taken directly back to jail.

Photographs of the automobile tires and the tire tracks at the scene of the murder that were taken by Times photographers after Mr. Wiles had located the tracks and the shotgun shells were called for and taken into the grand jury room.

More than a score of witnesses were heard by the grand jury, taking all morning and all afternoon to relate their stories. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes conducted the quiz. The first witness was Autopsy Surgeon Wagner. It is believed he discussed the condition of Mr. Kennedy's body and made known the conclusions reached by him after he had conducted an autopsy examination.

W. M. Strother, the undertaker who prepared the body for burial, was the second witness.

John D. Kennedy, father of the GARBAGE PACT EXECUTED.

Contracts expected to end the controversy as to how the city shall dispose of its garbage were executed yesterday, according to communications from the Board of Public Works to the City Council. These consist of an agreement covering the garbage disposal by the Pacific Reduction Company until September 10 and a ten-year contract with C. H. Hopkins, acting for the Fontana Farm Lands Company of San Bernardino county.

The Board of Public Works reported that, since a contract with Mr. Hopkins had been entered into, instructions and authorization are requested from the Council as to whether or not the $10,000 check submitted by G. W. Whitman should be returned. This check was posted as a good-faith guarantee by Mr. Whitman in his bid for the city's garbage. The contract was not executed, although the bid was accepted. On the failure of the Whitman syndicate to fulfill its contract, the bid of Mr. Hopkins was accepted.

The Council also is requested to have the City Clerk deliver to the board the $10,000 guarantee check of Mr. Hopkins, that it may be returned to him. The communications were referred to the Finance Committee by the City Council.

Supervisors Bean, Cogswell and Wright and Dr. E. A. Pomeroy, County Health Officer, yesterday visited the Fontana property and also the Diamond Bar Ranch, near Pomona. Supervisor Bean reported that the Diamond Bar, where 1400 hogs are being fed, is the cleanest and best managed ranch he ever saw, and that he could detect no odor emanating from it.

The Fontana Ranch, where the garbage will be sent, comprises about 18,000 acres, and the feeding place is four miles from the nearest dwelling house. It is proposed to transport the garbage there from Los Angeles in water-tight tank cars over the Salt Lake, leaving Los Angeles between midnight and 2 a.m.

KENNEDY VISITED BURCH'S ROOM, DECLARES WITNESS.

Says Broker Was Summoned by Woman Waving Kerchief Three Nights Before Murder.

J. Belton Kennedy, the slain broker, visited the room of Arthur C. Burch in the Russell Hotel three nights before the mysterious killing in Beverly Glen and for which Burch and Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain were indicted yesterday on a charge of murder.

Facts pertaining to Mr. Kennedy's visit to the room, where he was summoned by a woman who waved to him from a window, were discovered last night by The Times and S. R. Jackson of the Nick Harris Detective Agency and placed in the hands of county officials.

The person who witnessed Mr. Kennedy's visit to Burch's room is Margaret Ollinger, janitress in the Homer Laughlin Building and who resides on Towne avenue. Early this morning an investigation of the angle of the case opened by her statement was begun by Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Nolan.

Here is Mrs. Ollinger's story:

On Tuesday night, three nights prior to the murder of Mr. Kennedy, Mrs. Ollinger was working on the fifth floor of the Homer Laughlin Building, one floor above that on which Mr. Kennedy's offices are located. It was approximately 9 p.m.

The janitress was working in an office facing Broadway. Shortly before Mr. Kennedy appeared on that floor she had seen a woman waving a handkershief from the window of a room which she later learned was that of Burch. Though she had known Mrs. Obenchain, having seen her on numerous occasions during about two years ago, Mrs. Ollinger could not identify the woman who waved as Mrs. Obenchain.

Mrs. Ollinger descended in the elevator with Mr. Kennedy. She said last night he appeared very nervous and sad. They stood on the sidewalk in front of the building for a few minutes and talked. Mr. Kenpedy crossed the street toward the Russell Hotel. The janitress, who admits she was curious, watched him. Mr. Kennedy hesitated in front of the candy store on the ground floor of the hotel building, stopped, looked around, gazed up at the window from which the woman had waved, then advanced to the stairway and ascended very rapidly. A few moments later, the woman in the room reached up and drew down the window blind.

While gazing across the street from the Homer Laughlin Building Mrs. Ollinger stated, she had seen a man sitting on the bed while the woman waved. She said she could not identify him, though the room was that occupied by Burch.

STORY SUPPORTED.

Thomas Armstrong, night elevator operator in the Homer Laughlin Building, verified that part of Mrs. Ollinger's story relating to Mr. Kennedy's departure from the building at 9 p.m. Mr. Armstrong stated that the janitress had told him that night of Mr. Kennedy's peculiar actions and the waving by the woman.

Mr. Kennedy returned to the Homer Laughlin Building, the elevator operator said, about ten or fifteen minutes later. He went to the Kennedy offices and remained there about twenty minutes. Then he left the building for the last time that night.

According to Mr. Armstrong, the young broker told him that he was expecting a visit from "a friend" from some ship. This "friend," Mr. Armstrong said, did not appear at the building during that night.

KNEW KENNEDY WELL.

Mrs. Ollinger added that she has been employed at the office of the building, always working at night, for eight years and had known Mr. Kennedy well during that period; that she always regarded him as a "good boy of temperate habits," congenial and always in good spirits. She had seen him return to his office on other nights, but he always departed before 7 p.m.

The fact that he was present in the building at such a late hour on the Tuesday night mentioned, that he had seen the woman waving from the window on the opposite side of the street and that he seemed very much worried about something—something quite unusual for him—had aroused her suspicions.

Mrs. Obenchain, she stated, visited Mr. Kennedy in his office on several occasions about two years ago, but she had not been seen by any of the building employees recently.

WARRANT IS ISSUED FOR BRIBERY SUSPECT.

When the case against A. B. Perry, charged with having attempted to bribe an officer, was called in court yesterday, a bench warrant for his arrest was issued by Judge Conley. It is asserted that Mr. Perry, who is a restaurant man of Los Angeles Harbor, tried to bribe Officer L. J. Vignau of that city by giving him a $5 bill.

TWO INDICTED AS SLAYERS.

Mrs. Obenchain and Burch Charged With Murder of J. Belton Kennedy.

slain broker was the next witness. Mr. Kennedy in previous statements had told of the relations between his son and Mrs. Obenchain, who was his companion on the night of the murder.

FROM BEVERLY GLEN.

The fourth witness was George Deering. Mr. Deering is a resident of the glen and was one of the first persons to respond to Mrs. Obenchain's screams. He had previously told Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Nolan of the tragic scene enacted immediately following the murder.

Mrs. Lizzie Besanti, also a resident of the glen and one of the first to reach the scene of the shooting, also appeared before the grand jury.

Thomas Besanti, her son, was present when the two shotgun shells were found. He was the sixth witness.

T. M. Haley also testified. Mr. Haley is manager of the Russell Hotel, where Burch resided for two weeks and where he kept a two weeks' vigil on Mr. Kennedy's room on the opposite side of the street. Mr. Haley was the person who first "tipped off" the Sheriff's office concerning Burch's mysterious movements while residing at the hotel. His action led to the arrest of the murder suspect.

Blanche Rogers, a maid at the Russell Hotel and who also was a witness, had previously supported Mr. Haley's statements made to the Sheriff's office.

THE LONG SUIT CASE.

It was at this stage of the hearing when Deputy Sheriff Nolan appeared on the scene with Burch's extraordinarily long suit case, which, it is believed, was thoroughly searched and measured to determine if it would conceal a shotgun.

Deputy Sheriffs Cronin and Johnson, members of the night force at the Sheriff's office and who first arrived upon the scene and took Mrs. Obenchain in custody, were the next witnesses.

A. B. Niles, night clerk at the Russel Hotel, is believed to have furnished the grand jury information on Burch's peculiar actions at the hotel similar to the information offered by Mr. Haley and Mrs. Rogers. It was Mr. Niles who saw Burch leave the hotel suddenly on the night of the murder—about 7:30 p.m.—with a long package under his arm, though Burch did not bring it back to the hotel when he returned shortly before midnight.

Mr. Wiles, the Times reporter, who found the empty shotgun shells and first located the impressions of automobile tires near the scene, who secured statements from Ralph Cummings, E. W. Cummings and N. Hanley, the men who had seen an automobile in the ravine shortly before the shooting, and who furnished information which led to the finding of the automobile rented by Dick Parsons, was the next witness.

Lynne Keith, night manager of the Parsons Brothers' Auto Livery, had been on duty on the night of the murder and had rented the Dodge roadster to Burch. Dick Parsons is one of the proprietors of the garage. These two men were also witnesses.

CONFIDANTE HEARD.

Mrs. M. Louis Wilson, manicurist and confidante of Mrs. Obenchain, the woman who handled the mail between Mrs. Obenchain and Mr. Kennedy, was the next witness.

Among the last to testify were Mr. Cummings and Mr. Hanley, for whom a speedy expedition to the glen was made by Deputy Sheriff Bright following the testimony of The Times reporter.

While the grand jury was in session, Mrs. Obenchain was taken to to the District Attorney's office and Mr. Woolwine was closeted with her for two hours. All the principal investigators were called into the room at various times, and one of them brought a woman's black enamel leather hat box. It was believed an effort was being made to identify the hat Burch's mysterious cousin wore when she called on him at the hotel opposite Kennedy's offices.

BEACH PICTURES.

Another article taken into the room was a billfold, said to have been in Burch's possession. This contained some papers and some photographs of Mrs. Obenchain. These were taken on a beach, and showed her in a dress she is known to still possess. Mrs. Obenchain previously had said she had been photographed with Burch on a beach at Chicago. The officers are attempting to find evidences that the pictures show a California beach.

One of the witnesses confronting Mrs. Obenchain yesterday was Richard Parsons of the garage where the automobile had been rented.

Burch appeared downcast while the grand jury was in session, but he did not lose his remarkable self-composure.

"Mrs. Obenchain's version of my visit to Los Angeles was correct," he declared. "In time it can be explained. At the proper time we will also explain about the automobile."

"NEVER SAW HIM."

Burch said he did not believe that the hardware clerk who saw him yesterday in an effort to identify him as the man that bought shells identical with those the murderer used had recognized him.

"I knew I never saw the man before," he said.

Burch said the visits of his "cousin" also would be explained at the proper time.

He showed a telegram he received yesterday from S. T. Meservey, president of the Hamilton Club of Chicago. It read:

"Knowing your family and yourself as we do, we believe in you and your innocence."

Ralph R. Obenchain, former husband of Mrs. Obenchain, announced he would leave at once for Los Angeles, said a dispatch from Chicago. His coming is in answer to a telegram sent yesterday by Mrs. Obenchain. This telegram said:

"Dear Ralph: Wire me immediately at County Jail if you can leave at once. Will be indicted tomorrow. Don't worry.

[Signed] "MADALYNNE."

COULDN'T HAVE SPOKEN.

"It would have been impossible for Kennedy to have said, 'Good night, Madelynne,' or to have uttered a word after the charge from the shotgun entered his head," said Dr. A. F. Wagner, who performed the autopsy, yesterday.

"The charge made a hole about an inch in diameter at the base of the skull on the left side and completely severed the medulla oblongata, which is the vital center at the top of the spinal column. Of course, there is the possibility that the first shot missed and that Kennedy may have made the remark before the fatal shot came. The back of his head was not blown off; there was simply a hole. The shot which I removed from the skull was a No. 4 buck shot, about the size of a pea. The fact that the entire charge entered a diameter of one inch would indicate that the gun could not have been more than three to five feet away. There were no powder burns."

J. Belton Kennedy.

DIVE FOR GUN.

Under the guidance of Arthur Loeb, official life-guard of Santa Monica, a party of amateur and professional swimmers devoted most of the day yesterday making a submarine search for the gun with which Mr. Kennedy is supposed to have been shot.

The divers centered their efforts in the vicinity of the old long wharf where, in the opinion of officers, the gun was thrown into the sea. Evidence that this particular locality is where the weapon was cast into the water is so strong that, regardless of the fact that nothing was found yesterday, the divers will continue their search today and perhaps for several days to come.

Deputy Sheriff Cooper will be in charge of the diving this morning. He is said to have obtained further evidence tending to show the gun was thrown into the ocean at Santa Monica. The ocean search was prompted by the fact that the speedometer on the automobile on the night of the murder showed mileage to Beverly Glen plus a distance equal to a side-trip to Santa Monica. Announcement was made last night that Pantages will furnish two suits and one diver, while the Sheriff will furnish the other diver for the operations today.

VICTORY POST DANCE.

The orchestra of Victory Post No. 54, American Legion, will give another dance tomorrow night at 327½ South Hill street. These dances are held every Saturday and all legionnaires in Los Angeles and vicinity are invited to attend and make it a weekly habit.

BOTH LOSE IN LEWIS DIVORCE.

Referee to Recommend that Neither of Prominent Pair be Given Decree.

Both Guy Edward Lewis and Dorothy Marshall Lewis, whose contested divorce suit was heard before Martin Levering, referee, will fail to get the relief asked for. Referee Levering will recommend to Judge Walton J. Wood that both be denied decrees, none of their charges of infidelity and cruelty having been sustained by the evidence.

Mrs. Lewis was prominent in Hollywood society, when, in 1918, she married Mr. Lewis, whose father was a wealthy bean grower of Ventura county. Mrs. Lewis asserted her husband is worth $1,000,000, and has an income of $50,000 a year. He denied this. She also charged him with making love to Betty Campbell, said to be a member of a musical company.

He charged his wife with misconduct with an unidentified man. A private detective testified he observed Mrs. Lewis and a man kissing and hugging in a car. Those charges were indignantly denied.

Referee Levering recommended that Mrs. Lewis be allowed $550 a month to cover alimony and costs, and $750 attorney's fees. She asked for $500 a month alimony, $15,000 attorney's fees, and $25,000 expenses.

This is not the first litigation between the couple. She brought an action in Ventura county some time ago, and was denied a divorce. Later Mrs. Lewis filed suit for separate maintenance. This also was denied.

A petition to have the referee's decree, denying Mr. Lewis's petition for divorce, set aside, may be, filed by E. S. Earhart, representing Mr. Lewis, it was stated yesterday.

FIRST SWEETHEART DEFENDS MADALYNNE.

"JUST SPOILED BABY," SAYS ST. PAUL BARBER; HER VISIT DESCRIBED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—"She is just a spoiled city baby with big blue eyes."

This is the way W. W. Bucknell, St. Paul barber characterized Madalynne Connor Obenchain, formerly of St. Paul and now indicted on a charge of the murder of J. Belton Kennedy.

Mr. Bucknell, the girl's first sweetheart, whose friendship was opposed by Madalynne's mother because he was only a barber, told of her flying visit to St. Paul in August, 1920, and his visits with her then as well as his tete-a-tetes in the summer of 1917.

He told of her visit to her sister, Miss Gladys Smart, who was attending the St. Paul's Central high School in 1920.

That the girl met Burch in St. Paul in 1920 while her divorce was pending in Chicago and that at the time she was receiving registered letters daily from Kennedy and in addition entertained a host of other men, is the statement of Mrs. C. Schatz of St. Paul, at whose home Mrs. Obenchain was while here in August that year.

IOWA ASSOCIATION TO PICNIC TOMORROW.

SIXTY THOUSAND EXPECTED AT CELEBRATION TO BE HELD AT BEACH.

The annual summer outing of the Iowa Association of Southern California will be held tomorrow in Bixby Park, Long Beach, where 60,000 former residents of the Hawkeye State are expected to gather. The affair will last throughout the day and the crowd will be addressed by several prominent men.

City Purchasing Agent Walter Barber of Long Beach will welcome the picnickers in behalf of the seaside city. His address will be responded to by Col. Frank H. True for the Federation of State Societies. "The Foundation Stones of Iowa's Greatness" will be the subject of a talk given by Judge H. N. Wells, who has been closely identified recently with Near East relief work. A fife and drum corps will furnish music throughout the celebration.

The society will present a silk badge to every resident of Iowa who lived there prior to Dec. 28, 1846. Veterans of the Civil War will be presented with badges and coffee. All others who buy the official badges will be entitled to coffee. The picnickers will take their own lunches. Registration will begin at 7 o'clock.

PLAN CELEBRATION.

Veterans to Observe Manila Day at Sawtelle Tomorrow.

Manila day will be celebrated tomorrow at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle when veterans of the Spanish-American War will join with the residents of the home in a day of sports and services. In the evening the veterans and their friends will attend a barbecue in the upper grove on the grounds.

The opening event will be a baseball game at 2:30 p.m. The grounds and buildings will be open throughout the afternoon and guides will be furnished to escort the visitors. During the day the hospital patients of the war will be given an automobile ride. In the evening following the dinner at 5 p.m., a program will be given in Ward Memorial Hall. The plan to bring the national convention of the United Spanish War Veterans to this city in 1922 will also be boosted.

BLUFFS AT DEATH?

Mau Feigns Suicide Thrice, Wife Says in Divorce Plaint.

Emmett Hewitt made a bluff at suicide last Tuesday by throwing himself into the lake at Lincoln Park, according to a suit for divorce filed yesterday by his wife, Bernice Rogers Hewitt. Her complaint states that on two previous occasions her husband tried to frighten her by staging pretended attempts at death. On one occasion she says he placed a bottle of lysol to his lips, but did not swallow any. This attempt is alleged to have occurred at 717 Kohler street, Oct. 3, 1917.

THE OLD STORY.

With an average of twenty new divorce cases a day in the local courts it would seem that the institution of marriage is losing some of its best friends.

A HORN TOO MUCH.

Down in Tennessee they have been digging up a giant who had two horns on the side of his head. It is only in the moonshine country that such things can happen.

PLAYING A DOUBLE-HEADER.

Gov. Small of Illinois was guest of honor at the Pageant of Progress and guest of the Sheriff under indictment of the grand jury on the same day. That might be called playing a double-header.

PERILS OF BEAUTY.

Madalynne Connor, who is now admitted to notoriety as Mrs. Obenchain, was for several seasons conceded to be the most beautiful girl in Northwestern University. But even beauty cannot keep a damsel out of trouble. Odd, isn't it?

RATE MYSTERIES.

Folks at Phoenix can't understand why the rate on wool from Phoenix to Boston is $3.33 a hundred by rail while the freight from Los Angeles to Boston is but $1.66, or just half as much. They can save money by shipping their wool to Los Angeles and then consigning it to Boston by way of Phoenix. This is where the competition of a water haul comes in. So far as commerce and industry are concerned the Los Angeles Harbor is the greatest asset the city possesses. Time will tell.

CUTTING MELONS.

Through the lavishness of the Imperial Valley all America may engage in the table pastime of melon-cutting. The cantaloupe crop this year was a wonder. According to the railroad statisticians 11,000 carloads of the melons were shipped east this season. This represented 160,000,000 melons and would make a train seventy-seven miles long if all moved at once. This is the greatest melon movement in the world and yet the cantaloupe is but one of the works of nature the Imperial Valley is specializing in.

SAN FRANCISCO IN LINE.

"San Francisco is going to be run hereafter on the American plan." Such is the flat of the Industrial Association of San Francisco, an organization that has been functioning only three months, but has already accomplished much in the way of breaking the union-labor domination of the industries of the northern metropolis.

Nearly $30,000,000 of construction work is now under way in San Francisco and practically the whole of it is directed by members of the Industrial Association. For three months the unions affiliated with the San Francisco Building Trades Council have been on strike. About 12,000 men downed tools in the effort to force additional wage increases. Now the most of them would like to go back to work; but they have been told that if they do so they must not insist upon closed-shop conditions, that building construction in the city shall henceforth be conducted under the American plan.

San Francisco business men have talked open shop before; they have made feeble efforts in the past to put it into effect; but this is the first time they have stood together to fight for a principle. They are stronger than ever before, for the reason that they are supported by public opinion. The only opponents of the American plan are members of the unions who were benefiting by the fictitious labor shortage created by their refusal to permit more than a very limited number of apprentices.

During the three months that the construction strike has been in progress nearly 5000 skilled workmen have gone to San Francisco from other parts of the country and are working there under the American plan. About one-fourth of the strikers have left the city to seek employment elsewhere and several hundred of them have gone back to work under open-shop conditions. San Francisco has suffered no loss in population, although several thousand members of labor unions are standing idly by while the money they might and should be getting is going to outsiders. Latest reports from the north are to the effect that the officials of the Building Trades Council are considering the wisdom of making a virtue of necessity and extending to members of the unions official permission to work in American-plan establishments. The Building Trades Council of Alameda county took this action a week ago.

San Francisco has made a fine start; but only the first furrow has been turned. A great industrial community cannot turn in a day from the closed shop to the American plan. A labor of years is necessary. The workers must be brought to understand that it is not a movement to lower wages, that the wage problem is but a minor issue. The pay of the workmen in open shops in Los Angeles is as high as the union scale in San Francisco. The great argument in favor of the American plan is that the men accomplish more and by so doing earn more when they are not tethered down by labor-union restrictions.

Men and dollars work better and are better contented when they are free. Servitude dulls the edge of industry.

RUSSIAN RELIEF.

"Famine in Russia is beyond the reach of charity," says Secretary Hoover, "and it will continue until the country's economic system is changed." Millions of Russians are starving in the heart of one of the richest agricultural districts in the world. They are fleeing from the land of Bolsheviki as from a pestilence. A terrible drought has added to the miseries of life under a Communistic government and a people that were once the best-fed among all the nations of Europe are dependent upon outside charity to keep the flame of life still flickering in their emaciated bodies.

No other people in history have brought such abject misery upon themselves. Their fate is even more tragic than that of the Armenians under Turkish rule. Where the scimitter slew thousands hunger and disease are slaying tens of thousands. They can no longer blame their condition on the blockade or on attacks from hostile neighbors. Russia is at peace with the world and yet Russia is starving.

Lenin has lost his arrogance; although Trotzky still continues to storm and bluster. If one may judge from Lenin's recent utterances he is awakening to the horror of the thing that he has done to his own people. He is not wholly insensible to the cries of anguish that rise from one end of the country to the other. His case is that of a man who would jump into the caboose of an engine, fling the engineer out the window and himself seize the throttle. The result of the experiment would depend very largely on what the usurper knew about running a train. Lenin knew nothing about the machinery of government. His head was filled with Marxian ideas. He sought to cut wholly loose from the past and run his train without schedule and without reference to what other trains might be using the same track. Now he sees the passenger coaches in the ditch and he hears the wails and groans of the victims of the wreck. But he is helpless to put the engine back on the track, to make the necessary repairs, even to render assistance to those maimed by his folly. He is now willing to accept help from any source; he is calling for a relief train, but he wants to run it. He does not seem yet to understand that the example of his first failure is not one that will encourage anyone to ride a second time in a train while his hand is on the throttle of the engine.

Trotzky is still determined to bluff it through. It would seem that God had taken away his heart and given him a stone. He wants to extend the pillage of Russia over the rest of Europe. In a recent address he declared to the soviet council the intention "to take violently what Europe will not give us voluntarily." And why should Europe give anything voluntarily to Russia? Is it the fault of the rest of the world that the Russians have quit producing, that they have been living for three years by robbing one another? By what right do Trotzky and his co-conspirators demand sustenance from the countries whose governments they have plotted to destroy?

Trotzky imagines that because the Russian people are on their knees before him, because they tremble at the fall of his bloody boots, that the rest of Europe and the world live in equal terror of him. While one branch of the soviet government is appealing to the rest of the world for charitable contributions to feed the women and children of Russia, Trotzky is assuring his dupes that it is fear and not humanity that is bringing them succor. He will tell them that the contributions by the Americans through the American Relief Commission represent forced tribute; that Russia by threats of invasion can compel her neighbors to feed her. And the regrettable thing about it all is that millions of ignorant Russians will believe him.

Despite the Bolsheviki, however, humanity pleads that the ignorant and starving populations of Russia shall be fed. Premier Briand told the delegates to the Paris session of the Supreme Council on Wednesday that the Russian people who fought with the Allies in the first years of the war have a claim upon the Allied nations for support. He distinguishes, as does Secretary Hoover and Lloyd George, between the soviet government and the Russian people. But the problem confronting the Allied peoples is how to get supplies to the deserving ones, how to keep them from being confiscated by the Bolsheviki. Supplies sent to Russia by the Red Cross during the last two or three years have been frequently seized by the Bolsheviki and resold or used to provision the Red Guard. It does not seem possible that relief on a scale sufficient to help any great number of persons can be conducted while the soviet government remains in control.

During the French Revolution the mobs of Paris raised the cry that "The Girondists are starving us." And for that crime the Girondists were guillotined. If the Russian people should succeed in overthrowing the present Bolshevik dictatorship and should call on the Allied nations to aid them in establishing a free government along the lines of that of Great Britain, France or the United States the way would be then open for a relief which could reach the deserving. Under present conditions plans for help must proceed slowly. The American Relief Commission has asked that all the money raised for succor shall be contributed to a single fund, the reason for this being that extreme care must be taken to prevent the confiscation of the supplies by the Bolsheviki as soon as they reach Russia. Relief that aids only the present usurpers is worse than absolute indifference.

DIVORCE COMPETITION.

San Francisco, so reluctant to concede us superiority or even equality in so many departments, is graciously magnanimous about the comparative divorce data. The San Franciscans admit that they did their best, but that Los Angeles is still 1277 cases ahead of them for the past year.

This, they concede, is probably due to the superior all-the-year-round charms of our climate, which inspire a perpetual progressiveness in everything from tennis and bridge to new spouses.

But it will not be seemly for Los Angeles to hog all the triumphs in this connection. In fact, a polite fraternal consideration demands that we let San Francisco win next time. It will entail self-denial on the part of some of our impatient young couples—but anything that tends to antagonize the northern and southern parts of the State is to be regretted and a scrupulous appreciation of the other fellow's turn will do so much to take the sting out of rivalry.

The Grasshopper and the Ant.

PROFITEERING ON THE SICK?

An interesting admission came out of the State nurses' convention at San Francisco. It was admitted that sickness costs too much.

Dr. W. E. Musgrave of the State Medical Society in his address naturally assumed that doctors' and nurses' fees were an unimportant factor in this distressing condition. He was strong for placing the blame on certain hospitals and organizations. And doubtless if the hospitals hold convention we shall discover that the doctors and nurses are the culprits, but at least there is a promising recognition that there is some profiteering going on somewhere and the patient is the goat.

The public will be inclined to think, while admitting that the doctors do perform a great deal of charity work for which they are entitled to the public gratitude, that they are apt to make up on the swings what they lose on the merry-go-rounds—and that highly delicate gauging of the patient's income by which he is assessed all the traffic will bear does not always balance to the niceties demanded by justice.

However, accepting the view that the hospitals and sanitariums—some of them—are under indictment by the doctors and nurses, the evidence is rather alarming. One doctor assures us that a certain hospital charges $1.85 for a prescription that an outside druggist will provide for 65 cents. It is not so much in room charges—although these have risen nearly 100 per cent—but rather in the multitudinous extras that the patient is mulcted for 200 and 300 per cent profit. Every essential trifle and a great many nonessential trifles are added to the weekly bill at prices a cut-rate druggist must learn with raging envy. A dime's worth of absorbent cotton sometimes goes down for a dollar, a nickel's worth of vaseline as 50 cents, and so on.

But the hospitals are all full, some of them with waiting lists, and there isn't any talk of buyers' strikes to concern them. No worry about foreign competition and protective tariffs for them. They have a sure monopoly of the home market, with the demand always in excess of the supply.

Moreover, the public seems to take a pride in being stylishly sick and suffers from a queer delicacy in disputing charges. Certain hospitals, too, enjoy a pervading hauteur, an attitude that brooks no vulgar argument in these matters. There is in them a general atmosphere of splendid indifference to mere monetary considerations, a magnificent assumption that bills, mere bills, will be paid and dismissed as a trifling incident in an interesting and impressive experience. He is a courageous patient who would essay to mar this sublimity of profitable altruism with coarse bargaining.

Left as between hospital and patient it is safe to say this sort of tyranny would never be exposed. It would seem irreverent, sacrilegious, indecent on the part of any patient to dispute the cost of getting well or dying with due eclat. But since the doctors and nurses, whose greater familiarity has evidently bred an advantageous contempt, are taking the matter up, they may be able to count upon a few ex-patients valiantly supporting them in their crusade—strictly sub rosa. And then, if the hospitals can be induced to retaliate in kind, it is just possible the public can snatch some slight advantage out of the controversy.

But in the meantime one must either be a charity patient—and thereby lose all the eclat of his complaint—or be presumed a millionaire and face his bills with a lordly equanimity. In this democratic country the sick are either princes or paupers in the eyes of some hospitals. Like the expensive cafes, you should keep away if you haven't the price, while the indiscreet may generally count upon getting out alive—but broke.

WORN OUT THE WELCOME.

As a beach attraction a miracle man can hardly hope to compete with a bathing parade. Venice seems to have already wearied of the faith healer and those who first urged his coming are now speeding his departure. Doubtless there are many who have felt benefited by his ministrations, but the cloud of witnesses following his trail and the myriads eager to attain gratuitous healing become a burden to any community. If the healer can heal he should be syndicated and given a program which would permit him to accomplish the greatest good without massing a throng of the infected and afflicted to the extent that they become a menace to one another.

RAILWAYS DOING BETTER.

June reports of the transportation companies are encouraging. The railroads are not yet on a paying basis, investment considered, but they did much better than for the month of June last year. Incomplete reports indicate a net operating income of $29,000,000, compared to a deficit of $10,960,000 for the same period in 1920.

Economy in operation rather than increased freight rates was responsible for the increase. Last year's operating expense for June were $209,728,000. This year they were reduced to $164,198,000. Commenting on the railroad situation the New York Times observes editorially:

But there is a point at which retrenchment becomes destructive. It is a question how long the railroads can continue to cut expenses and maintain efficiency. Concern over the condition of the railways cannot be dismissed until there is a gain in their earnings. The root of the railways' troubles has been that they were ordered to spend more in increased wages than they were allowed to earn by increased rates. If the prosperity of the railways is to promote the prosperity of the country they must be enabled to spend more, rather than compelled to save more.

"Allowing" the railways to earn more, however, is easier to propose than to put into effect. The experience of recent months has proved that when rates are advanced beyond a certain point there is a falling off in the amount of freight offered for transportation that more than offsets the higher charges. The freight rates "allowed" for shipments of California fruit were so high that they absorbed all the profits to the grower. It became apparent that rates must be lower next year or there would be no fruit to ship.

Regardless of what rates the Interstate Commerce Commission permits, the roads cannot charge "more than the traffic will bear." That is a law of economics that neither the government nor the railroads can modify. If the populations of our cities are to be fed they must pay a price for what they consume that will allow a profit alike to the farmers and to the railroads. And if the farmers in the country are to be supplied with machinery and other necessities they must give enough for them to enable the manufacturer to pay a living wage to his workmen and to give a margin of profit to the transportation company that delivers them. No profit, no production; that is the inescapable law of modern industry.

Wages in some of the railway crafts are still higher than the average industrial scale; but they are rapidly approaching a point where they can go no lower without causing the employees to seek more lucrative work elsewhere. The law of supply and demand is a much better regulator of wages than government boards and arbitration committees. It may work more slowly, but its decrees are almost as fixed as the laws of gravitation. What one commission does another can undo; but no commission can successfully suspend the operation of economic laws.

Our transportation problem is still far from ultimate solution. The railroads are not earning enough to make investment in their securities attractive; yet the railroads need, to keep pace with the growth and development of the country, at least $1,000,000,000 of new capital a year. That capital will not be available until the railroads are able to offer to prospective investors the prospect of a fairly generous rate of interest. Higher freight rates now would be certain to reduce the volume of shipping over the railroads; they would compel something akin to a shippers' strike. There is a growing opinion that the present Federal transportation laws should be so amended that there would be less interference with railroad financing and operation. The owners have given proof that they can put the railroads back on a profitable basis if the politicians will cease their interference. Why not cut sufficient governmental red tape to give them a chance?

OSCULATION BY WIRE.

Kisses sent over a telephone furnished the chief grounds for divorce in a case in Illinois. The wife was defendant and her neighbor in her flat testified that she paid her coal bills by kissing the coal merchant over the wire. She would call him up and when his ear was properly attuned she would administer a kiss that sounded like tearing a shirt. Kisses over a wire seem rather bleak and inhospitable, but if they can be used as evidence in a divorce case they should pick up a little in the market.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

Safety First.

In days of old when I set forth
To drive my fliv upon the highway
I found that when the man in front
Was going to dart off on a byway,
So many stuck their hands out left
For right-hand turns, a reckless system,
So many stuck their hands out right
For left-hand turns (if I quite missed 'em)
So many pointed with their hands
To illustrate their conversation,
The only safe way was to stop
Till they quite chose their destination.

And then our solons made for us
A code of signals short and snappy
By which the man in front can show
Prospective turns, and all are happy.

And now when I go out to drive
My little fliv upon the highway
I find that when the man in front
Is going to dart off on a byway
Some stick their hands out to the right
For left-hand turns, a reckless system,
So many stick their hands out left
For right-hand turns (if I have missed 'em)
So very many use their hands
To illustrate the talk they're making.
The surest way is just to stop
Until I see which road they're taking.

The Visitors.

Prof. Dink Beeson just got back from a ten-day round of his relatives on which he was accompanied by his 31-month-old nephew.

And

He says he got a pretty good idea of what a woman is up against when she goes visiting with one or more children of young and undiscerning years.

And

The prof thought he'd have time to work on a paper which he is to read to the Fortnightly Club on variations of subliminal consciousness and took his typewriter along.

And

To browse among the second-hand bookstores of San Francisco, but the only time he spent on Market street was between boats to Oakland and his typewriter never left the case.

For

Frank wouldn't let him from his sight during the entire stay,

And

He spent most of his sojourn with his cousin Harriet, who has a boy six months older than Frank,

And

The latter pushed the former down several times and pulled him out of a chair by the night gown face downward on the kitchen floor,

And

The former pushed the latter down several times and hit him with clenched fist, knocking him down a flight of steps numbering three,

And

The prof and Harriet parted friends.

But,

After his return, a neighbor, the mother of three children under 5, showed him a sheaf of letters from a group of relatives she made the rounds of last year inviting her to make the rounds again this year, and if the relatives are sincere in their urgings he takes off his hat to her.

Billie Lale says the motives which actuate our fellow-mortals aren't always discernible at first sight and his Cousin Hens, who is a preacher, traded pulpits with a fellow-preacher and Hens went to the place and found the church just packed with people and felt mighty proud of himself to think that his reputation had extended so far from home, it being twenty miles from his own parish.

Hens thought the people looked disappointed as he went on with the sermon.

After it was all over he happened to look at the blackboard where the sermon had been announced for a week and he saw that some rogue had erased one letter from the announcement and made the subject of the discourse read: "How I Know That I am Immoral."

Andrew's Cross.

My Cousin Anne says, my, it seems good to get back home again on a telephone line where one ring means you and nobody else, and she has been visiting her Sister Kate up Susun way and she was expecting a very important call from Andrew, her gentleman friend, at Sacramento, and she told him to call up Kate.

Lo and behold, Kate is on a party line, a twenty-three-party line. can you imagine a twenty-three-party line and her private ring if such a public affair as a ring on a twenty-three-party line could ever be called private is four long and five short.

Poor Anne, she counted rings and counted rings, short rings and long rings.

When she should have been getting her much-needed sleep she lay awake and counted rings.

She started helping Kate with the dishes and the chicken-feeding, but she was so constantly dropping her dish rag or her feed pan to listen to the phone that Kate told her she needn't bother. She went to Kate's for a much-needed rest, but she came back the picture of haggardness.

I asked her if she got Andrew's call and she said no, he tried and tried to get her, but Central always told him the line was busy.

THREL FALL.

BRITISH WISH US GODSPEED.

Much though she has suffered and poorly though she yet feels, the United States is vastly better off than she was a year ago. The conditions of 1919-1920 were exhilarating, certainly, but they were unnatural and could only bring reaction and collapse. There had to be a headache next morning. The fever is over now, the delirium ended. Perhaps the country is not quite so ready, commercially, to begin building up again as it believes—or wishes to believe—it is. But its constitution is repaired again. It is sound and all its organs functioning. And we and all the world can be glad and wish it well.—[American Edition of the London Times.

MILESTONES.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

When I was a young widow—and I believe this experience is peculiar to young widows—gentlemen who certainly seemed elderly to me then were forever explaining confidentially that they felt as young as they ever did. Directly they dropped their voices to an earnest, confidential pitch and gazed at me as though into a mirror which would reflect the evidence of their assertions, I knew what was coming. I had my consoling remarks all ready, while scrupulously suppressing a naughty smile.

And now I am wondering why I wanted to smile at that pervading human tragedy.

You see I recently had another birthday myself. And found myself declaring I felt as young as I ever did. Then a horrid thought, a reminiscent thought, occurred to me and I hied me to a mirror. Not that my dresser had been mirrorless, but I had been looking into it for years in the same amiable way in which I hope husbands and wives continue to gaze at each other as time rolls on. I was still looking at a girl of 20 or so with a good English complexion and a few tiresome ends of hair that never would be properly adjusted. But on that birthday she had suddenly vanished. As I scrutinized her closely I realized she was somebody else altogether. It was no end of a shock to find that English complexion gone, lots of queer little tell-tale lines, yes, and by Jove, at least half a dozen obvious gray hairs.

Pshaw! I felt as young as I ever did. Why, I could still—yes, of course— But I was glad there was no one near to generously suppress a naughty smile.

Ah, yes, plenty of you have been there—both sexes. And you will all get there soon after 30, very soon after 30. It is a tragic little crisis we all have to meet sometime, some day.

And it is odd how, since that birthday, advertisements thrust themselves upon me that I never read before. Face creams and tissue builders, hair tonics, permanent waves, facial massage, aids to beauty.

Open confession is good for the soul. Furtively, shame-facedly I bought my first pot of face cream, took my first hair treatment, experienced my first facial massage. Beyond the fact that I felt a silly fool, they didn't make any obvious difference. No one remarked upon my renewed charms. But for weeks I studiously applied perfumed cream at night and massaged my scalp till my fingers ached and took an infantile delight in touching my toes. I licked my young son at boxing and wrestling, ran up and downstairs, danced and bought a red hat. I would, nay, I could be a lambkin gamboling on the green. I took two inches off my skirts—voila, seven inches from the ground was right before 30—but after 30, after the late 30's, nothing less than ten inches seemed reasonable. And that damnable mirror became a daily obsession.

It was rather subtle, this sapping of one's independence, this voluntary new slavery. I despised it and myself—but, oh, how I persevered!

But now I am a comparatively free woman again. Ah, but now is indeed the season of my new emancipation. And it was the grandmother of Hollywood that set me free.

I sat next to her at lunch. Mrs. Wakeman built the first house in the wilds now known as Hollywood nearly thirty years ago. She is nearly 85. She belongs to half a dozen clubs and retains her keenest interest in every topic on tap. And she has a twinkle in her eye and sees a joke a mile off. And she calls me a naughty girl, fears I am too young for the responsibilities I have undertaken. God bless the woman!

And it was with that twinkle in her eye that she confided in me that once, just recently, there was a day on which she had begun to feel her age. Oh, it didn't last long, just a passing shadow—it probably happened to a great many people around 55. But it was foolish to encourage it. Now ten years hence perhaps—but even then one shouldn't if one needn't.

And at the same table was Mrs. Reynolds, Gov. Stephens's sister, a widow, forty-four years married—and just turned down another offer. She, too, twinkled naughtily. He was an old beau that she hadn't seen for forty years and she was afraid he might be getting passe. And besides one must positively be free and independent at her age.

They get so much out of life, these two women. And suddenly I saw half a century of joyous interest ahead of me—no slavery of cosmetics for such as they, not if they know it.

"Each age brings its own joys and interests and sweetnesses," they told me, "and mirrors, my dear, lie. They always lie. Never put your faith in mirrors. They hand us just what we look for—flattery or disparagement, eulogy or obloquy."

And, of course, they are right. I went straight home and smiled into my mirror. I was 20 again. But 20 with rather pronounced smile lines. Yes, that was an improved 20—she used to be a bit of a prig at 20 and took herself too seriously. She wouldn't be any use to me like that now—even with her English complexion.

Good-by, dear mirror. We shall only meet as the merest acquaintances henceforth. And if you want to retain my regard you had best always be flattering. Otherwise I shall simply cut your acquaintance altogether.

And I shall postpone those exacting beauty treatments until I begin to feel my age—somewhere about 1950.

MOSTLY PROFIT.

Figuring on a basis of 105 pounds, an investigator for the World has learned that the ingredients which go into candy selling up to $2 a pound cost exactly $.0661 a pound. Less than seven cents for a pound of chocolates retailing up to $2 a pound! That's enough to make even a coal operator turn green with envy.—[Philadelphia Inquirer.

THREE INDORSE POWER PLANS.

Councilmen Meet With Heads of Public Service Body.

Boulder Canyon Report Will be Filed Next Week.

Start Organized Movement to Advance City Project.

After outlining its Colorado River development program, the Board of Public Service Commissioners yesterday made an attempt, not altogether successful, to place the members of the City Council on record as to what their attitude will be when the matter comes formally before them. The session between the Councilmen and the commission was designated as "executive" and was held in the commission's offices.

The purpose was to sound out the Councilmen before the Public Service Commission's report on the Boulder Canyon plan is filed, which probably will be early next week. Opportunity will then be given for open discussion of the plan, by all affected.

Details of what the commission would have the city do in the proposed municipal development of hydroelectric power at the Boulder Canyon dam site were given by President Howard Robertson, Chief Engineer Mulholland, Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood and W. B. Mathews, special counsel for the commission.

SCOPE OF PROJECT.

Among the points said to have been brought out were, that the project would probably cost in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, and that it would be at least five years before power could be brought into the city, as a result of its development.

From statements of those who attended the meeting it seems apparent that almost as much time was spent talking about the Southern California Edison Company as about the commission's plans. It was declared that the Edison company's filing near the Boulder Canyon filing of Los Angeles was merely an effort to nullify the commission's act.

The subject of what the States of Nevada and Arizona will do in granting the needed permission to Los Angeles should the power project get under way was also mentioned. Mr. Scattergood was quoted as saying that Los Angeles must treat with those States and declare what definite policy would be pursued.

THREE INDORSE PLAN.

When the time came for expressions of opinion from the Councilmen as to what they would do on the program, Councilmen Criswell, Wheeler and Mallard indorsed the commission's plans. Councilman "Cupid" Sparks declared that although he respected the opinions of the men who had been in the Council before him, he would refuse to commit himself on any policy until he had had ample time in which to study it thoroughly. He said he had been hurried once in an important matter but would not fall into the same trap again.

Because of that feeling he would insist that all sides of the case be presented to the Council. It was then stated that the Public Service Commission will file its report with the Council and then an opportunity for all persons interested to present their cases will be afforded.

Councilmen Mushet, Conaway and Sanborn did not talk on the matter, it is understood, and Councilman Allan did not definitely commit himself on the entire project.

A nucleus of what is hoped to be an organization for the purpose of supporting the Public Service Commission's power development program was formed yesterday at a meeting at the City Club. A temporary committee was appointed as follows: Edward Winterer, James A. Anderson, Mrs. J. Wells Smith, Joe Crail and Mrs. Frances Noel. Councilman Criswell acted as temporary chairman and Guy W. Finney as temporary secretary.

CHURCHMEN AND FILM FOLK TO FRATERNIZE.

FATE OF MOTION PICTURES WILL BE DISCUSSED AT BROTHERHOOD FEAST.

Launching a movement to bring church people, film players, motion-picture censors and other interested persons together to discuss film betterment, the Brotherhood of Immanuel Presbyterian Church on Monday evenings will give a dinner in the church parlors. Many prominent persons have been invited.

John L. Byrnes, who has called the meeting, points out that this will be the first get-together session of church people, film makers and censors ever held in this country. He declares that they are to meet with a common objective—to discuss the matter of safeguarding public interest in motion pictures and the elimination of uncertainties and inconsistencies which mark movements inaugurated to accomplish the desired end.

Among the guests will probably be representatives of the different branches of the film industry, as well as members of censorship boards from various places. Invitations have been extended by the brotherhood to the following persons:

Gov. Stephens, Dr. Frank F. Barham, Senator R. N. Bulla, Harry Chandler, Mayor Cryer, E. A. Dickson, Arthur Hodges, A. W. Eickrigh, Henry George, Burton Kinsely, George Horace Lorimer, Sir Gilbert Parker, Miss Mary Allen, Reginald Barker, George B. Behan, M. Boylan, Charles Bryant, Madam Nazimova, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carey, Miss Helene Chadwick, Charles Chaplin, Dwight Crittenden, Miss Marjorie Daw, William de Mille, Elliott Dexter, Helen Jerome Eddy, Joseph W. Engel, Charles F. Eyton and Mrs. Eyton, Samuel Goldwyn, Ed Grauman, William S. Hart, Raymond Hatton, Miss Wanda Hawley, Joseph Henabery, Mrs. Joseph A. Jackson, Maxwell W. Karger, Jesse L. Lasky, Edward M. Langley, Bert Lytell, Miss June Mathis, Fred Niblo, Walter J. Reynolds, Theodore Roberts, Carlyle R. Robinson, Will Rogers, Milton Sills and Mrs. Sills, Phillip Smalley, Miss Lois Weber, William D. Taylor, Irving G. Thalberg, Clark W. Thomas, King W. Vidor and Mrs. Vidor, Bryant Washburn, T. H. Miranda, Emmett Flynn, Rob Wagner, Robert M. Yost, S. M. Wurtzel, B. P. Hampton, Abraham Lehr, Thomas Ince, Paul Dern and Harold Butley.

SHORT MEASURE COSTLY.

Convicted of having delivered sixty gallons of gasoline and then charged for seventy-five gallons, J. F. Henderson, who conducts a gasoline station near 917 South Hill street, was fined $200 by Police Judge Chambers yesterday. Henderson, according to the police, sold the short measure gasoline to the Asher Auto Livery Company. He paid the fine.

BRITISH GOLFERS BEAT AMERICANS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HARTFORD (Ct.) Aug. 11. Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, British professionals, defeated Jock Hutchinson, winner of the British open, and Jack Stait, local pro., in a 36-hole exhibition match here today, 7 up and 5 to go.

Eugene Nixon Disputes the U.S.C. Claim.

Claim to the golf championship of Southern California for football coaches by Elmer "Gloomy Gus" Henderson of U.S.C. has been seriously disputed by Eugene Nixon of Pomona College.

In defense of his bid for fame Nixon presents a score that knocks the skewadding out of not only the record for nine holes but eighteen as well of the Indian Hill course at Claremont.

On Wednesday of this week in company with Earl Foresman, Nixon circulated the nine holes in 31 strokes, which knocked a stroke off Foresman's former mark of 32. Finishing the second round in 35 the total gave him a gross 66, chipping two strokes from the old record of 68 held jointly by himself and Foresman.

Mister Nixon goes on to say that as soon as he gets practiced up he's coming to town to give "Gloomy Gus" a pruning. Judging by the Blue and White tutor's sensational performance he doesn't need much practicing up. He seems to be fit right now. Of course Indian Hill, with its bare fairways and grassless greens, isn't as difficult as a turf course, but any man who can punch the pill for a 66 over any eighteen holes is going some. The hole-by-hole score of Nixon and Foresman follows:

First round—
Par	4	5	3	4	4	4	3	5	4	36
Nixon	4	5	3	4	4	4	3	5	4	36
Second round—
Par	5	4	3	5	4	4	3	5	4	37—74
Nixon	4	5	3	4	4	4	3	5	4	36—72
Foresman	4	5	3	4	4	5	3	5	4	37—73

MISS LIBERTY II IS FIRST IN REGATTA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Aug. 11.—Miss Liberty II, owned by Humphrey Birge, Buffalo, won the first heat of the forty-mile handicap cruiser race of the international power boat regatta over a 17½-mile course on the Niagara River today. The time was 2h. 2m. 55s.

Orlo II overturned in a trial spin and her owner, George Leary, New York, escaped with a sprained ankle.

LIPTON PRIZE AWARDED TO THE SLOOP MISCHIEF I.

Capt. Maddock's Claim Allowed That Lady Betty Fouled His Craft at the End of First Leg.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 11.—The Mischief, owned and skippered by Capt. A. G. Maddock of Los Angeles, was awarded the Sir Thomas Lipton cup at the regatta of the Southern California Yacht Association today.

The Lady Betty, Capt. Barneson—speedy boat burdened with sacks of sand to get her into the cup race, almost captured the prize, but after she was announced the winner she was finally disqualified on the protest of Capt. Maddock, who raised the point that the Lady Betty had fouled the Mischief at the end of the first leg of the course.

DRAWS INTEREST.

The Lipton cup race had centered interest from the opening of the regatta last Tuesday, and all sorts of craft were filled with fans to see the start and finish. The start was made at 2 o'clock sharp. The Mischief got off with the Alert and Lady Betty closely following.

The Mischief rounded the first flag at 2:42, the Alert, Trilby and Lady Betty at 2:45, and the Gretchen at 2:46. A smacking wind caught the Lady Betty, which was first to round the buoy, but the Gretchen passed the Lady Betty half-way back. At the fourth flag the Lady Betty, in trying to make the turn, swept in front of the Mischief, and it was then that the harm was done to the chances of the Lady Betty finally getting the cup award.

The Mischief tacked cleverly to windward to avoid cutting through the Lady Betty, and rounded the fourth flag at 3:30. The Gretchen made the turn at 3:33, the Alert at 3.44.40, and the Lady Betty was five seconds behind the Alert. But she caught up again and swung across the winning line at 4:15:19, her corrected time being 2:04:44, as against the Mischief—corrected time of 2:08, but the Mischief lost enough time, it was claimed, in avoiding the Lady Betty-foul at the fourth flag to have taken her home the winner by a narrow margin. Following the tentative awarded decision to the Lady Betty, Capt. Maddock filed the following protest:

DECLARES FOUL.

"To the regatta committee and all whom it may concern: Yacht Mischief I, A. G. Maddock, skipper, hereby declares a foul against the yacht Lady Betty, C. Neuner, skipper, and protests the awarding of any place to said yacht."

His description of the foul he claimed as made in writing to the judges as follows:

Lady Betty was to the leeward of flag at end of the first leg, the windward mark. Mischief I was to the windward of mark, but had not yet passed it. The Mischief was close hauled on starboard tack. The Lady Betty was close hauled on port tack. Just as the Mischief was approaching the flag, the Lady Betty, which had been slightly ahead, boredown across the Mischief's bows. In order to avoid crashing into the Betty, the Mischief was forced to luff up into the wind. The Mischief would have struck the Betty forward of the main shrouds if she not been luffed.

Not only was the Mischief considerably delayed while she lay up in the wind, luffing for the Betty to cross, but the Betty would have had to take two more tacks to pass the flag.

[Signed]
A. G. MADDOCK.
B. REY SCHAUER.

GIVES DECISION.

Following a lengthy conference between the men of the Mischief and Lady Betty, with Official Timer Best and Admiral Soiland, the former gave his decision disqualifying the Lady Betty. Skipper Claire Neuner admitted the righteousness of the protest.

The San Diego Yacht Club had centered all hopes on the Trilby winning the cup. The Trilby sprang a leak and failed to finish. She returned to her mooring after the first lap, prow down and filling rapidly. The crew of the Mischief were A. G. Maddock, Los Angeles, owner and skipper; B. Rey Schauer, Charles Hubbell, Barclay Aggeler and Snort Long.

The Alert finished at 2:08:47; the Gretchen, 2:08:30. Both the Gretchen and the Trilby were the San Diego challengers.

In the yawl races the Mollilou won the Admiral Soiland cup. Time, 1:59:15. The Ortuna crossed the home line second. Time, 2:05:04¼. The Winsome was third. Time, 2:06:13.

ARRANGE RACE.

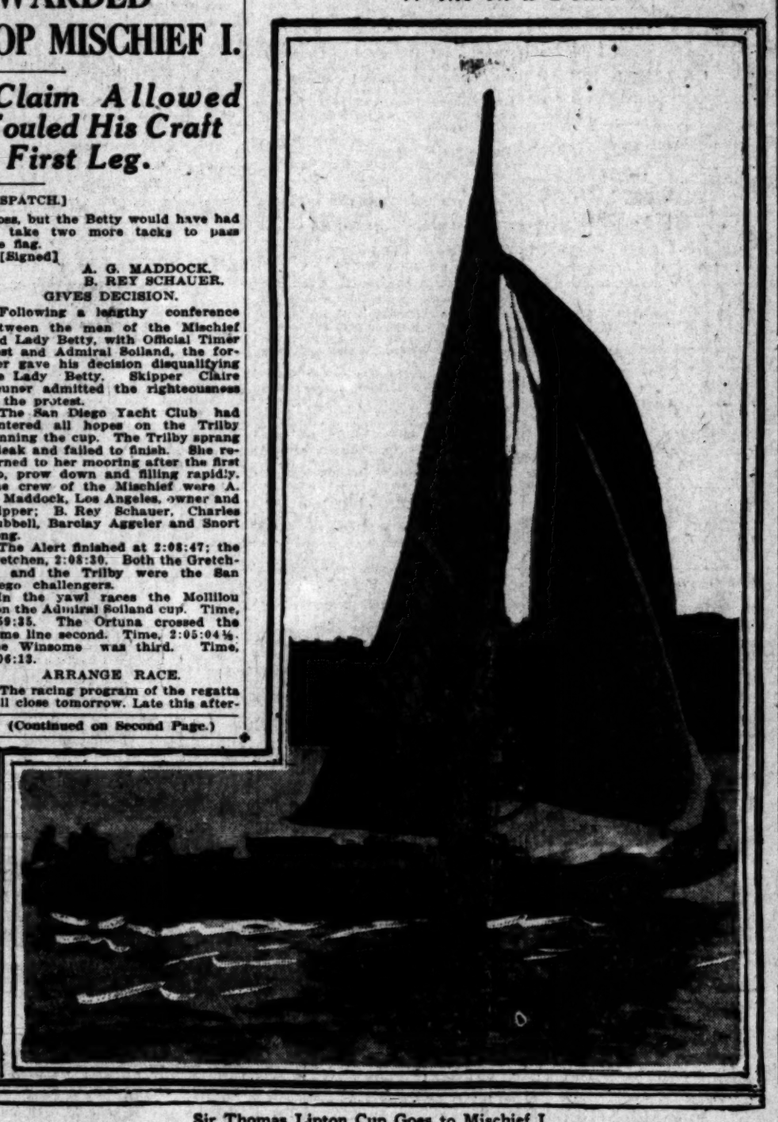
Wins on a Foul.



Sir Thomas Lipton Cup Goes to Mischief I.

After the Lady Betty apparently had won the Lipton race at Santa Barbara yesterday the skipper of the Mischief I filed claim of a foul. The foul was allowed by the committee, and the Mischief I declared the winner. Members of the crew of the Lady Betty had hoisted a broom to her mast to signify a clean sweep for the week, and had to take it down.

TROUT ARE PLENTIFUL.

Streams in the Sierra Madre Mountains are deep this season, and according to C. Opid many limits and near-limits of trout are being hooked by fishermen in the West Fork of the San Gabriel. There is more water in the streams this year than at any time during the past five years.

BIG STAKE TO PERISCOPE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NORTH RANDALL (Cleveland) Aug. 11.—The unbeaten 4-year-old mare Periscope annexed the richest grand circuit racing stake of the year here today by taking the first and third heats of the North Randall free-for-all trot, open to all except Peter Manning and Arion Guy, with a value of $15,000. She was also leading in the second when she went into a break about an eighth of a mile from the wire and finished fifth, Millie Irwin taking that heat.

Periscope is owned by the Hollywood Farm, Lexington, Ky., and was driven by J. L. Dodge, one of the owners.

The last mile was raced over a sticky track. Rain fell intermittently all afternoon, but the races were continued until after the finish of the big race. Then it came down hard and a flooded track made it necessary to postpone the last heat of the last event until tomorrow.

The News speewstake, for 2-year-old trotters, went to the Great Midwest, but not until the Peter the Great colt had been forced to a split race. Driven by Walter Cox, the Great Midwest won the first and third heats. King Etawa, favorite in the betting, with his stable mate, Grace Etawa, won the second heat.

The 2:10 trot went to Jane the Great, favorite. It was Walter Cox's second win of the day.

The 2:10 pace was another split affair.

HARD TO SELECT TEAM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Selection of players to represent the United States in the defense of the Davis cup due to the numerous upsets in the play of ranking stars, has presented a great problem for the Davis Cup Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Selections must be announced by the committee tomorrow.

William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, despite his recent defeat by Vincent Richards, national junior champion, is considered a certainty.

William M. Johnston of San Francisco, Watson Washburn and Richards of New York, R. Norris Williams, II. of Boston, and Robert and Howard Kinsey of California, appear to be among the leading candidates in the opinion of the experts. The Kinseys are rated highly because of their ability as a doubles team.

RAIN CHECKS CUP PLAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Because of rain, the semifinal singles between the Australasians and Danes in the Davis cup tennis series, did not begin here today at the Mayfield Country Club. Owing to today's postponement, the tournament will close Sunday instead of Saturday.

Today's program will be carried out tomorrow, Tegner meeting Peach and J. O. Anderson of Australia playing Vagn Ingerslev of Denmark.

The doubles match Saturday will be between Tegner and Henrikse of Denmark and Anderson and Todd of Australia.

Hawks, the young southpaw Australian, and Peach, will play an exhibition game Saturday, as a curtain raiser.

Speed Devils to Spin Cars in Long Race.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA ROSA (Cal.) Aug. 11.—Cash prizes and points toward the 1921 racing championship of the American Automobile Association will be fought for in a 150-mile race on a new automobile speedway at Cotati, near here next Sunday by eleven drivers, most of whom are noted for their work in the fast bowls.

Eddie Hearne, Joe Thomas, Roscoe Sarles, Tommy Milton, Eddie Miller, Tom Alley, Ira Vail and others are on the list of drivers expected. The winner will receive $5000.

The new Cotati bowl is the same size as the big bowl at Beverly Hills, Los Angeles, and was built by Jack Prince, the designer of the southern track. It is one mile and one-quarter in length, with a 600-foot straightaway and not too abrupt turns, making it unnecessary for the drivers to slacken speed in making turns.

SANTEL-ROMANOFF WRESTLE A DRAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 11.—Ad Santel of San Francisco, claimant of the light heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, and Constantin Romanoff of Los Angeles, claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship of the Pacific Coast, wrestled to a draw here last night. The bout lasted two hours, neither getting a fall. Three judges ruled the contest, one giving the match to Santel, the other two favoring a draw. The match was declared officially a draw.

Mac Declares He Deserves Fans Razzing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11.—Hope that the Portland team of the Pacific Coast League, all season in last place, would be sold, was expressed here recently by Walter McCredie, manager.

McCredie declared that during his twenty-six years in baseball, the Beaver club this year was the only team he ever played with or managed that never had a fighting chance.

"I don't blame the fans for being sore and roasting me," McCredie said. "I'd be sore too if I were a fan. Somebody has to be the goat when a team doesn't come through and naturally enough that somebody is the manager. In fact, two or three years is long enough for one man to manage a ball club. And here I have been seventeen years. Is it any wonder the fans want a change?

"This has been the fuzziest year I ever had. I am not advancing any alibis, but as a statement of fact, every plan I had at the beginning of the season went wrong. I thought I had a real pitching staff. I didn't and I couldn't get any other hurlers. At the same time no other club in the league could get any pitchers from the east. Then our lack of a shortstop left the infield wide open. I don't know just how soon it can be arranged, but I am reasonably certain that a sale of the club to other owners will be effected, and I sincerely hope the sale will be made."

MANY ENTER SHOOT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Five hundred entries have been received for the grand American handicap trap-shooting tournament to be held in Chicago, Aug. 22-27, inclusive. A final entry list of more than 700 is expected, it was said today.

MLLE. LENGLEN TO PLAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, world's woman tennis champion, will meet Miss Eleanor Goss of New York in the first round of the women's national championships, which open at Forest Hills, Monday. Mlle. Lenglen is due to arrive Saturday.

Sixty-four players, including many of the ranking stars, were drawn for the tournament today at the offices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Los Angeles is in the upper half of the draw without very sharp competition. Miss Eleanora Sears and Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston also are in the upper bracket. In the lower half, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national champion, is pitted against Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del. Other stars in the lower half besides Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Goss are Mrs. Hellens Pollak Falk, New York; Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Los Angeles, and Miss Helen Gilleaudeau, New York.

FISTICUFFS IN THE FOOTHILLS.

Legion Pavilion at Hollywood Opens Tonight.

Cracking Good Card of Seven Events on Tap.

Double Wind-up Bill to Thrill Local Enthusiasts.

Hollywood is going to show the our-round worshipers something new in the way of fistic emporiums when the Legion boys of the foothill town throw open their new $000-seat arena tonight. All the splinters have been shaved off the seats, foot rests installed, and everything done to make the big batch of bugs who are expected to witness the festivities comfortable.

A card of eight matches, every one carrying an eighteen-carat guarantee as a thriller, has been arranged by the promoters, and unless a bucket of gore is shed in each fight, spectators will get their money back. Extra buckets will be provided by the management, and Lupe, the missing link, will do the measuring.

Young George and Kid Mexico have been selected to step through one-half the main event, and Willie Hunefield and Tommy Richards will take up where they leave off, or vice versa, as the case may be.

To judge by the array of names on the card the promoters simply moved in on Jack Doyle's place of business and walked away with most of his prize scrappers. If the bill tonight doesn't look like a Vernon Tuesday night program of the first water, then milk is pink.

Some of the preliminary scraps look almost as good as the headliners. There is for instance the go scheduled between Bobby Ertle, that classy youngster from Oakland, and Casey Smith, a lad with a buzzsaw will and bulldog whips.

The system of judging fights in use by the Athletic Club management will be used. Beanie Walker and Fane Norton will drape their bewhiskered frames over a couple of judges' chairs and look wise, handing their ultimatums to Referee George Blake of the L.A.A.C. at the end of each bout. Billy Coe will hold down the timers' job and Dan Tobey will do the heavy announcing. The complete program follows:

Willie Hunt vs. Eddie Martin, 145 pounds.

Eddie Mason vs. Bud Soules, 135 pounds.

Johnny McManus vs. Ted Frenchie, 118 pounds.

Danny Sirios vs. Mike O'Leary, 142 pounds.

Bobby Ertle vs. Casey Smith, 132 pounds.

Willie Hunefeld vs. Tommy Richards, 133 pounds.

Young George vs. Kid Mexico, 158 pounds.

Made-to-Order Suits

At Prices That Compel Quick Buying

We are not overstocked. We have no old goods to get rid of. All our suitings are brand new and stylish. But it has been the custom of this house for 24 years to give mid-summer reductions to wind up as much of the summer suitings as possible.

This year we have an added attraction—a great purchase of swell fabrics in medium and heavy weights—the comfortable kind for year-round wear.

While business lagged on the Atlantic Coast our ready money was able to nail these exceptional suitings and bring them to "The One White Spot"—Los Angeles—mostly for your benefit. We are shaving our profit down as low as possible, consistent with high-class tailoring.

These medium and heavy weights are being offered in addition to our summer stock at prices that save you $9 or better. These Reductions until September 1st only. Come early.

GOLF CAPTURES TENNIS "COMET."

Maury McLoughlin May Enter Big Links Tourney.

Many Mashie Celebrities to Play at Del Monte.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEL MONTE, Aug. 11.—Maurice McLoughlin, perhaps one of the most famous tennis players of all times is figuring on entering the State golf championship at Del Monte and Pebble Beach on September 3 to 11. Maury played in the recent Del Monte tennis tournament and showed to good advantage in winning the doubles event with Ken Hawks as his partner. The California "Comet" has eliminated playing singles these days.

If the truth be known he is really devoting more attention to golf than tennis. He has developed into an enthusiast of the royal and ancient pastime and shoots a very respectable score. He is credited with a round of 83 on the historic Del Monte course and he also did well in the round at the seaside links at Pebble Beach.

GOLF WINS HIM.

McLoughlin is only one of a number of celebrities in other sporting competitions who have been won over by golf. It will be recalled that in last year's championship at Del Monte there were entered Art Shafer, former star third baseman of the New York Giants; Willie Ritchie, former lightweight boxing champion of the world; Welker Cochran, billiard star; Dr. Guy Cochran, former football star of Stanford; Charlie Foley former Pacific Coast tennis champion, and a number of other stars in other lines.

The entries this year promise to bring out just as wide an assortment of players. Judging from the present entry list the indications are that there will be over 250 in the competition.

The tournament is to open on Saturday, September 3, with a match play versus par competition and on Sunday the team match between the North and South will hold forth. Monday and Tuesday will be devoted to the qualifying rounds of eighteen holes each and on Wednesday will come the first and second rounds of the championship. The following days of the week until the finals on Saturday, September 10, will see thirty-six hole rounds of the match play.

Everything is shaping up for the tournament and President Roger D. Lapham of the California Golf Association is sending out word that this year's golf meeting should be the greatest on record.

LIPTON PRIZE TO MISCHIEF I.

noon a motor boat race to start at 11 o'clock was arranged. Livingston Barclay, acting as chairman of the motor boat section will be assisted by Al Dickson. The entries will include the Ding, Dustin Farnum's boat, with the Newport Yacht Club; Corsair, Los Angeles; La Serena, Los Angeles; Alva, Santa Barbara; Ardith, Newport; Lady Luck, Walter Brown's boat, Los Angeles and the Iris.

In the motor boat race each boat will start at handicap, and the first over the home line will be declared winner. The race will be over a six-mile course.

In the afternoon the arbirary schooner race will take place, starting at 1:15. The entries do not include the San Francisco schooners, as there had been no chance to measure them. The schooners entered are the Invader, "scratch," Capt. John Barneson; Viking IV, Capt. Soiland; Uncas, Capt. John Bowers; Henrietta, Capt. M. O. Adams, Pasadena; Zahma, (ketch,) Capt. A. M. Andrews.

The Betty's foul was caused by something going wrong with her rigging at a critical moment and she suddenly lurched from her course.

BAMBINO KNOCKS OUT FORTY-THIRD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Babe Ruth's hitting overcame the Athletics and gave New York a 7-to-3 victory, thereby tightening the Yankees' hold upon first place. Ruth was responsible for four of the Yanks' seven runs. His forty-third homerun came in the fourth, when he drove the ball into the left-field bleachers, scoring Schang and Peckinpaugh ahead of him. Tillie Walker made two doubles and a home run. The homer was Walker's seventeenth, and it was the third straight day on which he put the ball into the bleachers. The score:

KRAUSE HEAVES DARB OF GAME.

Oaks to a couple of runs until the ninth, when a wild hop, a pass and a couple of infield hits enabled Oakland to double its score.

BUNCH OF ERRORS.

Vernon escaped being blanked by taking advantage of a bundle of errors in the first. Scotty Alcock attained first on Pinelli's bad throw, and was sacrificed by Chadbourne. Locker drove to Krause, and the throw to third was in time to nail Alcock, but the Papoose cracked again, and spilled the ball. P. Samson Schneider whiffed just as Alcock and Locker started a double steal. Locker was eventually nipped on the line, but not until Scotty was safely across.

After that the activities of the Tigers were largely confined to sporadic singles by French and Alcock. Nothing could be more sporadic.

Cooper's infield hit and a double by Willie gave the Oaks one in the first, and their second came in the seventh on a salvo of singles by White, Krause and Pinelli.

LAYS A BUNT.

One out in the ninth, when Art Koehler laid down a bunt which Alcock sought to make roll foul by the power of suggestion. Scotty crooned sweet lullabies by the pill without putting it to sleep. White flied, and Krause walked.

Pinelli poked an easy one at Rollie Zeider. The ball looked free from guile until just before it reached Zeider, when it took a tall hop over his head. Rollie is so accustomed to have them shoot at his legs that he was unprepared. Koehler scored on this hit, and Krause counted on Cooper's safe rap to French back of second.

BOTH ADVANCE.

Failure of White to make carbon copies of his hoof prints on the bases caused some commotion in the second. Koehler on second and White on first with one gone, when Krause flied to Chadbourne. Both runners, thinking it a hit, advanced, White running past second. Both, when they learned the truth, turned around and came right back again, but White neglected to retouch second, and was called out for the completion of a double play. The score:

WOMAN SWIMMER SETS NEW RECORD.

MAKES SUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO FIGHT WAVES SANTA MONICA TO VENICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Anna Van Skike, 60-year-old swimmer and singer, finished a three-mile swim from the Santa Monica municipal pier to Venice, showing little if any fatigue. She was in no way exhausted, and after a few minutes' rest said she felt no ill-effects from the effort. Her eyes were slightly sore from the effects of the salt water. Otherwise she looked no different than when the long test began.

She was two hours and a half in the water. A boat followed a short distance behind the swimmer with a Venice life guard at the oars, but his assistance was not needed.

Only when she was off the Ocean Park pier did Mrs. Van Skike encounter any difficulty or an adverse current of any kind. She found a strong undercurrent there, she states, that gave her some trouble, but she took it easily and went through without serious loss of strength.

Many of her friends, who had been apprised of her plan to swim the three miles between the two piers, were watching for her along the route. But few of them saw her, however, as she was out some distance.

This is the longest distance swim ever accomplished by a woman of Mrs. Van Skike's years, either in this country or Europe, so far as records here are known. She is a grandmother, and for many years has been a teacher of voice culture. She says breath control is one of the first things to learn in swimming, as well as in singing.

REDLANDS MAY BUY ELECTRIC LINES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 11.—R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager of the Edison company, will hold a conference with the Trustees of Redlands next week regarding the proposal that the city buy the distribution system of the company in Redlands.

At the last meeting of the Trustees steps were taken toward the city owning its electrical distribution system and a letter was sent to the Edison company asking that a price be set on its plant. Mr. Ballard, in his reply, asked for a conference as he says there are so many complications connected with such a deal that it would be impossible to give a price at this time.

The company has never been willing to dispose of the system, maintaining that it has no desire to divorce the retail distribution of electricity from its business.

TAXES HIGHER IN MONROVIA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Aug. 11.—Though formal announcement will not be made until next week, it is practically certain that the city will fix $2 as the tax rate for the coming year. This will be an increase of 15 cents over the present rate of $1.85 for each $100 valuation of city property.

The new rate will be divided as follows: For general fund, $1; for bonds, 65 cents; for library fund, 10 cents, and for special street and park improvements, 25 cents. The last named special levy will be made under an ordinance passed in 1889 and now rarely used, whereby a municipality may vote a special tax for highway and park improvement when the funds are not otherwise available.

City Trustees predict that with the rate at $2, they will be able to lay aside a surplus of at least $20,000, and to give the streets much needed repairs, as well as to get the city in shape for a direct cut in taxes next year.

NEW CROP FOR FRUIT CULTURE.

Pasadena Man Finds Giant Berry in Colombia.

Building Activity Continues in Crown City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 11.—A giant wild blackberry, surpassing in flavor the famous loganberry, has been discovered in Colombia, South America, by Wilson Popenoe, Pasadena horticulturist, now conducting explorations in South America for the United States Department of Agriculture.

Word of Mr. Popenoe's latest discovery has been received here by his father, F. O. Popenoe of Altadena. On a similar expedition in Guatemala a few years ago Mr. Popenoe found the Guatemalan avocado and introduced it to North America. It is quite extensively grown in Southern California now.

In the giant wild blackberry of Colombia, Mr. Popenoe writes that he believes he has found a fruit that will prove of value for domestic culture in California and other States. The blackberry grows on thickets at a high altitude in Colombia.

Buds have been sent by Mr. Popenoe to the Department of Agriculture.

BUILDING RECORD GROWING.

With the month of July a record-breaker for building operations here, the month of August may eclipse it, according to the figures thus far in the month. With August but one-third over, the building permits here total $217,392.

GRASS FIRE MENACES.

Before daylight this morning a grass fire menaced property on San Rafael Heights. The origin of the fire at that hour is a mystery into which the authorities are investigating. The fire was extinguished by the Pasadena fire department before it had burned a large area or touched the beautiful mansions of the locality.

BIG DELEGATION.

The Pasadena Elks' lodge will have a huge delegation, including the Elks' band, drill team, base ball team and bowling team, in addition to members at large, at the Elks' State convention at Santa Cruz in October. Arrangements have been made with the Southern Pacific for a special train. The committee in charge has just been named by the lodge, comprising Joseph Felderman, chairman; John L. Breiner, Emer Bates, William Dunkerley and G. W. Wetherby.

LEGION TO BENEFIT.

Beginning tomorrow, the American Legion of California will take charge of the "gate" at Busch Gardens and get all the receipts from admissions to the famous beauty spot. The arrangement will continue. Mrs. Lily Busch, owner of the gardens, has given use of the gardens for this purpose to the Legion, the receipts to be used to assist disabled World War veterans in California. The upkeep of the gardens, which cost about $4000 a month, will be borne by Mrs. Busch herself. Mrs. Busch also bore this expense when she gave use of the gardens as a benefit for the Pasadena Hospital.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF AGED MAN.

Searchers Send No Word to La Verne Relatives; Young Bandits Make Getaway.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Aug. 11.—No word had been received in La Verne this afternoon of the success or failure of the searching parties organized this morning at Catalina Island, to search for William McNaughton, 80-year-old father of Mrs. D. G. Arbuthnot of La Verne, and Edgar Dearden of Los Angeles, who wandered into the island hills Tuesday morning and have not been heard from since.

Fear is expressed that the aged man may have died from exposure. This is the third time that Mr. McNaughton has wandered away since Christmas. The old gentleman is said to be suffering from failing memory.

Two Mexican boys walked into the Army and Navy Store this morning, shortly after 8 o'clock, and asked to be shown certain articles of clothing. They picked out new pairs of shoes, puttees, and slip-over sweaters and put them on while the proprietor was confidently expecting to make a sale to both boys. Then suddenly, without any warning, they turned and left the store on a run, and were still going when seen fading in the distance. The police followed them for some distance, but lost the trail some ways out of the city.

More economy all along the line, more value for every dollar spent, more care in keeping definitely within the budget, and not one cent more on the tax rate are some of the things which Mayor Ovington hopes to accomplish for the coming year.

The City Council, sitting as a board of equalization, held its last session this morning, and the footing up of the property assessment roll is now in progress. The increase in the assessed valuation over last year will be about $250,000.

STRIKE GAS POCKET.

Well in New Territory Shows Evidence of Oil.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 11.—The stockholders of the Moreno Oil Company, which is drilling at a point near the Jackrabbit trail between this city and Beaumont are greatly excited over the report that natural gas has been struck at a depth of 900 feet. The drill was in black carbon shale at the time. The hole has been filled with water and underreaming is being resorted to as a precautionary measure. Before proceeding with the drilling, pipe will be set the full depth of the hole.

TRIES TO END LIFE.

Glendale Woman May Die as Result of Gunshot Wound.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Frank L. Woolard of 145 South Pacific avenue, is near death in the Glendale Sanitarium as the result of self-inflicted shotgun wounds.

The attempted suicide took place this morning at her home. Mrs. Woolard is 36 years of age, and the reason given for the act was despondancy caused by the death of a sister in July.

Prior to the shooting, she attempted to sever the arteries in both arms, making numerous lacerations with a sharp knife. Dr. H. R. Boyer has found that the left lung is perforated by fifty or more fine shots. There are two children, a girl, 14 and a boy, 9 years of age. Her husband is a printer.

CITY TO ANNEX MORE SCHOOLS.

Twenty-two Districts to be Added to Los Angeles.

To Make Area from Which to Draw Pupils.

Supervisors Give Notice to Education Board.

Notification was sent yesterday to the Los Angeles Board of Education by the county Board of Supervisors of the proposed annexation of twenty-one high school districts in this county to the Los Angeles high school district. Such action would give the largest high school district area of any municipality in America. The annexation will take care of a number of communities in the county not having their own high schools and will materially increase the number of students in the local institutions.

In some cases the pupils will be transferred from one district to another. A large number of students from Culver City have been going to Venice and these will now be sent to this city. Like conditions exist in other communities and cities, but members of the school board yesterday stated that the added number of students will be taken care of as the budget for the coming year contained provisions for a greatly increased population.

The annexation will not mean any increase in the expense to the taxpayers for the support of the schools, it is said. President Seaman of the educational body stated, following the receipt of the notice, that the cities and towns which are contributing students will come under the county school district tax and will contribute liberally to the support of the schools which the children attend.

The districts which are to be annexed are Alturas, Beverly Hills, Calabasas, Castiac, Cornell, Culver City, Feton, Florence, Garpatos, Honby, Los Vergenes, Liberty, Live Oak, Mt. Canyon, Mt. Olive, New Era, Newhall, San Francisquito, San Martinez, Saugus, Sterling and Sulphur Springs. The district of Florence was annexed by the Board last Monday and this change will apply to both the elementary and high school pupils. The other districts are for high schools only.

The merging of the schools will take place officially when the Board of Supervisors meets at 10 a.m. on the 18th inst.

WATCHED LOS ANGELES GROW TO METROPOLIS.

FATHER OF EX-HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION JIM JEFFRIES CALLED BEYOND.

From fruit ranch to metropolis was the interesting transition watched by Alexis C. Jeffries, pioneer citizen and father of James J. Jeffries former heavyweight champion pugilist, and who died Wednesday night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. L. E. Boyer, 3291 Arroyo Seco avenue.

Funeral services will be conducted privately tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the Fitch chapel. Burial will be in Inglewood Cemetery.

Mr. Jeffries was 82 years old when death claimed him. He enjoyed rugged health until a few months before the end came, but he had been experiencing gradual decline for several weeks.

Upon Mr. Jeffries, perhaps as upon few others in the Southland, was impressed the rapid growth of this city. He was born in Ohio and after farming there until he was 42, he moved to Los Angeles and bought a 100-acre fruit ranch in what is now the Hunter Highland View Tract.

The old Jeffries place at 535 Cypress street is well known to many persons living here, and equally as well known to some of the old-timers in the back country, because they knew it as a profitable fruit farm forty years ago, while the present generation knows it as a well built up city subdivision.

The ranch was cut into small blocks twenty-five years ago. Since then it has been split into acres and again into city lots, upon which cosy homes have been erected. The old home place where Mr. Jeffries lived until about nine months ago, lies just north of the San Fernando Road, three miles from the Los Angeles County Courthouse.

Mrs. Jeffries died about ten years ago, and, after retiring from active life, Mr. Jeffries traveled extensively, making two trips to Europe, and visiting other places of interest.

He leaves four sons and three daughters—James J. Jeffries of Burbank; J. H. Jeffries, Charles Jeffries, C. C. Jeffries and Mrs. L. E. Boyer of this city; Mrs. J. H. Southworth of Ocean Park, and Mrs. C. O. Metcalf of Los Angeles Harbor.

Reeves Named City Manager for Glendale.

William L. Reeves of Pasadena was appointed City Manager of Glendale last night, to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of former City Manager Watson last Tuesday. Mr. Reeves will assume office today.

The selection was made from a field of four candidates. C. N. Murphy, of the city engineering department of Los Angeles; E. A. Lyford, an electrical engineer of Los Angeles, and George Bercaw of Glendale were the other aspirants.

Mr. Reeves comes to his new position with many years of practical experience to his credit. He had been city electrician of Pasadena for eight years and a commissioner of the same city for two years. He is a veteran of the Philippine war and the World War and a graduate of Stanford University.

GAIN FINALS.

Today's winning pair will meet Carl Behr and Theodore Roosevelt Pell in the upper semifinal round match tomorrow afternoon. Williams and Watson Washburn gained their final round bracket this evening by defeating Robert and Howard Kinsey of California at 14-12, 4-6, 6-3 after a very close and hard-fought match.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the semifinal round matches in the women's doubles will be played. Miss Helen Gilleaudeau and Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole will meet Miss Browne and Mrs. Louise R. Williams of California in the upper half and in the lower Miss Bristed and Miss Ceres Baker will meet Miss Goss and Mrs. Jessup, the national champions. The winners in these two matches will play for the twin doubles challenge cups immediately after the finish of the men's singles.

NEW EDISON POWER PLANT OPERATING.

HUGE AMOUNT OF ENERGY IS ADDED TO COMPANY'S ENORMOUS SUPPLY.

Placing in commission yesterday its new hydroelectric power plant at the junction of Big Creek and the San Joaquin River, the Southern California Edison Company added 30,000 horsepower to its already enormous supply of hydroelectric energy. It is now getting 93,000 horsepower from that district.

Three and one-half miles of tunnel were gouged through the solid granite of the high Sierras, bringing waters from Huntington Lake, Shaver Lake, and Big Creek, to plunge with terrific force on the turbines which drive the generators in the plant, which was completed yesterday, and No. 2 plant, which took on 32,000 additional horsepower capacity in February. On Kern River a 40,000-horsepower plant was brought into service in May.

Schools and Colleges

Wm. Clayton, Vice-President and Managing Director of the Spreckles Co.—"I take a great deal of pleasure in commending the San Diego Army and Navy Academy, both from an educational and disciplinary point of view. My young ward, Miguel Gol, has made quite remarkable progress, especially so in the last six months. He not only shows a wonderful improvement in his studies, but what is more wonderful than that, a desire to continue to study and to advance himself educationally. The effect of the discipline at the Academy has been to give him a more sober, contemplative view of life. He sees the necessity of discipline and understands the value of obedience—two very necessary factors in the life of every man. The best thing about it is that Miguel is most anxious to return to the Academy, and says it is the best school he has ever attended. This should be a matter of congratulation to you. I am very glad to tell you these things, and you may make any use of my letter you please."

SOME INFORMATION REGARDING THE

HUGHES, JR., IN FILM.

SON OF AUTHOR WILL PLAY IN "WALL FLOWER."

By Grace Kingsley.

Being an eminent author is no protection whatever from having acting break out in the family. Take that brilliant Rupert Hughes, for instance. His son, Rush Hughes, 19 years old, and fresh from college, is even now at work in his first picture at the Goldwyn studios.

But Rush will not be left to the tender mercies of a director who doesn't care a cent what becomes of him, and who will halloo at him through a megaphone in rough tones. Instead he is working under the direction of his father and E. Mason Hopper in a story written by Hughes for the screen, called "The Wall Flower."

Rush Hughes is a very good-looking young man, athletic, of healthy complexion, six feet tall, and the part he will play will be one which should come easy to him. He is, in fact, to portray himself, as one might say. That is, he is to do a college youth, an athlete.

However, he isn't to get off without finishing his education, but is to return to college next year, probably to Princeton.

Mr. Hughes is going more and more into the work of directing, under supervision of Mr. Hopper. "The Wall Flower" was started yesterday, with Colleen Moore in the featured role.

After half a day's work with the young woman, following several consultations as to the type of character the girl is supposed to be, Mr. Hughes exclaimed enthusiastically and in characteristic epigram: "She's wax to mold and marble to retain. Which is the opposite of many young leading women, who are marble to mold and wax to retain.

"The Wall Flower concerns the evolution of a poor little downtrodden, homely young girl into a blooming and beautiful maiden. The part will afford Miss Moore her greatest comedy opportunity, it is said, but also shades off into tragic aspects, so that it should be an ideal tone to further her career.

Miss Moore has just completed work on "Slippy McGee," under direction of Wesley Ruggles, which picture, made down in Natchez, is said by those who have been lucky enough to see it, to be the best the young director has yet made, and that is saying something.

Other players in "The Wall Flower" with Miss Moore are Richard Dix and Tom Gallery.

Clara Horton in Auto Wreck.

Clara Horton, film star, had a miraculous escape from death, and Marguerite Palmer, her friend, was badly injured Wednesday evening. The automobile in which the young actresses were riding was overturned and caught fire at the corner of West Adams and Vermont.

The car was Miss Palmer's, and she was driving. On attempting to round the corner too sharply, the automobile went over and almost immediately became a mass of flames. Passersby rushed to the aid of the young ladies, extricating them from the machine, and Miss Horton escaped with a bad shaking up. Miss Palmer was found to have suffered a fractured arm and injuries to the head. She is in a local hospital.

Harry Myers Engaged.

They're giving Harry Myers, hero of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," no rest these days. No sooner does he complete one role than he is engaged for another. Now he is to play Gilly in Rex Ingraham's Metro version of "Turn to the Right."

Fairbanks to Build Town.

Medicine Bow, when Medicine Bow was a pup, is going to be immortalized on the screen by Douglas Fairbanks, who is going to build a duplicate of the ancient Wyoming town very near the location of the present Medicine Bow, as one of the sets of Owen Wister's "The Virginian." This town will have the exact twenty-seven houses of the original village.

Leaving today on location hunt in Wyoming and Idaho will be Doran Cox, assistant to Fred Niblo, who directed "The Three Musketeers," and who will direct Fairbanks in "The Virginian."

Among other places he will visit Jackson Hole, the district which used to be the stamping ground for all the wickedest cattle rustlers in the country, and which is the scene of various incidents in the Wister story.

But lest snow overtake the company in Wyoming and Idaho, the Fairbanks company are to have a duplicate Medicine Bow built near Taos, N. M., in order to work there, if necessity requires, through bad weather in the Wyoming country.

Mr. Fairbanks and Mary Pickford will leave for New York the 20th inst., where they will witness the premiere of "The Three Musketeers." They will go direct from New York to Wyoming, and to commence work on "The Virginian" about October 1.

Speaking of Eminent Authors.

And speaking of eminent authors, Kathleen Norris has arrived at the Goldwyn studio to confer with President Samuel Goldwyn and Paul Bern, scenario editor, regarding a story of hers which will soon go into production. It has not yet been decided whether this will be written directly for the screen or whether it will be an adaptation of one of her published stories.

Mrs. Norris, who was accompanied by her husband, C. G. Norris, came from their ranch near San Jose. Since returning in April from an extended tour of Europe both have been busy with their literary work.

Mrs. Norris is the author of numerous short stories and novels, among them being "The Rich Mrs. Burgoyne," "Poor Dear Margaret Kirby," "Saturday's Child," "Marie the Unconquered," "Undertow" and "Sisters."

Goldwyn Company Flits.

The Goldwyn company, filming "His Back Against the Wall," under the direction of Rowland V. Lee, will leave Sunday for Randsburg, to spend a week on location. Raymond Hatton will play the leading male role and Helene Chadwick will be the feminine lead.

From Cocoanut Jungle.

It was really awfully sad, and the Cocoanut Grove Jungle at the Ambassador was very much disturbed. But at a dinner party given there the other night, May McAvoy and Eddie Sutherland were separated by their hostess! What mattered it to Eddie that he had the vivacious Marguerite de la Motte on one side and the lovely and demur Lila Lee on the other hand? Charming girls, to be sure, but only mortal, after all, whereas Miss McAvoy—oh, well, these tragedies will occur. But Miss McAvoy didn't eat half her dessert!

And speaking of the Cocoanut Grove, it was noted that Viola Dana has a new one—and a director at that!

Colleen Moore was entertained by two handsome dark young men, out there the other night, one of them a sort of an "ex." And oh, that wicked Colleen!

"What is your favorite color?" she asked one of them.

"Why, blue!" answered the dark young man, delightfully flattered. "Why?"

"Oh," said Colleen demurely, "I just wanted to tie up your love letters with that color ribbon before I put them away forever, that's all!"

Wants to be Plump.

..Everything comes to him who waits. On the other hand bad news often comes to her who weighs, take it from Olive Ann Alcorn "perfect woman" who is dancing at Grauman's Rialto in conjunction with "The Great Moment."

Poor Olive Ann stepped on the scales yesterday and discovered she had danced away three pounds of wonderful curves. In the nine weeks she has been with Grauman's Theaters, she has managed to dispose of three pounds of divine art.

You see she didn't want to lose the weight, but at that she claims some consolation as she goes around singing after meals, Trixie Friganza's "There's lots more fun in putting it on than there is in taking it off."

Bert Lytell to Flit.

Bert Lytell is looking up his hunting and fishing togs these days. The Metro star is to go on a camping trip in Northern California that will combine business and pleasure. Lytell is interested in several oil propositions in the north and will look them over during his time off between pictures. He has just completed "Lady Fingers," directed by Bayard Veiller.

Butler Gives Preview.

Sweet charity got in her fine work in the thriving little city of Azusa, yesterday, all because Dave Butler has a kind heart, and permitted a preview of his latest picture, "Bing-Bang-Boom."

When Butler was filming exterior scenes in Azusa, the residents of the valley town were most cordial and co-operative, and when Fred J. Butler, David's daddy, director asked how he could reciprocate, Luther Case, Mayor of Azusa, suggested a preview for charity.

Irving M. Lesser, distributor of the Butler pictures, gave his consent, and the showing took place last night.

So widely had the committee spread the news of the preview that there were two shows so that all who had purchased tickets could see the picture. Projection equipment was lent by the West Coast Theaters, Inc.

CARUSO MEMORIAL.

The Grauman Symphony Orchestra will offer a Caruso memorial concert next Sunday morning. Signors Ettore Campana and Carlo Bravo will sing solo numbers made famous by Caruso and the Caruso-Scotti duet "Solenne in Quest' Ora." Mischa Guterson's orchestral numbers include "Aida," selection (Verdi; "La Boheme," selection (Puccini;) "Rigoletto," selection (Verdi;) and "Good-by" (Tosti.) G. Andreini, Patria, a friend of Caruso, will aid Signor Giovanni Piuma, Italian Consul here, in an opening address.

LLOYD HOST TO UNCLE.

Harold Lloyd was host to his uncle, J. L. Lloyd, yesterday at the Hal E. Roach studios. Following luncheon the elder man was an interested spectator on the comedian's set and gave many a chuckle at the latter's antics. Among other things, he was startled when Harold became a human top and when the amber cigarette-holder threatened to go up in flames and consume nephew. There was also the item of the lamps. When Harold gave orders that these be watched lest he fall against them and get "cockeyed," his uncle assumed a guardianship of them for the remainder of the afternoon.

SPEED FUN FILMS.

George LeRoi Clarke and Celeste Zimlick finished their second one-reel comedy for the Meteor Pictures Corporation yesterday under the direction of Tommy Le Rose and started on the third comedy today directed by Fred Jefferson. Each director is allowed four days shooting and four days cutting, assembling and titling. While one is filming a picture, the other is cutting and in this way a comedy is made every four days.

MYRTLE REED STORY CLOSING.

The run of "Lavender and Old Lace," Myrtle Reed's story, which has proved a popular attraction at Tally's, will conclude Sunday night. Beginning Monday, Viola Dana will appear in a photoplay entitled "Home Stuff," said to be a novelty for her. It is from an original by Frank Dazey and Agnes Johnston. As Madge Joy, Miss Dana in "Home Stuff" is reputed to live up to her brilliant reputation.

Agnes Ayres and Walter Long.

More Players Added to "The Song of Life."

Philo McCullough, Arthur Stuart Hull, Fred Kelsey, William Badger and Frederick Vogading have been added to the cast of "The Song of Life," the John M. Stahl production now filming. With Gaston Glass, Grace Darmond, Georgie Woodthorpe and little Richard Headrick already at the top of the list and with one more principal still to be engaged, the cast for this picture begins to assume the aspect of high talent.

Although practically all of the New York scenes have been taken, there still remains a lot of camera work to be done before the production is ready for the cutting-room. The remaining sequences, however, are based on action rather than the play on emotions which characterized the early part of the story, so the filming will be a much easier and quicker matter.

Louis B. Mayer is now completing arrangements for the company to invade the Mojave Desert where Mr. Stahl plans to spend a week securing some realistic exteriors. The feature of the trip will be a railroad wreck on a high trestle.

"The Song of Life" is the second in the series of John M. Stahl specials.

COMPEL DELAY IN QUARANTINING DOGS.

A proposed ordinance requiring the quarantine of all dogs believed to be afflicted with rabies, bitten by a mad dog or exposed to rabies, was before the City Council yesterday. The Health and Sanitation Committee recommended that it be adopted. The matter went over for one week, when Councilmen Conaway, Mushet and Sparks voted against suspension of the rules in order to pass it at once.

The ordinance was suggested by City Health Commissioner Powers several weeks ago as a regulative measure that would decrease the number of mad dogs in the city. The quarantine provision, to be enforced by the health department, is defined as meaning strict confinement on the private premises of the owner, or under other conditions to be designated by the health authorities.

CONNER ON STAND.

Convicted Film Promoter Witness in Bankruptcy Proceedings.

W. J. Conner, convicted of having aided in the misapplication of funds of the National Bank and Trust Company of Pasadena, in financing "Roman Candles," a motion picture enterprise, spent most of yesterday giving testimony in the bankruptcy proceedings of the Master Pictures, Inc. Mr. Conner was called to testify regarding some of the bills against the film corporation.

Despite the fact that Mr. Conner's bail has been reduced by U. S. District Bledsoe from $15,000 to $5000, the prisoner has been unable to furnish the bond required to secure his liberation from the County Jail.

Edward J. Pyle, vice-president of the Pasadena institution, was acquitted of misapplying funds.

DEATH BRINGS SUIT.

Parents of Electrocuted Boy Ask Fifty Thousand Damages.

Thomas Jurich, 15 years of age, came in contact with one of the steel towers carrying a high voltage wire of the Southern California Edison Company, at Birdsey Canyon, Dec. 5, 1920, and was instantly killed. Yesterday his parents, George and Jara Jurich, filed suit against the company, asking $50,000 damages. They assert the company was negligent in not protecting boys who go to the canyon from contact with the steel towers.

LYTELL IN "MAN WHO."

"The Man Who," by Lloyd Osborne, which will be remembered by Saturday Evening Post readers as one of the most delightful stories of many seasons, has been made into a motion picture by Arthur Zellner and will be presented at the De Luxe Theater for two days, beginning today.

It is a Maxwell Karger production for Metro, starring Bert Lytell in the role of Beddy Mills, the New York bank clerk who tried to become the "man who broke the shoe trust."

Bert Lytell's supporting company includes Lucy Cotton, Virginia Valli, Frank Currier, Tammany Young, Fred Warren, Clarence J. Elmer, William Roselle, Mary Louise Beaton and Frank Strayer.

RADIOS.

COAST ATTRACTS HIM.

EDWARDS MAY FIND PERMANENT INTEREST HERE.

By Edwin Schallert.

There is a strong probability that Gus Edwards, famous in vaudeville for his children's revues, will forsake that field of endeavor at the end of his present tour in January. And vaudeville's loss, in this case, will mean the coast's gain, for Mr. Edwards is now considering entering the western theatrical field as a producer of musical shows.

Various interests, it seems, have been attracted to the possibilities for establishing a chain of high-class musical playhouses on this Coast, similar to the Ziegfeld Follies and other revue enterprises, and if this is done the likelihood is that Mr. Edwards will assume charge of the project.

Matters have not yet progressed to a stage where definite announcement can be made regarding the plans, but it is known that Mr. Edwards has been considering transferring his interests to the Coast, for some time, as he favors this locality as a field for new endeavor, both in a business and artistic way.

Mr. Edwards has the largest revue that he has ever staged this season, and during his stay here has added to his talent to the extent of four or five children. These kiddies have been engaged for the period of the tour, it is understood.

Following the close of his Orpheum engagement, the noted producer-song writer will remain over in this city for a period of two weeks. It is probable that during that time plans will be consummated in the new production enterprise.

Holubar Selects Cast.

Selection of the cast for his next photoplay, and revising of the script is occupying the attention of Allen Holubar the director, just at present. The new picture, which is soon to be underway, will feature Dorothy Phillips.

Mr. Holubar has also picked out a number of suitable locations for the exteriors.

The company is backed by San Francisco capitalists, and is to be known as the Exploitation Company, Inc.

"Cabiria" Reviewing.

"Cabiria," the spectacle photo-drama, written by Gabriel d'Annunzio, is to have a revival, under the auspices of the Associated First National Pictures, Inc. The story has as its historic background the gigantic struggle between the empires of Rome and Carthage.

"Disraeli" in Fall.

"Disraeli," in the film version of the stage play, made famous by George Arliss, has been completed, and is to be released this fall, Mr. Arliss himself appears in the picture, with his support including Louise Huff as leading woman, Mrs. Arliss, Frank Losee, E. J. Ratcliffe, Henry Carvill, Margaret Dale, Grace Griswold, Reginald Denny, Noel Tearle and Fred J. Nichels.

This is Mr. Arliss's second picture, "The Devil" having been his first.

"The Infidel" Preparing.

Preparations are well under way for the production of Katherine MacDonald's next starring picture, "The Infidel."

MILKMEN'S ATTACK IS RENEWED.

Fight Second Indictment, Make Strong Showing and Judgment is Reserved.

The sufficiency of the second indictment against various firms and individuals charged with violation of the Cartwright Anti-Trust Law of California, in alleged suppression and combination in the local milk trade, was argued at length before Superior Judge Reeve yesterday afternoon, and will be continued this morning. There are eighteen individuals and fourteen firms involved.

A battery of lawyers headed by Lecompte Davis and John L. Richardson appeared in behalf of the defendants, while the interests of the State were cared for by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Powell and Fricke.

The principal point against the second indictment was that urged in behalf of certain witnesses before the grand jury, now under indictment, who, it was claimed, had voluntarily appeared with their books and papers, and therefore should not have been indicted. These persons were O. H. Shaw, S. A. W. Carver, John Zuchinger, George B. Miller, R. D. Weaver, O. W. Strodthoff and Robert St. John Gardiner.

Charles Elmendorf, foreman of the county grand jury, and Mrs. Martin G. Carter, secretary, with G. H. Shaw, one of the indicted men, testified as to the proceedings of the inquisitorial body, the evidence of Mr. Shaw going to show that he had voluntarily appeared and offered everything in his possession as to the milk business, freely to the grand jury.

The defense made a strong showing as to the immunity of those who had testified, and it was argued that if they were not immune, then the Cartwright law was unconstitutional. A long line of decisions were quoted, covering cases all over the United States, with a uniform line of State cases.

At the close, Judge Reeve indicated that he would not decide the case off-hand, but desired to consult many authorities. It will be recalled that the first indictment was quashed because it did not contain the names of all of the witnesses. These have been supplied.

WILL BOYCOTT FILMS.

Studio Strikers for Third Time Vote to Stay Out Indefinitely.

Stage carpenters, electricians and other craftsmen connected with the film studios here, who have been on strike for several weeks yesterday afternoon for the third time voted to remain out indefinitely, and to put into effect an immediate boycott against all pictures turned out by the so-called "unfair" studios.

An official of the striking organization said last night that sentiment among the men is practically unanimous in regard to continuing the strike and boycotting the studios. He declared there is no likelihood that the men will return to work under present conditions.

Father and Son Held to Answer Murder Charge.

Thomas C. Kelly, 50 years old, and his son, Edward J. Kelly, 23 years of age, were held by Justice Baird yesterday, the former on a charge of first degree murder, and the latter on a charge of second degree murder, following the death of Jerry Culloty. The testimony showed that Kelly and his son went to the home of Mrs. Myrtle Conway, at 1244½ East Main street, last July 20. Mr. Kelly was seeking his wife from whom he was separated.

He found Mr. Culloty in the house. It appeared that Mrs. Kelly had associated with Mrs. Conway.

An argument arose during the course of which Kelly, the elder, struck Mrs. Conway, it is said. Subsequently he shot Mr. Culloty and killed him.

Kelly and his son admitted going to the house to look for Mrs. Kelly and the shooting of Mr. Culloty after an argument. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Buron Fitts prosecuted the case and Attorney Warren Williams defended father and son. Bail was fixed in the son's case at $1000.

CARUSO PRESENT IN LIKENESS.

"Don't wreck your life on pride
...and dumbness, as so many men and
...women do."

"If this is true of us all, it is doubly and trebly true of women. It persists in even the lowest of the sex, and as long as there is a shred of womanhood left in one, you can arouse this instinctive desire to help those who need her and depend on her.

"It is this spirit that makes women stick to brute husbands who beat them, and mistreat them, and drag them down into the depths poverty. If you have ever tried to get such a woman to leave a renegade husband, you know that, nine times out of ten, she will refuse, saying: 'But what would he do without me? He needs me.' And that settles it. She would have to be dead in her coffin before she would be deaf to that cry for help from the helpless.

"We often wonder why women who are married to good, strong, upright men, men who can stand on their own feet, turn quitters and renege their marriage vows more often than the women who have rotters, and ne'er-do-wells, and philanderers and loafers for husbands. The reason is that the woman knows that the strong man doesn't really need her, and that the weakling does.

"He dips into that inexhaustible fountain of maternal pity that makes a mother always love the black sheep among her children the best because he needs her most.

"It is universally conceded that no other men are as good and kind to women as are American men, and that the American husband is the paragon husband of the world, yet for all of that America holds the high divorce record.

"I often think that the reason for this is because American men ask too little of their wives. They monopolize the blessedness of giving in the family. They do all the sacrificing, they do all the suffering, and because they deny their wives a share in the toil and sweat that go into the making of the home, the woman never really feels that she is a vital part of it. Her life blood hasn't gone into building it up, so she is careless about breaking it up as we are about the things that have not cost as much.

"No man makes a greater mistake than when he tries to save his wife from every hardship. It is on the battlefield that women, as well as men, find their soul. It is the stress of circumstance that calls out what is best and finest in a woman. It is only the women who know what it is to love something more than they do their own ease and who find a joy in sacrificing themselves for the good of another, who are really women. The balance are dolls.

"So, son, if your wife doesn't treat

Making More Money.

College Student Bets on His Memory and Wins Enough to Pay Expenses.

According to the announcements in the magazines, about all one has to do to have an error-proof memory is to send for any one of a number of "courses" which enable the student to remember names, faces and telephone numbers which would otherwise slip beyond his mental grasp. But, having developed a memory of this kind, what is one to do with it?

J. H. Berry of St. Louis has answered this question, at least to his own satisfaction, by making his memory make enough money for him during vacation time and at odd moments throughout the year to pay for his entire college course—to say nothing of its coming in very handy whenever examination periods roll around. Berry started in by memorizing a lot of miscellaneous dates in history—dates that the majority of people never heard of. Then he filed these away in his mental pigeonholes until he had a fairly complete collection of them, covering all the years of modern and ancient history. At first he would answer questions just to develop his "remembrance faculty," but, when he found that no one could puzzle him, he started taking hikes throughout the surrounding country, stopping every now and then and collecting a crowd around him by the simple expedient of mounting a box and announcing that he would pay a $5 forfeit to any one who could stump him with any question relating to the dates in history, statistics or any other subject of a similar nature—the questioner to pay 5 cents if the question were answered correctly.

The offering of odds of a hundred to one never failed to draw attention and Berry was kept busy for anywhere from fifteen minutes to an hour replying to the questions that were fired at him. If there were any doubt as to the correctness of his replies Berry would produce one of a number of vest-pocket reference books and permit the questioner to see for himself—and then, in nine cases out of ten, he would sell the book. During the year he had to pay the $5 forfeit only twice and his returns gave him a nice little nest egg.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Automotive Plague.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Is it not a standing disgrace to the city of Los Angeles that it should be known nationally, as the worst city in the world for the number of deaths and accidents caused daily by automobiles?

Is it not a disgrace that this fact is published almost daily to the world by the local press?

Yet notwithstanding these conditions which are self-evident, nothing is being done by the authorities to rectify this frightful state of affairs.

Conditions cannot get better, and are bound to get worse unless some drastic means are immediately adopted to abate this evil.

There may be plagues of a virulent nature in the Far East, but in the Far West the automotive plague has the whole country by the throat, and a remedy must be found irrespective of cost.

Are our guardians of public safety absolutely incompetent to grasp, and deal with the situation? If they are is it not about time that they are removed, to make way for competent parties that have the ability and nerve to act for the protection of the public, and call a halt to this most dangerous situation.

Have read several letters recently published in your paper on this subject, and have noticed that some parties have suggested that there is a device known as a speed indicator that will afford protection to the citizens. Personally I know nothing about a device of this nature; but if there is anything of this character in existence, and it will in any way afford the public any protection, why do not the proper authorities investigate the same, and if the device is found to be in any way efficient, compel its use on all cars.

The public wants protection, and must have it at any price. they are getting tired of making undertakers and hospitals rich.

Here are men, women and children being daily slaughtered and maimed in every direction, in this city and in the county, and what is being done for their protection? Nothing as far as I know, and can see.

I want to know why and how long the authorities are going to ignore the rights of the citizens to the protection that it is their duty to afford, if it is possible to do so. From what I have learned from reliable authorities, I am satisfied that protection can be had, if the authorities will make an impartial investigation of recently invented safety devices, and if found of value for the protection of life and property, compel the use of the same. I hope that your paper will lend its powerful influence to cause a rigid investigation into this subject, as I am sure from my humble standpoint, that there is nothing that is more important that can be given grave consideration than the protection of the lives of men, women and children.

Have Men Brains?

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I note in a recent letter to The Times one from Mr. E. W. Welty, in which he advocates that we "reduce the female body to its original state," and states that women dress to "keep the men guessing." Evidently they are doing some guessing.

However women may vary the style of their dress, let us note first that they must wear clothes; that the laws of our land compel them to wear clothes; and that until very recently those laws were made entirely by men.

However all that may be, why place all the responsibility on the women? Why shouldn't the men take some share of the responsibility for "perpetuating the race and stabilizing the sex instinct?" Aren't men supposed to have brains and a certain amount of self-control? Or are they just like the beasts of the field—the male ever pursuing?

And even the male animal has a code of "hands off" when the female is mated and rearing her young—which is more than can be said of some men, judging from their actions toward married women and unmarried alike.

MRS. E. J. HATHAWAY.

"A Taxpayers' Revolt."

GLENDALE, Aug. 9. — [To the Editor of The Times:] I am applauding your editorial, "A 'Taxpayers' Revolt," in The Times July 22, with both feet. "Lay on MacDuff."

Now the word "revolt" is susceptible of two definitions. The first, to drive or turn back. The second, an outbreak or uprising against established authority; the throwing off of allegiance and subjection. Does The Times admit or imply that the people of this State have surrendered their sovereignty to the plunderbund and that we have got to resort to a "revolution in order to recover their sovereignty, or simply turn the rascals out? To a man up a tree, it would look as though we would have to combine the two actions in one in order to get the desired results.

A taxpayers' revolt. Huh! What are they going to revolt against? Who put the plunderbund into possession and control of the State of California? The taxpayers. (And let me say right here, that every consumer in the State is a taxpayer, for the enormous amount of money collected and consumed by the taxeating plunderbund machine is added to the cost of living.) Haven't we got just what we voted for? We ordered the goods and why squeal now because we have to pay the freight?

Who is responsible for that freak, the direct primary law, which made it possible for a machine-controlled Legislature to disfranchise every voter in the State of California of the right to have a voice in the selection and nomination of candidates for office? The taxpayers.

It is by this system that the plunderbund machine is able to carry the elections and keep control of the State; and the taxpayers are responsible for the machine system. The taxpayers made it possible for the machine to exist; and they alone can put it out of existence. There is only one way for them to throw off their burdens from taxation; and that is to elect and send to the Legislature and fill the State offices with men who will do their bidding and work for the good of the people; and if they will not do that, turn them over to the Ku Klux Klan or to some of our sistern with blood in the eye and they will behead them for high treason.

It is the taxpayers' right to command and not to implore.

Now, Mr. Times, you do not need a candidate for Governor; but the taxpayers do need a fearless, independent leader. You cannot scrape all the barnacles and parasites off the ship of state by changing governors under the present machine system. If you want to cure the rabies amputate the tail just back of the ears, then you will have accomplished something worth while. Just so long as we continue the endless chain of letting the same men send themselves to the Legislature and to the other offices we will have the same state of affairs as we have now. Root out the whole rotten system, root and branch; and maybe we will have a chance to recover our rights of free suffrage and have a voice in the selection of our representatives.

Today we have no government of the people, by the people, or for the people; but a government of the machine, by the machine and for the machine. It is time for the taxpayers to call a revolt; get back the rights which we traded off for the privilege of paying whatever the plunderbund saw fit to assess against us.

Turn the rascals out.

O. H. JONES.

Advice to Movies.

PASADENA, Aug. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What is the matter with the moving pictures?

I am just a tired old mother, but I have an opinion. How I have loved the "movies" for years! They have been a godsend to me. The price of admission is high for me now, but I used to go very often when I could afford to. Mary Pickford, God bless her. I have seen everything she has done since the old Biograph days. Never has she put on the screen anything other than a fine, clean play. Well I remember her "Pess of the Storm Country." I am hoping she will yet play the part of Juliet, for she would make the greatest Juliet living.

Having been a fan so long, I venture the opinion that the trouble with the movies today is this,—they are not dramatic enough. The photoplay is perfect, the settings wonderful, the material very much worth while, usually, but the stories are incidental rather than dramatic.

Do not think the public does not know or feel when anything is wrong. Take, for instance, Douglas Fairbank's "The Mark of Zorro." Did the public like it? Well, I should say they did! Why? They may not know why, but it was dramatic. The director's name was Mr. Fred Niblo I noticed on the screen. I do not know who he is but I do know that he produced a splendidly constructed play. I could go see "The Mark of Zorro" every week for years. Not only is it a delightful love story told in the most dramatic way but the whole story is based on the situations of daring enterprise and deliverance, a most refreshing change from the threadbare situation of adultery.

When I get wise enough, I shall evolve a new situation. Since dramatists have gone to the very depths of physical degradation for some of theirs, I will scale to the heights for mine. How would transfiguration do right now?

If we should take out of the picture audiences all over this country the free lance writer, the would-be free lance writer and their friends, the little theaters would have to close. It is right, therefore, that the producers give the free lance writer respectful consideration. Buy a story of him once in a while just to cheer him up. The healthy life of the business depends on him. He probably won't write an Adultery, but a fresh viewpoint might help some. A producer who does not know dramatic construction can spoil any story either from established author or the unknown.

The outside writer knows the hearts of the world, for he lives among them. How about "Over the Hill"? Wonderful characterization, but it was dramatic, too.

Just as it used to be very hard for a normal school graduate to go out to teach under a superintendent who was not a normal school graduate, for the one could not understand the other, so is it hard for the student of dramatics to try to please a director who is not dramatic.

Let writers and directors both go to school.

Question: How can I be sure jelly is done without using a thermometer? A. M. S.

Answer: Dip a spoon in the boiling juice, raise it above the liquid and let the contents run off the side of the spoon. When jelly is done, the last portions will leave the spoon in a sheet, instead of in drops. When this stage is reached, remove the jelly from the fire at once.

Q.: Has the penalty in golf for moving a ball from an unplayable lie been changed? R. E. G.

A.: The rules for golf formerly provided that a ball could be moved from an unplayable lie and teed up at a penalty of the loss of two strokes. Under the present rules, the penalty is a loss of one stroke and distance, the same as the penalty for a ball out of bounds or a lost ball.

Q.: What fertilizers should be used in getting ground ready for cowpeas? S. W.

A.: To obtain the best results with cowpeas, the Bureau of Plant Industry advises that poor or unproductive soils be fertilized with about 200 pounds of acid phosphate and fifty pounds of potash to the acre.

Q.: How much larger is Australia than the island, which is second in size.

A.: Australia, containing 2,946,... [illegible] square miles is about three and a half times as large as Greenland, the island which is second in size.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS

Mrs. Jones Here.

Mrs. John Percival Jones, charming Southern California social favorite, is being given a warm welcome home. She has just arrived from New York, where she has been the past year, and is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones.

She was one of the guests at Mrs. Hancock Banning's tea and matinee party at the Assistance League affair on Wednesday afternoon. She is to be here a month.

Surprise Wedding.

Friends of Miss Norris Johnson and Blake Gillman Smith, both of this city, will be pleasantly surprised to learn of their marriage, which took place at noon yesterday at "Highland," the country estate of Gen. and Mrs. Oscar Fitz Long in San Francisco.

The couple had been engaged for some time, but the fact had not been announced. They were guests at a house party given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Salem Pohlman (Sally Long,) whose marriage was a recent brilliant event in Bay City society circles. Mme. Requa, grandmother of Mrs. Pohlman, and one of the notable women of San Francisco, planned everything for the young bride, who is a well-known beauty. Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman stood with the couple. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin embroidered with pearls, and wore the veil Mrs. Pohlman wore at her wedding.

At the wedding breakfast there were sixteen guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Loren Langmade Hillman (Doris Collins) of this city. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Johnson, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Allester Smith of Los Angeles. Because of the serious illness of Mrs. Johnson's son, Judge Johnson, she was unable to attend the wedding.

By Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell was hostess at a charming tea party Wednesday afternoon at her home on Westmoreland Place. There were forty guests.

Motor Party.

Mrs. Hancock Banning and Mrs. James Soutter Porter are planning a motor trip to Montesey shortly, where they expect to spend some time at Mrs. Porter's cottage there. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Sterrow probably will go with them, and perhaps their charming young friend, Miss Alma Zodiack of New Orleans, who is now in Santa Barbara.

Picnic Party.

A charming innovation in the general round of gayeties was the fishing and picnic party that Mr. and Mrs. William May Garland gave yesterday at Rainbow ranch in honor of their two sons, Marshall and Jack Garland, and their house guest, Louis Sudler of Chicago. Mrs. James Soutter Porter was a member of the party.

For Bride-Elect.

One of the enjoyable functions arranged for Miss Felice Englebrandt of Santa Monica, who is to marry Frederick Nugent Thomas of Los Angeles this month was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Jean Gerald Drake of Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica.

Asters and dahlias were used in an attractive floral decoration. There were places for Misses Kathryn Bixby, Ruth Palmer, Elizabeth Bixby, Adealiade Bundy, Kathleen Ruddy, Marian Ruddy, Phyllis Flowers, Marjorie Flowers, Margaret Hiskey, Betty Bundy, Ethel Ogden, Kathryn Black, Dorothy Whitney and Mmes. J. Lang, W. Holliday and B. Stoneham.

The wedding is set for Wednesday, the 31st inst., in the spacious Italian garden of the Englebrecht home, at 607 Georgina avenue, Santa Monica.

Prominent Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Scott and daughters, Misses Florence H. and Louise P. Scott of 1414 Eighth avenue, Fort Worth, Tex., are interesting visitors here, and have taken apartments at the Georgelle, at 667 South Carondelet street, and will remain two weeks longer. Mr. Scott is a member of the prominent Texas law firm of McLean, Scott and McLean.

They have been extensively entertained while here. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Smith of South Ardmore avenue and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hunt of South Serrano street, having given dinner parties in their honor. On Wednesday they were guests at a dinner party given by their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Scott of 915 South Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena.

In Del Monte.

The California State Golf championship tournament, which is always a motif for a round of social events, will be held in Del Monte from September 3 until September 11, and will be attended by numerous Los Angeles and Southern California society folk, among whom will be Mr. and Mrs. Everett K. Seaver, Howard J. Shoder, Robert Pitcairn, Albert Llewellyn Cheney, H. O. Warner, F. M. Hunter, A. B. Macbeth, Llewellyn Bixby, Miss Mildred Landreth, Miss Margaret Cameron, Dr. Paul Hunter, E. S. Hunter, Edward B. Tufts and others.

SUNDAY NIGHT TEA.

A good home Sunday night tea is the following:

Devilled Tomato on Toast
Tiny One-egg Muffins
Iced Cocoa Angel Food Cake
Peach Mousse.

Devilled Tomato on Toast: Turn 1 can of tomatoes into the top of a double boiler and let heat, then add onion grated, 2 tablespoons of melted butter, 1½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar and 3 eggs which have been well beaten but not separated. Stir until the eggs have thickened the mixture slightly, then turn it into a covered vegetable dish or tureen. Previously prepare two pieces of toast for every person to be served and place these pieces on a platter on the supper table alongside the covered dish containing the devilled tomato. Have a pile of empty plates before you. To serve each person, take up a piece of the tomato in the tureen, turning it over in the liquid so that it will become well moistened, then place it on a empty plate with the fork; pour a ladle of the liquid over this moistened piece of toast, and serve. The extra pieces of toast will remain on the platter until each person is ready for a second helping, when he will pass up his empty plate and be served as before.

Angel Food Cake: Beat the whites of 8 eggs until frothy; add to them 1 teaspoon cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff, then add 1 cup of sugar very gradually, beating constantly. Mix together ¾ cup of flour and 1-3 teaspoon salt and fold these into the egg-whites. Last add ¾ teaspoon of vanilla and turn into an unbuttered angel cake pan. Bake 45 minutes (possibly 50) in a moderate oven. After it has risen and begins to brown, cover it with a buttered piece of paper.

Peach Mousse: Dissolve 1 tablespoon of gelatine in ¼ cup of cold water. Heat it with ¾ cup of powdered sugar until dissolved. Then cool the mixture and strain it into 2 cups of stiffly-whipped double cream. Beat in 2 cups of raw peach pulp, turn into wet mold, and pack the mold in equal parts of ice and salt, allowing it to stand in this way from 3 to 4 hours.

Devils Food Cake is also delicious to serve with the mousse. To make this cake cream ½ cup butter and add gradually 1 cup of sugar. Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until thick and add to them another cup of sugar. Now combine these two separate mixtures in a medium-size mixing bowl and add to the bowl alternately 1 cup of sweet milk and 2 2-3 cups of flour which has been sifted with 5 teaspoons of baking powder and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Add the whites of 4 eggs beaten stiff, 4 squares of unsweetened chocolate melted, and ¾ teaspoon of vanilla. Turn into an angel cake pan and bake 50 minutes in a moderate oven.

If it is desired to serve sandwiches instead of the muffins called for in the above menu, the following are a good choice:

Raisin Sandwiches: Cook until thick ¼ cup each of chopped seedless raisins and chopped walnuts, 1-3 cup of sugar, and ⅓ cup of boiling water, then flavor with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice or a few drops of lemon extract. When it cools it is ready to spread on the bread.

American Cheese Sandwiches: Cut crusts from thin, stale slices of white bread and place between each two slices thinly-sliced mild American cheese, sprinkling the cheese with salt and cayenne to suit liking. Saute these sandwiches in a frying pan in butter until delicately browned on both sides. This melts the cheese slightly and makes a delicious sandwich.

Making Better Meals

Better meals do not always come from better cooking. Poor food, soused with condimental sauces or savory gravies, will not build muscle or brain. Better meals come from simple, natural foods that are rich in body-building material.

Shredded Wheat

with milk and fruit makes the ideal, perfect meal. You couldn't buy a better meal with a million dollars—and it only costs a few cents.

Two Biscuits with milk make a nourishing, satisfying meal and cost but a few cents. Delicious with raisins, prunes, sliced bananas, peaches or other fruits.

PORT NOTES.

Capt. J. H. Binder, nautical adviser for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, left Los Angeles Harbor yesterday afternoon on the passenger steamer Newport for Baja California, where he will survey the position of the stranded liner San Jose, which went on the rocks on Asuncion Island several days ago.

The Newport will stop at the scene of the wreck in order to land Capt. Binder, who will spend several weeks on the island unless the San Jose is pulled off into deep water before that time. The Pacific Mail liner is fast on the rocks a short distance from the scene of the wreck of the United States submarine H-1, which was lost on Asuncion Island two years ago.

The United American Line freighter American is expected at the harbor today on her visit here since the war. The American is in-bound from New York and Boston, after resuming her former run in the intercoastal service.

The Jap steamer Amazon Maru, the Danish motorship Asia, the Dutch steamer Kinderdijk and the Norwegian motorship Theodore Roosevelt are scheduled to sail today, the motorships for San Francisco, the Jap steamer for Kobe, and the Dutch steamer for Rotterdam.

The Shipping Board freighter Lake Hector, recently allocated to the Pacific, Caribbean & Gulf Line for service between Mobile, New Orleans and Los Angeles Harbor, sailed from New Orleans for this port last Saturday.

The Dutch tank steamer Silvanus, scheduled for completion at the Southwestern shipyard this week, will sail for San Francisco next Monday to be placed in operation by the Shell Company, local representatives for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company. The Silvanus will take a cargo of oil to China.

SPELLACY WILL IS NOW FILED FOR PROBATE.

NUMEROUS BEQUESTS MADE; WIDOW IS APPOINTED AS EXECUTRIX.

The will of Timothy Spellacy, prominent and well-to-do oil operator, and member of the Los Angeles county Civil Service Commission, who died at Lima, O., July 28, was filed for probate yesterday.

By the terms of the will his widow, Elizabeth Spellacy is appointed executrix and D. Joseph Coyne and the Security Trust and Savings Bank administrators. The family residence at 426 South Normandie avenue is bequeathed to the widow; 10,000 shares of oil stock are left to a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Mooney, and $1000 to each of four nieces and two nephews. St. Vincent De Paul Society was left $500. The balance of the estate is to be converted into a trust fund for the benefit of a daughter, Mary Spellacy, and a granddaughter, Florence Slaney.

WHO TOOK PLACE OF BURLESON?

Postal Authorities Seem Never to Have Heard of Ninety-First.

"1921 Reunion—Ninety-first Division, Los Angeles, September 24 and 25."

The postoffice late in July got a request to return undelivered mail in envelopes marked thus to 1112 Central Building, Los Angeles. The request was on a government form card.

Yesterday the card came back to J. W. Sutphen, one of the Three Hundred and Sixty-second Infantry, chairman of the Publicity Committee of the division reunion, marked "Ninety-first Division of what?"

Our one-piece vitreous china lavatories save housework and last a life-time

The illustration above shows a portion of a page advertisement appearing in the August numbers of American Magazine, Good Housekeeping, House and Garden and in this week's issue of The Literary Digest.

Equipped with the integral supply nozzle and overflow cleansing device, the Madbury Lavatory combines features that lessen the burden of housework and still provide the utmost in bathroom sanitation.

These Thomas Maddock advantages eliminate the work of cleaning metal parts on the lavatory slab. They save the worry of keeping the overflow clean and provide the convenience of supplying any desired temperature of water from a single vitreous china supply nozzle.

Made entirely of glistening, pure white, almost unbreakable vitreous china which will never chip, crack or craze, this fixture will give years and years of service without repair and without even showing wear.

Come in today and let us show you the many features of this fixture that will justify your giving it a place in your home.

ASSOCIATION OF HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE PACKERS
58 East Washington St., Chicago

Pineapple Filled Cookies—½ cup butter or butter substitute, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, 2¾ (to 3 cups) flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Pineapple, after draining. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and well beaten egg. Mix sifted flour and baking powder and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Chill, roll out, put a tablespoon of drained pineapple and one half teaspoon of sugar in the center of one cookie, place another cookie on top and press edges together. Place on a slightly floured baking sheet and bake in a hot oven.

Pineapple Custard Meringue—4 eggs, ½ cup sugar, 3 cups scalded milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup Hawaiian Crushed or Grated Pineapple, ¼ cup cherries. Beat slightly two whole eggs and the yolks of two eggs, reserving whites for the meringue. Add sugar and salt. Gradually add scalded milk, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens enough to coat a spoon. Mixture must be stirred while cooking or it will curdle. When cold, add pineapple and cherries. Beat the two egg whites stiff and spread over the top, place in a very hot oven long enough to brown.

KIRK FINDINGS PUBLIC TODAY

Board to Report on Guar... Officer's Case.

Accused is "Fundamental... Sound," Says Hutton.

Major Submits Defense and Denies Radicalism.

Publication of the findings of the military board of inquiry that heard charges of asserted radical activities preferred against Maj. H. E. Kirk of the Los Angeles National Guard officer will be made in Sacramento today by Adjt.-Gen. Borree.

The board of inquiry, following a session of three days, finished hearing yesterday when Maj. Kirk submitted his defense. Capt. Fenton Johnson of Sacramento, a member of the board, left last night for his home, carrying the board's findings and recommendations to the Adjutant-General.

Members of the board, which included Maj. Frank S. Hutton, senior officer, Maj. J. B. Dixon and Capt. Glover, declined to indicate the findings of the findings, but Maj. Hutton made this statement:

"We have heard all the charges brought to our attention, have examined approximately thirty witnesses and have heard Maj. Kirk. While I am not at liberty to give you the official findings of the board I can say that in my own opinion Maj. Kirk is fundamentally loyal."

RADICALISM CHARGED.

Charges against Maj. Kirk were filed with Gov. Stephens by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association through Secretary Zeehandelaar and included the allegation that Maj. Kirk was associated with radical activities in San Diego in 1913 and that he served "as a committee to welcome Emma Goldman and Ben Reitman when the anarchists visited San Diego nine years ago."

In Maj. Kirk's defense, which he submitted yesterday in person, he admitted that he was at one time a member of the Socialist party, but that he severed that connection several years ago and, further, that he had never been in complete harmony with the party's platform.

Maj. Kirk denied that he had welcomed Miss Goldman and Reitman in San Diego, asserting that he had at one time represented Miss Goldman in San Francisco as her attorney when she was accused of a misdemeanor, and that he merely called on her in San Diego. It was during his visit with the famous anarchist, Maj. Kirk testified, that the San Diego police photographer obtained a picture of Kirk seated with Miss Goldman on top of a bus.

BACKED BY OFFICERS.

According to Maj. Hutton, this second officer, in whose behalf a majority of National Guard officers in this district submitted favorable testimony, emphatically denied any sympathy formerly or at present with the anarchistic principles professed by Miss Goldman and Reitman.

"Maj. Kirk told us," said Maj. Hutton, "that his only object in joining the Socialist party was because of his strong belief at that time that the public should own all public utilities and that at that time the Socialist party was the best vehicle to accomplish this object.

"He said that he was never in full accord with the platform of the Socialist party and emphasized his loyalty to the United States; testimony of those associated with him bore to the effect that Maj. Kirk has been a loyal and an efficient officer."

RATE HEARINGS SET.

Lumber Tariffs Unfair, is Charge of Pittsburg Manufacturers.

A group of four cases, brought by the Redwood Manufacturers Company of Pittsburg, Contra Costa county, involving lumber rates to Los Angeles and other points in that vicinity, is set down for hearing before Commissioner Loveland of the State Railroad Commission for Monday, September 12, in San Francisco. Defendant carriers are the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe separately and each road in conjunction with the Remco Steamship Company. It is charged that by present lumber tariffs Pittsburg, the home of the complaining company, is discriminated against at Southern California points by both roads. Kirk Submits Defense and Denies Radicalism.

Publication of the findings of the military board of inquiry that heard charges of asserted radical activities preferred against Maj. H. E. Kirk, of the Fourteenth Battalion National Guard officer, will be made in Sacramento today by Adjt.-Gen. Stevens.

The board of inquiry, following a series of three days, finished its labors yesterday when Maj. Kirk completed his defense. Capt. Fontaine Williams, of Sacramento, a member of the board, left last night for his home, carrying the board's findings and recommendations to Adjutant-General.

Members of the board, which included Maj. Frank S. Hutton, senior officer, Maj. J. D. Dixon and Capt. Williams, declined to indicate the nature of the findings, but Maj. Hutton issued this statement:

Charges against Maj. Kirk were filed with Gov. Stephens by the Metal Trades and Manufacturers' Association through Secretary Zeehandelaar and included the allegation that Maj. Kirk was associated with radical activities in San Diego in 1917 and that he served "as a companion" to welcome Emma Goldman on her release from Blackwell's Island when the anarchist visited San Diego nine years ago.

Maj. Kirk's defense, which he presented yesterday in person, he admitted that he was at one time a member of the Socialist party, but declared that connection severed years ago and, further, that he had never been in complete harmony with the party's platform.

Maj. Kirk denied that he had welcomed Miss Goldman and Reitman to San Diego, asserting that he had only as one representative Miss Goldman's San Francisco attorney when she was accused of a misdemeanor, and that he merely called on her in San Diego. It was during his visit with the famous couple, Maj. Kirk testified, that a San Diego police photographer took a picture of Kirk seated in a police car on top of a bus.

SUPPORTED BY OFFICERS.

Brig.-Gen. Hutton, this afternoon, in whose behalf a group of National Guard officers in the district submitted favorable reports, emphatically denied any disloyalty or at present unAmerican principles professed by Miss Goldman and Reitman.

"I told you," said Maj. Hutton, "that my only object in joining the Socialist party was because I had a strong belief at that time that the people should own all public utilities and that at that time the Socialist party was the best vehicle to accomplish this object.

"I told you that I was never in full accord with the platform of the Socialist party and emphasized my loyalty to the United States; testimony of those associated with him bears out the fact that Maj. Kirk has been a loyal and an efficient officer."

Peter Smith Unfair, in Charge of Pittsburg Manufacturers.

A group of four cases, brought by the Redwood Manufacturers Company of Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, involving lumber rates to Los Angeles and other points in that vicinity, is set down for hearing before Examiner Loveland of the Railroad Commission for Monday, December 12, in San Francisco. The carriers are the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe separately and each road in conjunction with the Kosmos Steamship Company. It is charged that by present lumber rates from Pittsburg, the home of the complaining company, is discriminated against in Southern California by both roads. Rates relating to these points are as follows: rates from Arizona and from California points, it is declared, although the haul in some cases is twice as great.

The rail carriers are charged with refusal to establish joint rates with the Kosmos company, while it is said they do join rates with other carriers for greater distances.

STUDY RAILWAYS HERE.

Federal Officials Seek Light on Accounting Methods.

Uniformity and accounting as practiced by Los Angeles railroads is being studied this week by a group of five prominent railroad men from Australia, who are in this country to make a study of railroading. Wednesday they went through the Southern Pacific offices. They will remain till the end of the week. Here are the following officials of government railways in Australia and New South Wales: C. [illegible], chief storekeeper; H. [illegible], superintendent; [illegible], signal engineer; [illegible], controller of stores; and E. Hopkins, stores officer.

"Own Your Own Home" Plan Used For Plant Here.

the structure, extending from the basement to the top floor, will be a twenty-foot bay, which will contain the elevators, stairways, smoke-stacks, pipe vents and service vents.

Plans call for the installation throughout the building of the type of equipment required by light manufacturing industries. Each floor will contain a 200-watt electric outlet, and power cables run in conduits, so arranged that separate meters can be provided for each tenant. All ten floors will also be supplied with gas mains and individual meters, as required.

HEAT BY STEAM.

Steam heat will be furnished to all floors from a boiler room and heating plants to be located in the basement of the building. A special feature will be a steel spiral freight chute running from the top floor to the shipping-room on the first floor, with openings on each floor to permit the deposit of outgoing freight.

Plans provide for the installation of one high speed passenger elevator and three freight elevators, which will serve all floors, including the basement. A vacuum cleaning system, with four outlets on each floor, is to be installed, and provision will be made for a central telephone station to be located in the third floor rest rooms, if the tenants desire a central station.

The building will contain about 375,000 square feet of floor space, exclusive of the basement. The walls of all four sides of the structure will be composed of steel sash, with double strength glass, and with sufficient ventilating area for each floor. An automatic sprinkling system, with tanks and automatic alarms, is also to be established on each floor, including the basement.

ALL-YEAR PLAN WINS EASTERNER.

Publicity Expert Says Campaign is What the Southland Needs.

An eastern opinion indorsing the need for an organization through which all of the East can learn that Southern California is attractive at any time of the year, was received yesterday by the All-Year Club of Southern California, in a letter from Brooklyn. The writer of the letter, a well known publicity expert, stated that several of the New York and Brooklyn newspapers had carried articles telling briefly of the new plan for letting the world know the advantages of summer residence in Southern California. The following excerpt from the letter was made public at the All-Year Club headquarters yesterday:

"I understand that your association has been formed to encourage the advertising of Southern California as an all-year tourist resort. If that is true, bully for you! It is about time that our misinformed Easterners learned that Southern California is attractive at any time of the year.

"The one great mistake made in the past regarding the advertising of Southern California has been that an impression was given that your region was tropical in winter and similar in temperature in summer to Florida. If, however, a consistent and truthful campaign is put over, telling tourists just what they can expect to find in the way of climate out there in your land of blossoms, why, you ought to be deluged with a steady year-'round flood of tourists, enough to overwhelm you.

"However, do you realize what a lot of hard work you have ahead of you, and what obstacles are facing you here in the East whence the bulk of your looked-for tourists must come? Have you ever thought that the fame of Southern California as a land of sunshine, roses and other good things would die out in the East?"

"One factor in this is the constantly increasing view of Southern California as virtually synonymous with Florida. We have a very clear idea here in the East of what Florida is, and if we think of Southern California in the same light, you can see readily enough what it is bound to lead to."

The Retail Shoe Dealers' Association yesterday joined the ranks of contributors to the All-Year Club, and the association pledge of $1000 per year was added to the club's assets.

MISSION PLAY BODY SUED.

The Mission Play Association was made a defendant yesterday in a suit filed by Petra S. de Rievera to recover $1580 said to be due in a real estate deal. By this deal it is asserted that the association acquired a piece of land at San Gabriel from the plaintiff.

EXPAND GREAT MARKET HERE.

Additions to Union Terminal Plant to be Made.

Alterations to Provide More Space for Tenants.

Quarter of Million Will be Spent on Improvements.

Extensive additions to the big plant of the Los Angeles Union Terminal Company are to be made immediately, according to the announcement of Gerald Fitzgerald, vice-president of the company, yesterday. To meet the increasing demand for space in the market, the company has taken over the old Pacific Electric freight depot, which adjoins the present buildings of the Union Terminal Company, and alterations which will convert the buildings into a modern establishment for wholesale produce merchants will be started about September 1, according to Mr. Fitzgerald.

The buildings acquired by the Union Terminal Company comprise two long structures, with a frontage of 1100 feet on Eighth street. They are served by seven spur tracks, two of which, however, will be used as make-up tracks for the freight trains, which will serve the remainder of the Union Terminal group.

TO LAY TRACKS.

The Pacific Electric freight depot will be removed to the old shops of the company, which lie between the Union Terminal buildings and Alameda street. Additions to these buildings, 150 by 100 feet, are now being made by the railroad company, and spur tracks will be laid so as to give ready access to the buildings, one of which will be used for harbor freight, while the other two will handle the inbound and outbound freight.

In the old freight depot the Union Terminal Company will install offices for wholesale produce dealers, partitions, ice boxes, box and crate-making platforms, and a modern drainage system for vegetable packing. Contracts for the remodeling of the buildings have been awarded to the Wurster Construction Company. The project, including the alterations to be made on the Pacific Electric shops for the railroad company, will represent an investment of about $250,000.

DEMAND FOR SPACE.

The enlargement of the market facilities was made necessary by the great demand for space, said Mr. Fitzgerald. The volume of business done by the Union Terminal has increased greatly since the removal from the old plant on Sixth street to the present location, the value of the commodities handled being more than four times that of former years. At present there are 110 wholesale merchants and 107 commission brokers housed in the wholesale terminal buildings.

Leases in the new quarters have already been completed with a number of firms, and others are now being negotiated for the remainder of the space. The T. H. W. Liddecoat Company has leased 300 feet of frontage in the new building, while space has also been acquired by Thomas Chung and Company, the California Produce Company, the Los Angeles Produce Company, and the National Produce Company. Arrangements for these leases were made by George A. Bigler, general manager of the terminal company.

JAIL FOR RIDGE ROUTE SPEEDERS.

Justice Says He Intends to Make Driving On Mountain Roads Safe.

Justice Baird announced yesterday that a jail sentence will be imposed on any person arrested for driving twenty-five miles an hour where there is a fifteen-mile-an-hour limit on the Ridge Route. Fast driving on the Ridge Route is dangerous, and Justice Baird says he intends to make the road safe.

HERO TO BE HONORED.

Body of Hollywood Man, Killed in France, Coming Home Today.

The body of George Gilbert Wright, killed in service in France on Oct. 8, 1918, is due to arrive in Los Angeles this morning. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. Mr. Wright was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wright, 1716 Garfield Place, Hollywood. He was a member of Machine Gun Company, Fifty-ninth Infantry, Fourth Division. The burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

KIWANIS OFFICIAL HONORED

The Kiwanis clubs of California held a meeting and gave a dinner last night at the Ambassador in honor of O. Sam Cummings of Chicago, secretary of the International Society of Kiwanis Clubs, who is making a tour of the district. There were 102 delegates present, representing the clubs of Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Oakland, San Francisco, Fullerton, Fresno, Riverside, San Diego, Anaheim and Los Angeles. Leslie B. Henry, who is district governor of California, was toastmaster.

HOT ROW OVER POWER BONDS.

Council Split Wide Open by City's Bargain Sale.

"Never Again," Says Conaway of Secret Agreement.

sion on the power bond sale developed yesterday over the report of the Finance Committee. This report, signed by Councilman Mallard and President Criswell, stated that although the sale of the $1,200,000 harbor bonds issue at this time would be a violation of the Hellman agreement for the purchase of the power bonds, the committee is now trying to find a way out of the dilemma, and will report on this phase in detail as soon as possible.

Councilmen Allen, Mushet and Sparks all voted against the adoption of the report.

Councilman Conaway stated that the Council should not pursue the course of tying up everything for the benefit of one department, and that he would oppose any such policy in the future.

"I voted for the power bond sale because I have made up my mind to help in getting through something that we knew we want. But I am opposed to the system whereby we get money for one department and then tie up indefinitely money for other departments, and allow these other departments to suffer."

"Mr. Conaway knows we were up against a proposition we couldn't get around," replied Councilman Mallard.

"No, I don't know any such thing," came the quick retort of Mr. Conaway. Warm words followed.

HARBOR HAMSTRUNG.

"Mr. Conaway is entirely within his rights, I believe," stated Councilman Mushet, "in saying that he will not vote again for tying up the bonds of any department. It is possible, unless some other arrangement is made, that the harbor improvements will be practically put out of business for a year.

"After great difficulties, the Harbor Commission was able to consummate a contract with the Salt Lake Railroad upon the matter of harbor improvements. Time is the very essence of that contract. Under the present conditions it is entirely possible that we will be unable to fulfill that contract and thus result in having to make large forfeitures."

Mr. Conaway succeeded in getting the floor at this point and directed his statements to Mr. Mallard:

"Mr. Mallard, you with other members of the former Council entered into the tentative agreement to buy the Edison company's distributing system; $13,500,000 was to consummate the deal. Now the Council sells the $13,500,000 worth of bonds and receives not the $13,500,000 we are supposed to, but only $11,965,000. You have then $1,535,000 less than necessary for the fulfillment of that contract, when it might have been possible that you could have received $13,500,000 or practically that much.

"The situation should have been discussed with the Council as a whole.

"From the Finance Committee comes the statement that a check to bind an agreement offering $185,000 more for the bonds than we received came to the committee, but was returned because it came too late.

"We should do business in a business-like way in all respects. I want to feel that I can look at all sides of a proposition before acting on it."

FIFTH FISCAL AGENT.

Mr. Criswell then reminded the Council that no question was before the chair and the discussion came to a close only to be reopened again a few minutes later when the ordinance changing the fiscal agent in New York for the power bonds from the Chase National Bank to the Bankers' Trust Company came up for adoption.

Councilman Mushet declared such a change was against public policy. He asked why the city should designate another fiscal agent in New York, where it already has four. To add another would tie up approximately $25,000 in the bank, he asserted.

"The Council has not received the scratch of the pen to indicate that the Bankers' Trust Company would act; or if it would, whether any charge would be made. Should the customary charge of one-quarter of 1 per cent for the cashing of coupons and one-eighth of 1 per cent for cashing of bonds be made it would cost the city $50,000.

"Gentlemen, there is no assurance before this Council that such a charge will not be made. If the Bankers' Trust Company does exact a charge then our other fiscal agents in the future will demand a charge.

Councilman Wheeler stated that fiscal agents had not in the past charged the city.

"This is the same kind of fairy tales we had the other morning," Councilman Mallard said. "We have never paid anybody for that service and never will."

The ordinance was passed by a 6-to-2 vote, Councilmen Mushet and Sparks voting "No."

TWO LAY CLAIM TO LOST ROLL.

Man and Woman Say They Dropped Money; Seek to Prove Ownership.

A man and a woman appeared yesterday to claim the $500 found by Charles M. Jay. The woman, who did not give her name, said she lost a package of $500 after she had drawn $4000 out of a bank. The man said he had lost that amount. Justice Hinshaw referred them to Mr. Jay, to describe the denominations.

Asserted Bunko King Set Free on Heavy Bond.

Everett A. Hutchins, better known in police circles as "Big Hutch," the convicted bunko king, is at liberty.

Yesterday, Superior Judge Conley approved the individual bond of $50,000 offered to secure the freedom of "Big Hutch" pending his appeal from the judgment of conviction secured in the local courts some time ago, on the charge of having swindled John B. Norris of Decatur, Ill., of $50,000. The sureties were J. I. Johnson, Adelaide Byrnes, J. W. Byrnes, Catharine Doris Prather and R. F. Goings.

A second bond for "Big Hutch's" appearance for trial on the charge that he bunkoed John Swanson of $20,000, in the sum of $5000 was given. Liberty bonds were furnished for this. The second trial is set for September 15.

"Big Hutch" was in court when the order for his release was made, and seemed to be glad to get from behind the bars.

GIVES SCHOOL PLANS.

Supt. Wood Says State Polytechnic Will be Larger and Better.

Plans for the enlargement and betterment of the California Polytechnic School at San Luis Obispo were announced yesterday by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wood in a letter to the local Board of Education. Children more than 14 years of age, who desire instruction in academic and vocational work will be taken care of at the school, Mr. Wood wrote. During the first year, he added, the State will endeavor to specialize in practical engineering and agriculture. He promised an exceptionally strong academic course.

THE NEW WAY TO END CORNS

The Scientific Method—Easy, Gentle, Quick and Sure

A famous chemist, some years ago, discovered a way to end corns. A surgical dressing house of world-wide repute adopted and produced it.

Millions of people use this instant relief and quickly rid themselves of throbbing corns.

The method is Blue-jay—liquid or plaster. One applies it by a touch. The pain stops instantly, and the whole corn quickly loosens and comes out.

Old, harsh methods are supplanted by it. So with corn pads, so with paring. All such ways are folly.

Try Blue-jay on one corn now and see. You will be delighted.

Murder Arrest

RUMFIELD CONFESSES IDENTITY

Roseburg Dentist Found on Farm; Unmailed Letter Relates "Accident;" Will Give Out No Statement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CALGARY (Alta.) Aug. 12. R. M. Brumfield, the missing dentist of Roseburg, Or., arrested there on a charge of murdering Dennis Russell last July 14, under the alleged camouflage of a wrecked motor car with a body mutilated past recognition, for the supposed motive of having it appear that it was Brumfield's body, is believed to have been arrested here today.

The man, whom city detectives and Northwest mounted police are convinced is Dr. Brumfield, was locked in a cell here tonight. He was arrested south of Calgary, where he was working as a farm hand under the name of Norman Whitney.

The man was traced through an express package he is said to have sent to Mrs. Norman Whitney in Roseburg, Or., from Lake Louise. "Whitney" had been ploughing all morning. When Detective Leach of the mounted police and Inspector Richardson of the Calgary police confronted him he turned deathly pale, then, without a word, he held out his arms for the handcuffs.

According to the officers, he admitted promptly he was Dr. Brumfield.

"I have no statement to make," he added.

In his pocket was an unmailed, addressed letter, believed to have been written by him, telling of a plan which Dr. Brumfield took near Roseburg "with another man in the car." The letter said the car was wrecked and "the other man burned," after which the wreck was set afire. Then, the paper said, Brumfield changed clothes with the body of the "accident" and left the country.

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 12.—On the morning of July 14 the wrecked and partially burned automobile of F. M. Brumfield, a Roseburg (Or.) dentist, was found a short distance from Roseburg, where the car had apparently crashed down an embankment.

Beneath the automobile was a charred and bruised corpse which a coroner's jury later identified as that of Dennis Russell, a laborer, whom Dr. Brumfield was alleged to have engaged to blow out stumps. The body was missing, having been blown from the body with dynamite, which the doctor was known to have purchased for blasting stumps.

Dr. Brumfield's wife positively identified the body as that of her husband, but Sheriff S. W. Starmer of Douglas county, stuck to the theory that Russell was the victim and has since maintained an active search for Brumfield.
